Moderate to fresh winds Thursday off Sandy Hook, mostly southwest and westerly. Weather unsettled, with thundershowers probable during the day.

The United States and England will clash today for the first time in seventeen years for the yachting supremacy of the world when Resolute and Shamrock IV. will flash across the line at the Ambrose Light Vessel at 12 o'clock noon, New York time. At that hour the first of the present series of races for the America's Cup will be on.

It is expected that a great fleet of private yachts and excursion steamers will be grouped near the Cup racers as they begin their thirty-mile tussle, although the excursion fleet will hardly equal the standard of 1903 in numbers, because of the Government regulations limiting the number of passengers to lifeboat capacity.

Today's race, however, will have one spectacular and novel feature as compared with the classic struggles of former years—there will be, if plans are carried out, an aerial fleet carrying sightseers, for the airplane companies have booked considerable numbers of passengers at prices which will make this the method de luxe of viewing the marine battle.

All this, of course, "wind and weather permitting."

The weather authorities were optimistic last night and promised westerly winds, at least moderate and perhaps fresh. The note of pessimism was struck when to this was added the statement that showers were probable.

The preparatory signal for today's race will be given at 11:45 o'clock, while the warnng signal will follow ten minutes later. Five minutes afterward, exactly at noon, the starting signal will sound. All these signals will be by whistle.

The time limit on the yachts is six hours. If the leading boat has not completed the course in that time it is no race.

If bad weather causes the postponement of today's race, the first of the series will be sailed Saturday. If todays' race is held, the second will be sailed on Saturday. The third race will be fought out on Tuesday, and if further races are necessary, they will be sailed every day thereafter. The series will continue until one yacht has won three races.

The course for the first race is fifteen miles to windward and return, which will not give the yachts as many points of sailing as would a triangular course. The race will be a beat into the wind and then a run directly before it, or a run before the wind and a beat back, according to the direction of the wind. The strongest point of sailing of both contestants is declared by the yachting experts to be windward work.

Shamrock Under Big Handicap.

The Shamrock will have to sail fourteen seconds faster per mile than the American defender, for she has to give a time allowance of seven minutes and one second to her rival for the thirty miles.

Intense interest has attached to this question during the last few weeks, How much will Resolute get from Shamrock? This most vital point, over which there have been floods of discussion, was settled yesterday afternoon by the America's Cup Committee of the New York Yacht Club, which officially announced that the challenger would be forced, because of her greater sail area, displacement and quarter beam measurement, to give the defending yacht the tremendous handicap mentioned.

Considerable money at evens has been wagered on this aspect of the race, the betting being whether the Shamrock IV. would have to give more or less than six minutes to the Resolute.

The big handicap which has to be accorded by the Lipton boat comes as a decided surprise to the yachting experts. These experts have been pretty generally agreed that the Shamrock IV. is the faster craft, boat for boat, but whether she can give such an allowance is a matter of grave doubt. This is the biggest handicap ever given by

Maj. Schroeder, Champion Flier, Quits Army When Reduced

WASHINGTON, July 14.—Major R. W. Schroeder, holder of the world's altitude record, has resigned his commission, it was reported in Washington today, on good authority. It is said that Major Schroeder is displeased because orders received yesterday at McCook Field, Dayton, Ohio, reduced his rank to that of Captain.

He had been selected to fly in the Gordon-Bennett Cup race in France in September and his friends here say that he did not wish to go to France wearing a Captain's bars when he had achieved such fame as a flier. Some months ago Major Schroeder made a world's altitude record of approximately 36,000 feet in the air. He lost consciousness at that height and fell more than five miles, but the machine righted itself at 2,000 feet and he landed at Dayton, Ohio, safe but partially blinded for some time after.

DE CORDOVA SLAYER INSANE, SAY DOCTORS

CHAUFFEUR CHOKED VICTIM

Physician's Report After Examination Indicates That Mrs. De Cordova Was Attacked.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW LONDON, Conn., July 14.—Bernard Geissler, the chauffeur, who killed Mrs. Florence Mercedes De Cordova and then committed suicide on Monday afternoon on a lonely road near North Stonington, first choked and attacked her, according to Dr. F. I. Payne of Westerly, R. I., who found black and blue marks on the throat of the dead woman and other evidence of violence.

Further information gathered about Geissler today indicated that he was a paranoiac, that he had planned his crime for some time before he committed it and that he had timed his gasoline supply so as to have it run out on the lonely Stonington road, where he would have a pretext for inducing Mrs. De Cordova to leave the car.

Geissler had lashed himself into a frenzy, according to other chauffeurs, by continually envying the wealth and position of his employers and the other guests at the Hotel Griswold. While he usually contrived to put on a docile and respectful manner in their presence, he frequently came into the chauffeurs' quarters in a passion, abusing the guests at the hotel and the wealthy class in general, holding himself to be unappreciated and persecuted and raving that he had been swindled out of $1,000,000 by the Government and was a better man than the people he served.

Roommate Tells of "Brainstorm."

Harry Fenton, a former roommate of Geissler at the Summer resort, said that in one of these outbursts Geissler had exclaimed:

"You will see my name in the headlines of the newspapers some day."

This prediction came from Geissler in one of his transports against a guest at the hotel, his smoldering rage against the well-dressed and prosperous persons whom he saw daily at the hotel having been brought to the surface by a fancied injury. Geissler had been standing in front of the porch of the hotel in the evening during a concert, and staring at Mrs. De Cordova, according to Fenton, when a man accidently bumped into him in the darkness. Forgetting his usual suavity, he made a scene, charging the guest with jostling him purposely.

"He had a brainstorm," said Fenton. "He was so wrought up over his fancied grievance that he could not sleep when he came to our room. It was then that he exclaimed that I would see his name in the headlines of the newspapers some day."

Geissler habitually gloried in fancied tributes to himself when he was not engaged in magnifying slights, according to Fenton. He would come in on some occasions bursting with conceit because Mrs. De Cordova had ridden in the front seat of the machine when she was the only passenger. In these exalted moods, after something had occurred to flatter his vanity, he would call Mrs. De Cordova his "wonderful madame," Fenton said.

The other chauffeurs had looked on Geissler as harmless, despite his violent manner of talking. It was learned from relatives of the De Cordova family that fits of temper and pique had been noticed in Geissler lately, but had been overlooked because he was an old and tried employe. He had been with the family at the Hotel Griswold for five successive seasons and had undergone a gradual change, according to chauffeurs who had observed him, from a likable man without grudges or grievances to the partly disguised madman which he had been during the last Summer.

According to another chauffeur, who refused to allow the use of his name for fear of annoying his employers, Geissler had adopted a domineering tone toward Mrs. De Cordova.

"You've Got to Go," He Said.

On the day of the murder, he said, the chauffeur had called up Mrs. de Cordova on the telephone, while she was in her apartment at the hotel, and said:

"It's a lovely afternoon. Do you want to go for a ride?"

Mrs. De Cordova's reply was in the

LAST DELAY GIVEN GERMANS

Immediate Yes or No Answer Was to Have Been Demanded Today.

MILITARY CHIEFS ON HAND

United States Would Have Been Invited to Participate in Occupation of the Mines.

By EDWIN L. JAMES.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

SPA, July 14 (Midnight, by telephone to London and thence by cable).—The Germans at 11 o'clock tonight notified Premier Lloyd George that they would accept the Allies coal terms calling for deliveries of 2,000,000 tons monthly.

The German cabinet backed down after it heard of an Allied decision to serve Chancellor Fehrenbach tomorrow with an ultimatum to accept the Allied terms or the Ruhr basin would be occupied immediately, and sent Dr. Bonn to the British Premier to inform him of its decision.

The ultimatum as prepared called on the Germans to accept within twenty-four hours the arrangement whereby the coal deliveries had been reduced to 24,000,000 tons a year. The document pointed out that German coal production being 120,000,000 tons annually, the allied demand was not excessive.

It further set forth that the coal conditions in France and Italy were worse than in Germany, and that this was due in considerable part to destruction of coal mines by the German armies, and that for this Germany must bear the consequences, since the Allies did not admit that this destruction was a military necessity.

Following the rupture of the conference yesterday because of the stubborn attitude of the Germans Marshal Foch reached Spa this morning. At 11 o'clock a meeting of the allied premiers took place. It adjourned at 1 o'clock, with the statement that the Ministers were awaiting the arrival of Field Marshal Wilson.

Wanted Hamburg Seized.

It is understood that Mr. Lloyd George and the Italians favored further talks with the Germans, the Italians pointing strongly to the danger of military action by the Allies, fearing it would stir up the Bolshevist movement. M. Millerand on the other hand was for quick action, favoring the occupation of Hamburg to bring further pressure than occupation of the Ruhr.

Shortly after lunch Dr. Simons called on Mr. Lloyd George. It is understood he argued that the German Government was faced with great difficulties. In addition to mentioning the attitude of Hugo Stinnes, he showed a telegram received from the German Miners' Union stating that they could not increase their working hours. Mr. Lloyd George is said to have advised him once more to make a settlement.

The German Cabinet at 4 o'clock had a meeting with Stinnes, who maintained his refusal to agree to the allied figures. Stinnes appeared to be boss of the German situation. It seemed he was stronger than the Government. The Cabinet members then went off to the cottage occupied by Chancellor Fehrenbach.

At 6 o'clock the allied Premiers met again. Lloyd George is said to have suggested that they might try to make concessions to meet the Germans, but Millerand said he would make no more concessions and that it was a question whether or not the Allies were to back down before the Germans. It appears that the Allies then went into the question of how to cure the Germans of their stubbornness. It was said at the end of the meeting at 8:30 that they were in accord.

Although the Germans have given in on the coal question the allied Ministers have abandoned all hope of fixing the figure for the German indemnity, which was the primary purpose of the Spa meeting. This affair will be handed back to the Reparations Commission, where it was before the Spa project was launched.

It is reported in French circles tonight that Lloyd George remarked at luncheon today that he was sorry he ever thought of the Spa Conference. However, there is this much to be said: The Germans having yielded on the coal question, there will be other conferences with them and they will have opportunity of arguing their reparation case. If Germans are intractable and break up the Spa Conference it is very improbable that the Allies will confer with them again on the fixing of the indemnity figure, but will do the fixing themselves.

Armies in Readiness to Move.

SPA, July 14 (Associated Press).—Before the Germans made known that they had yielded to the allied demands the Supreme Council had decided to ask the American Government to join in the occupation of the Ruhr.

All details had been arranged for the movement of troops. Field Marshal Sir Henry H. Wilson, Chief of the Imperial British Staff, arrived here tonight. Marshal Foch of France, is also on the ground. The occupation was to

French Embassay in Berlin Robbed of Flag on Fete Day

BERLIN, July 14.—An unknown person removed the French flag hoisted today over the French Embassy in honor of the anniversary of the taking of the Bastile.

M. de Marcilly, French Chargé d'Affaires in Berlin, formally protested to the German Government.

The French flag was raised during the morning. Several mobs, which gathered were easily dispersed, but soon after noon some one entered the embassy, climbed to the roof, removed the flag and disappeared with it. Another flag was raised and there was no further incident.

DR. TILDSLEY LOSES; E. D. SHIMER ELECTED

BITTER DEBATE AT SESSION

Successor, 67 Years Old, Indorses Defeated Rival's Policy Against Radical Teachers.

Dr. John L. Tildsley was defeated for Associate Superintendent at yesterday's meeting of the Board of Education, and District Superintendent Edgar Dubs Shimer was chosen in his place by a vote of 4 votes to 2, six members of the Board being present. Mrs. Emma Murray, who favored Dr. Tildsley, could not get to the city from her Summer camp at Lake Champlain. Her presence, however, would not have changed the result. Joseph Yeska, who has been seriously ill, came to the meeting just to vote for Associate Superintendent and left soon after the first and only ballot that was taken.

The two members who voted for Dr. Tildsley were Arthur S. Somers and Frank D. Wilsey, formerly the President and Vice-President of the Board. The four who voted for Dr. Shimer were Vice-President Ryan, Dr. John A. Ferguson, Mr. Yeska and President Anning S. Prall. As a result of the election Dr. Tildsley is now without a job.

Mr. Somers asked that, owing to Mrs. Murray's unavoidable absence, the election be deferred until the first regular meeting in September. He said that it was desirable that all the members be present when the election took place. Mr. Ryan objected, declaring that there had been a great deal in the press and among certain organizations against delay in electing the Associate Superintendent. Mr. Somers replied that the Board had, at its last meeting, postponed the election because of the absence of Mr. Yeska, and he thought the same courtesy should be shown to Mrs. Murray. In view of Mr. Ryan's statement, however, he was willing to have a special meeting called for the purpose in August. His motion to that effect was defeated.

Shimer Indorses Tildsley's Policy.

Mr. Shimer, who lives in Flushing, L. I., said last night that the news of the consideration of his name for the post of Associate Superintendent was a great surprise to him.

"When Mr. Ryan told me for the first time last night that Dr. Tildsley was not going to be re-elected, that it would be some one other than Dr. Tildsley or myself, I was surprised. I said to Mr. Ryan, 'You ought to re-elect Dr. Tildsley.' That I should be mentioned for the post came like a stroke of lightning. I did not seek the position.

"Dr. Tildsley took the right stand in his campaign against radicalism in the schools. I am heartily in sympathy with the action that has already been taken by the Board of Superintendents in demanding full loyalty of students and teachers.

"The question of freedom of speech does not enter into the work of the teacher. It is his teaching ability that counts. A teacher is not at liberty to bring up anything at all in the classroom. I am heartily in accord with Dr. Ettinger as expressed in his letter to Dr. Wolfson, published last Sunday in THE NEW YORK TIMES. I stand behind every sentiment expressed in that document.

"Long before these recent disturbances took place in the high schools I called the attention of Dr. Ettinger to a teacher who was disciplined for disloyal utterances, and his license was not renewed. That has been my attitude squarely from the beginning.

"I certainly believe we want to make all our pupils loyal and patriotic Americans. We have no use for any other kind. But I do not believe in absolute repression. It is a large question. I have always done what I could to show the illogical reasoning of socialism, and I am opposed to the doctrine.

"As for Socialists being school teachers, I may say that I do not inquire after a man's political opinions, his race or religion when he enters the school room. So long as he does not obtrude notions that are not proper for the children into the class room I pay no attention to him."

Politics, Says Dr. Tildsley.

Dr. Tildsley said last night that his defeat meant the re-introduction of politics into the public schools and the nullification of efforts that have been made in the last twenty-five years to eliminate politics from the educational system of the city.

"Each member of the Board of Education assured me personally that he had nothing against me," he said. "There is only one explanation possible, and that is that the Mayor or-

ADOPT RADICAL PLATFORM

FORTY-EIGHTER CHIEFS BOLT

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Thursday, July 15.—The newly organized Farmer-Labor Party early this morning nominated Parley P. Christensen of Salt Lake City, Utah, for President on the second ballot. He won over Dudley Field Malone of New York, the only other candidate left in the race after the first ballot.

The vote was 191.5 to 174.6 for Malone.

The nominee is a radical lawyer who served two terms as District Attorney of his County, was twice defeated for Congress on a Progressive Republican ticket and gained high favor with labor three years ago when he defended the first I. W. W. to be prosecuted in Utah.

The vote on the first ballot was:

Parley P. Christensen	121.1
Eugene V. Debs	68
Henry Ford	12.3
Lynn J. Frazier	9
Herbert Bigelow	7
Louis F. Post	1.7

Through an apparent error South Dakota's numerical vote was counted instead of its electoral. Its other votes were scattered among candidates who had withdrawn.

A second ballot was started at once after all but the highest candidates had been dropped.

The swing back to Christensen after he had withdrawn his name was the sensation of the convention. The States had nearly finished their caucuses for the first ballot when Christensen men ran through the hall announcing he would run if nominated.

The Early Sessions.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, July 14.—The third party today voted down a minority platform report by 308 to 125, and then adopted unanimously a majority platform framed on radical labor lines.

It was decided at a night session to name the new organization the Farmer-Labor Party.

Positive announcement was made by Robert M. La Follette, Jr., that his father, the Wisconsin Senator, would not accept under any circumstances the nomination for the Presidency on the platform as decided upon.

When the night session began, it was found that a boom for Dudley Field Malone of New York for first place on the ticket had grown in the hour the delegates had snatched for supper.

The third party men and women realized that they still had to choose their standard bearers and give the new political venture a name, and, as all of them were anxious to get through and get away, they started the night proceedings in perfect order.

Labor Constitution Adopted.

The Chairman declared the first order of business to be the adoption of a constitution for the new party. It was agreed that a committee from the component organizations should draft a constitution to be passed upon at a party meeting next June and to become operative in August, 1921. Meantime the Labor Party's constitution, with only minor changes, was adopted in order that the party might function temporarily, under some sort of organic law.

While the constitution was under discussion the convention learned that a number of the Committee of Forty-Eight leaders had held a caucus during the recess and had decided to bolt. Among the secessionists were George L. Record of New Jersey, Allen McCurdy, and Amos Pinchot of New York, and Gilson Gardner of Washington, D. C. J. A. H. Hopkins, Executive Chairman of the original Committee of Forty-Eight and most of the committee delegates, elected to remain in the united party.

The bolters left the hall and went back to the Hotel Morrison to endeavor to reestablish their State and national organizations.

To Be Called Farmer-Labor Party.

With the constitution disposed of, the convention turned to the selection of a name for the new party. A North Dakota Non-Partisan Leaguer suggested the name of Farmer-Labor Party, saying that neither the farmer nor the labor group could win alone. The delegates jumped to their feet and cheered the suggestion loudly. Another suggestion was the People's Party.

The name Farmer-Labor Party was adopted by unanimous vote.

A plank on education inadvertently omitted from the platform was adopted. It favored democracy in education and education for democracy and a Federal

Talk of Making Moore Democratic Chairman And Drafting Cummings for Speaking Tour

Special to The New York Times.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, July 14.—The suggestion was made here today that, in view of the effectiveness of his "keynote" speech at the San Francisco convention, Homer S. Cummings, Chairman of the old National Democratic Committee, might be drafted as a campaign speaker and that Edward H. Moore, National Committeeman for Ohio, might be chosen to head the new National Committee.

Governor Cox said that he had talked with Mr. Moore over the long distance telephone this morning; that he had been fully restored to health and would be here on Sunday in time for the meeting of the National Committee.

"Did Mr. Moore tell you whether he would accept the position as Chairman of the National Committee?" was asked.

"He did not," said the Governor. "Personally I have not given any thought to the subject. It is the practice, I understand, to give consideration to suggestions of the nominee in the selection of the National Chairman. If, however, I should find that the National Committee has decided views on the question of who shall be its head, I shall not seek to impose my own views on that body, but abide by its judgment."

Whether Mr. Cummings would care to remain in his present post the Governor said he had no means of knowing.

"The keynote speech Mr. Cummings made at the convention was a great speech," he added. "I have no doubt Mr. Cummings will be greatly in demand when the speechmaking campaign gets under way."

Governor Cox announced this afternoon that the meeting of the Democratic National Committee next Tuesday would be held in this city instead of in Dayton. The notification ceremony will be at Trail's End, the Governor's suburban home near Dayton. The date for the ceremony will be fixed when the National Committee meets.

HARDING RESENTS SUFFRAGE ATTACK

Declares He Is Impatient Over Charges That Republicans Oppose Women.

GLAD IF SOUTH RATIFIES

He Urges Republicans in Tennessee and North Carolina to Support the Amendment.

Special to The New York Times.

MARION, Ohio, July 14.—Prompt ratification of the suffrage amendment, so that all American women may vote in the national election in November, is his "earnest desire," said Senator Warren G. Harding today, in a statement in which he denounced "misrepresentations against the Republican party as opposed to Suffrage."

The Republican nominee requested, in the name of his party, all Republican members of the North Carolina and Tennessee Legislatures to 'vote for ratification, and don't worry who gets the credit for putting it over."

Senator Harding's statement follows:

"My patience is sorely tested sometimes over the persistent misrepresentations of the Republican party, its State Governors and Legislatures, in this matter of woman suffrage. Whether it emanated from mere mischief makers, or from partisan desires, I cannot help resenting it.

"We must insist upon having fair treatment of the party without whose persistent support this great reform would never have had a chance of success.

"A Republican Senate and a Republican House submitted the constitutional amendment for equal suffrage. A Democratic Senate had previously refused to submit it. Twenty-nine Republican and six Democratic States have ratified it.

"Six Democratic States have rejected the ratification resolution and another, Louisiana, has just refused to give it consideration. One Republican State—just one, Delaware—has rejected it. The first eight States to ratify were Republican States.

"When, in 1919, the Republican Senate finally mustered the necessary majority to submit the amendment, there were thirty-six Republican and only twenty Democratic Senators voting for it. But there were seventeen Democratic and only eight Republican Senators voting against it.

Calls Democratic Charges Amazing.

"Whether in Senate or in House, in Congress or State Legislatures, the record shows that the Republicans have been the persistent and the effective supporters of this measure. In such circumstances—circumstances that are thoroughly familiar to everybody—it is simply amazing that Democratic managers should now have the audacity to be assuming that they are the friends on whom the cause must depend if it is to succeed.

"For myself and the Republican Party I earnestly desire that ratification may be accomplished in time to give the whole body of American women the ballot next November. I am wearied with efforts to make partisan advantage out of the situation. I hope there will be ratification, and I don't care a fig whether it is secured through a Republican or a Democratic State. I will rejoice if North Carolina will do it or if Tennessee will do it, just as I would rejoice if a Republican State did it.

"There will be glory enough for the Republican Party, no matter whether the thirty-sixth State is Republican or not. If any word of mine could possibly be influential with any Repub-

LABOR COMMENDS DEMOCRATS' STAND

ISSUES ANALYSIS OF PLANKS

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 14.—Further evidence that the responsible leaders of organized labor will advocate the election of Governor Cox as President was furnished in a statement issued tonight by the American Federation of Labor favoring the Democratic platform as against the Republican platform.

The statement, which takes the form of an analysis of the Democratic platform, embracing a comparison between the proposals submitted by labor and the planks written into the platform in San Francisco, is signed by Samuel Gompers, President of the Federation, and by three of its Vice Presidents, Joseph Valentine, William Green and Matthew Woll. These are the four spokesmen of organized labor who, by direction of the Montreal convention, appeared before the Democratic Committee on Resolutions, of which Senator Carter Glass was Chairman, at San Francisco on June 29.

"It is but fair to say," the Federation's analysis declares in conclusion, "that the Democratic platform marks a measure of progress not found in the platform of the Republican Party. In relation to labor's proposals the planks written into the Democratic platform more nearly approximate the desired declarations of human rights than do the planks of the Republican platform."

Republicans as well as Democrats in Washington interpret the Gompers-Valentine-Green-Woll statement as meaning that the leaders of organized labor intend to do everything within their power to elect Cox and defeat Harding. In the face of this statement, Republicans say that they must make their fight for the labor vote by direct appeal to the rank and file of labor rather than to its leaders.

The statement is regarded as taking on additional significance in view of the fact that recently the Federation issued a summary of the votes cast by Senator Harding on measures in which organized labor was interested. The summary set down Senator Harding as being unfriendly in most instances on labor legislation.

Text of Labor Statement.

Here is the text of the statement issued by the Federation tonight:

"Upon the recommendation of the Executive Council and with unanimous approval of the recent convention of the American Federation of Labor, held in Montreal, Canada, the proposals of labor submitted to the Committee on Resolutions of the Republican Party at Chicago for inclusion in the Republican platform were submitted in identical form to the Committee on Resolutions of the Democratic Party in San Francisco, Cal., on June 29 for inclusion in the Democratic platform.

"The Executive Council authorized President Gompers and Vice Presidents Valentine, Green and Woll and such other Vice Presidents as might be able to go to San Francisco to appear before the Committee on Resolutions of the Democratic Convention meeting in that city.

"On June 29, 1920, President Gompers and Vice Presidents Valentine, Green and Woll appeared before the Committee on Resolutions of the Democratic National Convention and presented the

AIM OF GOV. COX'S CAMPAIGN

To "Pave the Way for Peace With Honor," He Says.

SEES HARDING REACTIONARY

Says Senator Purposes to Hark Back to Days of Thirty Years Ago.

HAS A SUFFRAGIST VISITOR

She Says 17,000,000 Women Voters Expect Him to Put Pressure on Tennessee.

Special to The New York Times.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, July 14.—Governor James M. Cox declared today that his campaign would be devoted to the task of paving the way for peace with honor and for a readjustment of the affairs of civilization. The statement was made in reply to one by his Republican opponent, Senator Warren G. Harding, in which the Senator insisted that the League of Nations issue had been forced upon the Democratic Party by President Wilson; that the Democratic National Convention, under pressure from the White House, had made it the paramount issue through declarations in the platform, and that the candidates were giving blind obedience to the Presidential mandate.

"Senator Harding," the Governor said, "has made two definite announcements—that he purposes to hark back to the days of thirty years ago, and that he will make of his front porch a listening post. This means that he will be as far removed from the running current of progressive thought as the Senatorial oligarchy of Lodge and Penrose and Smoot has been removed from the heartbeats of the American people for a year or more.

"My campaign will be dedicated to the task of bringing peace with honor, of readjusting the affairs of civilization, and of creating a new day out of which we will make the best of the lessons of the past. Therefore the things that the Senator believes vital and pertinent from his isolated perspective will not, in all probability, be so regarded by me. His last statement is but a reiteration of what has been said in the Senate time after time, so that if this campaign on the one hand develops into mere morning sessions of the Senate, you will very readily perceive the uselessness of daily response."

This was the first statement made by Governor Cox since his nomination in which he has permitted himself to be quoted with regard to his attitude on what will be the dominant issue of the campaign. The statement, in addition to shedding light on the attitude he intends to take on the League of Nations covenant and the peace treaty, branded Senator Harding as a reactionary and gave pretty clear indication regarding the Governor's purpose of making a special appeal for the progressive vote throughout the country.

The Governor believes that this element among the voters will decide the election and regards the record he has made during his three terms as Governor of Ohio as one that will materially strengthen this appeal.

Further indication of this purpose was given when Governor Cox was asked in the course of his conference with the newspaper correspondents this afternoon what he thought would be the effect of the third party now in process of formation.

"If the purpose of the third party is merely a disciplinary one I think it is logical to assume that it will visit its vengeance on the party in the majority in States where the various organizations entering into the third party formation sprung from at the time when those organizations first appeared," was his reply. "Aside from that, I have no doubt that the thought of the country is predominantly and decisively progressive. And I think that progressive votes will be intelligently cast where they will count."

Visited by Life Prisoners.

Governor Cox has done a great deal to reform the prison system in Ohio and to introduce humanitarian methods in the treatment of prisoners Today four life prisoners from the Ohio State Penitentiary came to the State House bearing a message from the inmates of that institution congratulating the Governor on his nomination and wishing him success.

The four prisoners, who are "trusties" employed in the office of Warden P. E. Thomas, came without a guard after having given their word that they would return. The Governor was not, however, aware of this, and when the spokesman for the four prisoners, a big, upstanding, rather prepossessing fellow, approached him the Governor was not quite certain whether he had to deal with a man convicted of a crime or an escort sent along to make sure of the return of the prisoners. It took adroit questioning on the part of the Governor before the status of his visitor was established.

First the Governor asked him how long he had been "down there."

"I have been there ten years," was the reply.

"Well, how do you like your work?" the Governor then asked.

"It's all right, Governor," the man replied. "The Warden has been very good to me."

Then the Governor understood. He explained, after the visit, that it was not the first time an inmate of the penitentiary had called on him at his office in the State House. He said he always made it a point to have a man on whose behalf a plea for executive clemency had been made brought before him so that he could look him over and question him. But the four life prisoners who called on him today as bearers of the message from their fellows, the Governor said, were the first ever let out on a mission without some one to guard them.

"Have you found out whether they got back to the prison?" one of the correspondents asked the Governor, some time after they had gone. A blank expression fluttered over the Governor's face.

"No," he replied, "it never occurred to me to ask, and I suppose I should have done that. However, I suppose I would have heard if they were missing. I do not know of more than one instance where the word of a prisoner to me was not good."

The spokesman for the prisoners carried the following letter from the Warden, explaining their mission:

Ohio Penitentiary,
Columbus, Ohio, July 14, 1920.
Hon. James M. Cox, Governor of Ohio,
Columbus:

My Dear Governor: The attached communication was sent out to me this morning from a committee of prisoners from the inside of the institution, and I have decided to send it on to you by a committee of life prisoners who are "trusties" working in the front offices of the institution.

I am sure that whatever consideration is given this communication will be greatly appreciated by the entire inmate body. Yours very truly,

P. E. THOMAS, Warden.

Praised for Fairness to Convicts.

The message they bore, which was signed "Sincerely yours, a Committee of Inmates," besides tendering congratulations, asked the Governor to "drop in informally," preferably some Sunday morning at the chapel service. The Governor has been in the habit of paying such visits from time to time. Here is an extract from the message:

> We, who are for the present shut off from the world of the free, are oftimes liable to be bitter against those who sit in the high places, but you have always met us on the grounds of human fellowship. Sometimes our pleas to you have been rejected, but they have always received consideration, and always have you treated us fairly, and always has your judgment been tempered with mercy.
> Your life must be an inspiration to all of us, for it shows that in America all things are possible. It proves that, with a right purpose and with the courage to stick to the end, no matter how fate seems against us, a man can always win.
> Many times have you given to us hours of your time that could have been spent with more profit to yourself, and we wish you to know that we appreciate your kindness and the unselfish spirit that has always prompted you.

The Governor said he would comply with the request a week from Sunday. As he bade his visitors good-bye he shook each one of them by the hand, with some words of encouragement and cheer.

Militant Suffragist a Caller.

Among the Governor's callers today was Mrs. James Rector, a local woman architect and suffragist of the militant type. She came to make arrangements for the conference between Governor Cox and representatives of the Woman's National Party, composed of militants, which has been scheduled for Friday afternoon prior to the Governor's departure for Washington. Miss Alice Paul, one of the leaders in this party, is expected here tomorrow in advance of the rest of the delegation.

"In my opinion," said Mrs. Rector, "the women will tell the Governor that he must see to it that the Tennessee Legislature ratifies the Federal suffrage amendment or brave the anger of 17,000,000 women voters at the polls in November. No one doubts that Governor Cox has sufficient influence to make the Tennessee lawnmakers do justice to the women if he chooses to bring the necessary pressure to bear. We have confidence in Governor Cox, for he has always been ready to listen to our demands and follow our suggestions."

Republican Makes "Friendly Visit.

Governor Cox had a Republican caller this afternoon, Walter F. Brown, former Bull Moose leader in Ohio, now one of three Republican candidates for the nomination for United States Senator, to succeed Senator Harding. Governor Cox explained that it was a "friendly visit."

"From my own observations I should judge that Ohio will go Republican this year," said Mr. Brown to THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent. "Ohio is a Republican State. It went Republican in 1918. In 1916 it went Democratic because President Wilson managed to keep the country out of war until after the election."

"With peace sentiment so pronounced in Ohio," the correspondent asked, "it is not likely that the Democrats' platform declaration in favor of a League of Nations that would serve as a preventive against war will make a strong appeal to the voters?"

"That might be true, if your assumption that the Wilson League of Nations would prevent war were sound," Mr. Brown replied. "But many people here, as elsewhere, look upon it as an incentive to war. The people here are not for the Wilson brand of League, even though they would like to see this country enter a rational concert of nations, designed to avert wars in the future."

"What about the demonstrated vote-getting ability of Governor Cox?" Mr. Brown was asked.

"He ran 80,000 behind his ticket in 1916. Harding is very popular with the voters in Ohio. He won by 103,000 the last time he ran."

"But," he added, "the situation does not hinge on these two men, but on the principles and policies they represent. The candidates this year are mere incidents. The people want a change. They have had all they want of mutton and now they want beef."

Brown Doesn't Fear Third Party.

"How will the third party affect the situation in Ohio?" was asked.

"I should say the third party, if it materializes, would draw more heavily from among voters who would be likely to vote for Governor Cox," Mr. Brown replied. "What the third party stands for will make little appeal among Republicans, except in a small group of States where the soil has been prepared by Non-Partisan League propaganda or La Follettelsm.

Mr. Brown, who was leader of Colonel Roosevelt's third party in 1912, said in reply to a question that the third party of this year would not attract any following among the old Progressives, who almost to a man had returned to the Republican fold.

"The election in Ohio this Fall," he added, "will be decided by a large and increasing group of voters that does not go blindly with either party."

This is an unusually large group in Ohio, as witness the frequent fluctuation from Republican to Democratic control of the State administration, as well as in the election of United States Senators and members of the House of Representatives. The influx of industrial workers during the war was held largely responsible in some quarters for the Democratic victory four years ago in Ohio. Mr. Brown said that in his opinion this element did not figure very heavily in the result.

"An analysis of the 1916 vote will show," he said, "that the Democratic drift was pretty general and extended to non-industrial sections of the State. A majority of the industrial workers did not vote. They were and are an itinerant element in our population."

ROOSEVELT ON LEAGUE ISSUE.

Willing, He Says, to Let People Decide if They'll Go Back to 1914.

HYDE PARK, N. Y., July 14.—Franklin D. Roosevelt, replying at his home here today to the charge of Senator Harding that President Wilson had forced the Democratic Presidential and Vice Presidential nominees to accept his view that the League of Nations should become the dominant campaign issue, declared he was "quite willing, as I know Governor Cox is, to let the American people decide whether they will go back to the conditions of 1914, or whether they will join with civilization and humanity in this great step forward."

"The attempt by Senator Harding yesterday," he said, "to befog the true League of Nations issue by dragging in the name of President Wilson is merely further evidence of the historical fact that a certain type of Senatorial mind cares more about squaring an ancient grudge against an individual than it does to consider the true welfare of the nation. It is, of course, well known that seven-eighths of the opposition of these Senators is not to the League of Nations, but to the person of the President of the United States himself.

"History will take care of the great part Woodrow Wilson has played. But the Democratic Party enters the campaign with the clear-cut purpose of proving that the World War has not been fought in vain. Senator Harding says: 'Should the Democrats win, the treaty and the League will be ratified.' He is right. No one, probably, not even Senator Harding himself, knows what would happen should the Republicans win. One branch of his supporters, such as Senator Hiram Johnson, assures the nation that a Republican victory means no League of Nations. Another branch, led by such men as former President Taft, assures the nation that a Republican victory means the acceptance of the League with certain undefined reservations.

"The rest of Senator Harding's statement is the usual vague summoning forth of bogies and imaginary ghosts, of horrible pictures of American soldier boys waging war in Poland, Russia and Turkey, and at the end he talks in glittering terms about the charge of 'a surrender of the Republic.'

"I yield nothing in my devotion to the United States to Senator Harding, to Senator Penrose, to Senator Johnson, or to any of their followers. Rather I believe they are the ones who fail to visualize the great future and the independent future of this nation.

"One of the prominent issues is thus becoming early and clearly drawn. A Democratic victory means ratification of the Treaty and the League of Nations, which, as the world knows, is already constituted. A Republican victory means that the United States, with Russia, Mexico and Turkey, shall remain outside. The election of Harding means that in case of future war the United States will enter the war after the conflict has begun. The election of Cox means that the United States, in participation with the other civilized nations of the world, will, through the League of Nations, solve international difficulties and prevent a recurrence of the holocaust of 1914-1918."

ROOSEVELT HERE FOR RACES

Vice Presidential Nominee Will See Yachts from Destroyer.

Assistant Secretary of the Navy Franklin D. Roosevelt, Democratic nominee for Vice President, motored to this city yesterday with his wife and Mrs. James Roosevelt, his mother, to be here for the yacht races today, which he will view from the destroyer which carries the official committee.

He will talk tonight at the Bowery Mission in fulfillment of an engagement made several months ago and then take the midnight train for Washington to prepare for the conference with President Wilson and Governor Cox Monday. Mr. Roosevelt said that as yet he knew nothing of this conference except what he had read in the newspapers, but that he supposed word of it would be awaiting him here or in Washington. After the conference at Washington, he will go to Dayton to discuss campaign plans with the Democratic National Committee.

SUFFRAGISTS START TO CONFER WITH COX

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 14.—Miss Alice Paul, Chairman of the National Woman's Party, started for Columbus this afternoon to lead a delegation of suffragists which will meet Governor Cox at 2 P. M. Friday.

Telegrams were received at national headquarters today from Mrs. Florence Bayard Hilles of Wilmington, Del., Chairman of the party; Miss Winsor of Haverford, Pa., member of the Advisory Council; Mrs. L. Crozier French of Knoxville, Tenn., and Mrs. Isaac Reese of Memphis, Tenn., that they would join the delegation in Columbus. Miss Sue White, Tennessee Chairman, and Mrs. Margaret Crahan Jones of Seattle, member of the editorial staff of The Suffragist, accompanied Miss Paul.

Money in sums ranging from $1,000 to $1 is being contributed to aid in completing the ratification of the suffrage amendment. Senator Phelan of California, who when he first ran for office was opposed by the National Woman's Party because of his anti-suffrage stand, sent a check for $1,000 yesterday to "help win the Democratic State of Tennessee." Senator Page of Vermont has also contributed to the campaign to make his State the thirty-sixth.

Among the gifts of Republican women voters was $500 from Mrs. H. O. Havemeyer of New York and a valuable necklace and pendant sent by Mrs. Bertha Fowler of Colorado. The largest part of the $120,000 so far raised for ratification has been made up, according to the Treasurer of the party, of small sums such as the $5 contributed yesterday by a taxi driver who took a party of suffragists to the station.

HAYS NAMES AIDS HERE.

Five from Executive Committee Chosen to Look After Campaign.

Five eminent Republicans have been selected by Chairman Hays of the Republican National Committee to look after the work of the campaign when Mr. Hays is not in town and to help him in the work when he is here. The five are Charles D. Hilles of New York, ex-Senator John W. Weeks of Massachusetts, Coleman duPont of Delaware, Earl S. Kingsley of Vermont and A. Bascom Slemp of Virginia. They are members of the Executive Committee and they expect to keep within close touch of the headquarters in this city from the moment the campaign gets under way until Election day. Similar groups have been chosen in the headquarters in Chicago, Denver and San Francisco.

Mrs. Corinne Robinson and Mrs. Arthus L. Livermore, the New York State women members of the National Executive Committee, will have offices in the national headquarters and conduct their operations in close touch with men experienced in such work.

The subcommittee in charge of the arrangements for the Harding notification, which is headed by Mr. duPont, and of which Assemblyman Roosevelt and Colonel William Hayward and former Representative Thomas B. Miller are members, announced that detailed plans would be ready for submission to the full committee within a few days.

Two special trains will carry the committee and many other Republicans to Marion, leaving the Grand Central Terminal at 5:30 (daylight saving time) on July 21. The trains are expected to reach Marion at 7:30 o'clock in the morning, July 22, and to start on the return trip that afternoon at 4:30 o'clock.

WOMEN BAN WADSWORTH.

Chenango Voters' League Declares Senator Should Not Be Renominated

Special to The New York Times.

NORWICH, N. Y., July 14.—Declaring that Senator Wadsworth had not properly represented the State of New York, the Chenango County League of Women Voters in convetion here this afternoon unanimously adopted a resolution that he should not again be nominated or elected United States Senator.

Three hundred women, Republicans and Democrats, many of whom were County Committee members, voted on the resolution offered by Miss Lillian Huffcutt of Binghamton, Thirty-fourth Congress district leader. Mrs. Frank A. Vanderlip of New York, was the principal speaker. Others were David F. Lee and James S. Flanagan, Democratic and Republican County Chairmen, Postmaster Moore and Judge James R. Hill.

prepared program of labor's political demands. The committee was presided over by Senator Carter Glass.

"The proposals were read by Vice-President Woll, after which President Gompers addressed the committee for a period of about thirty-five minutes. The committee listened with apparent interest to the reading of the formal proposals and to the address of President Gompers, in which he fully explained the position of the labor movement and emphasized the conditions and causes prompting the submission of the proposals.

"We present here in their order the proposals presented by labor and the planks incorporated in the Democratic platform as adopted by that party convention in every case where there is any plank dealing with the subject.

"The preamble to the declaration of labor's demands is as follows:

"'Labor's demands to be presented to the Republican and Democratic Parties in 1920—Government and all civilization exist for the service of human beings and the promotion of their betterment. Such purposes are best achieved when those who are primarily affected by policies and methods have the power of determining them. Under such conditions only will there be relations of good-will between fellow-citizens and a spirit of true patriotism essential to the best development and unity of our nation.

"'There must be reason for the conviction that citizens can rely upon the Government for impartial maintenance of rights and protection. Such an attitude can result only when principles of human welfare are made paramount to any other consideration. Experience of other countries and scientific information substantiate the contention that sweated industries, overstrained, long and burdensome hours of toil, tend to physical deterioration, loss of mental virility and consequent decreased producing power. Standards of life and work, daily hours of toil and wages have a direct relation to economic progress and development as well as to preparedness for national defense.'

Collective Bargaining.

"Labor's Demand—To promote industrial justice and tranquility and to insure uninterrupted production at its highest efficiency, the right of the wage-earners to organize into trade unions, to select their own representatives and to bargain collectively must be fully safeguarded.

"Democratic Platform—Labor, as well as capital, is entitled to adequate compensation. Each has the indefeasible right of organization, of collective bargaining and of speaking through representatives of their own selection.

Injunctions in Labor Cases.

"Labor's Demand—We pledge our party to maintain the Federal law enacted by Congress, securing to the workers the legal right of voluntary association, for mutual protection and welfare, protecting their rights against unwarrantable issuance of writs of injunction, either prohibitory or mandatory, and guaranteeing the right of trial by jury in alleged contempt cases committed outside the presence of courts.

"Democratic Platform—Labor is not a commodity; it is human. Those who labor have rights, and the national security and safety depend upon a just recognition of those rights and the conservation of the strength of the workers and their families in the interest of sound-hearted and sound-headed men, women and children.

"Comment—While the language of the platform constitutes an indorsement of the labor provisions of the Clayton Act there is no specific condemnation of the abuse of the writ of injunction in labor disputes. However, failure of the platform to indorse the injunctions secured through the efforts of Attorney General Palmer in the miners' case may fairly be assumed to constitute repudiation of that action.

Tribunals for Labor Disputes.

"Labor's Demand—Legislation which proposes to make strikes unlawful or to compel the wage-earners to submit their grievances or aspirations to courts or to governmental agencies is an invasion of the rights of the wage-earners, and when enforced makes for industrial serfdom or slavery.

"We hold that the Government should supply information, assistance and counsel, but that it should not attempt by the force of its own power to stifle or to destroy voluntary relations and policies of mutuality between employers and employes.

"We hold that public employes should not be denied the right of organization, the right of representation for the rectification of grievances and should not be denied political rights accorded to all other citizens.

"Democratic Platform—The nation depends upon the products of labor; cessation of production means loss and, if long continued, disaster. The whole people, therefore, have a right to insist that justice shall be done to those who work, and in turn that those whose labor creates the necessities upon which the life of the nation depends must recognize the reciprocal obligation between the workers and the State. They should participate in the formulation of sound laws and regulations governing the conditions under which labor is performed, recognize and obey the laws so formulated and seek their amendment when necessary by the processes ordinarily addressed to the laws and regulations affecting the other relations of life.

"Neither class, however, should at any time, nor in any circumstances, take action that will put in jeopardy the public welfare. Resort to strikes and lock-outs which endanger the health or lives of the people is an unsatisfactory device for determining disputes, and the Democratic Party pledges itself to contrive, if possible, and put into effective operation a fair and comprehensive method of composing differences of this nature.

"In private industrial disputes we are opposed to compulsory arbitration as a method plausible in theory but a failure in fact. With respect to Government service, we hold distinctly that the rights of the people are paramount to the right to strike. However, we profess scrupulous regard for the conditions of public employment and pledge the Democratic Party to instant inquiry into the pay of Government employes and equally speedy regulations designed to bring salaries to a just and proper level.

"Comment—The platform provisions here set forth are specific in condemnation of compulsory arbitration in disputes in privately owned industry. There is a vagueness in the balance of the first two paragraphs. There is uncertainty as to what the platform means to convey in its reference to the obligation of the workers to the State and the proposal to find a substitute for the right of the workers to cease work when cessation of work is said to endanger the lives or health of the people.

"With regard to employes in Government service it will be noted that the platform declaration quoted at the outset of this analysis in response to the first of labor's demands sets forth the unqualified right to organization, collective bargaining and representation. The final paragraph of the declaration last quoted, however, implies methods in the settlement of disputes in Government employment which cannot be approved as a general statement of Government policy.

Free Speech and Assemblage.

"Labor's Demand—The very life and perpetuity of free and democratic institutions are dependent upon freedom of speech, of the press and of assemblage and association. We insist that all restriction of freedom of speech, press, public assembly, association and travel be completely removed, individuals and groups being responsible for their utterances and actions. These fundamental rights must be set out with clearness and must not be denied or abridged in any manner.

"Democratic Platform—We resent the unfounded reproaches directed against the Democratic Administration for alleged interferences with the freedom of the press and freedom of speech.

"No utterance from any quarters has been assailed and no publication has been repressed which has not been animated by treasonable purpose and directed against the nation's peace, order and security in time of war.

"We reaffirm our respect for the great principle of free speech and a free press, but assert as an indisputable proposition that they afford no toleration of enemy propaganda or the advocacy of the overthrow of the government of the State or nation by force of violence.

Enforcement of Seamen's Act.

"Labor's Demand—National preparedness as well as commercial development in keeping with the importance and the dignity of our nation require that we shall have competent and able American seamen. We urge essential to this purpose the vigorous enforcement of the Seamen's act and the most liberal interpretation of its provisions. We are opposed to any minimizing of present provisions for the protection of seamen and for the safety of the traveling public.

"Democratic Platform—Absence of a pledge of vigorous enforcement of the Seamen's act, which became law under the Democratic Administration, is regrettable and is scarcely compensated for by a declaration elsewhere in the platform as follows:

"We pledge the policy of our party to the continued growth of our merchant marine under proper legislation, so that American products will be carried to all ports of the world by vessels built in American yards, flying the American flag.

Child Labor and Protection.

"Labor's Demand—One of the most important functions of the nation is to protect the health of every child. We declare that we must put an end to the employment for profit of children under 16 years of age.

"Democratic Platform—The platform declares that the present child labor law was enacted under the Democratic Administration and sets forth the further declaration:

"We urge co-operation with the States for the protection of child life through infancy and maternity care, in the prohibition of child labor and by adequate appropriations for the Children's Bureau and the Woman's Bureau in the Department of Labor.

Reduction of Living Cost.

"Labor's Demand—We demand that effective steps be taken immediately to relieve the people of the burden imposed by the excessive cost of living and to eradicate permanently the underlying evils, recognizing fully that no other issue is of deeper interest to the masses of the American people.

"As a comprehensive program of relief and remedy we set forth these demands:

"1. Co-operation should be encouraged as an effective means of curbing profiteering. To stimulate rapid development of co-operatives the Federal Farm Loan act should be extended so as to give credit to all properly organized co-operatives just as credit is now given to individual farmers.

"2. We urge that the United States Department of Labor compile and issue monthly statements of the cost of manufacture of those staple articles which form the basis of calculation in fixing the cost of living.

"3. As a means of aiding anti-profiteering measures the Federal Government should promptly investigate profits and prices. All income and other tax returns should be available for inspection.

"Democratic Platform—The high cost of living and the depreciation of bond values in this country are primarily due to the war itself, to the necessary governmental expenditures for the destructive purpose of war, to private extravagance, to the world shortage of capital, to the inflation of foreign currencies and credits and in large degree to conscienceless profiteering.

"The Republican Party is responsible for the failure to restore peace conditions in Europe, which is a principal cause of post-armistice inflation the world over. It has denied the demand of the President for necessary legislation to deal with secondary and local causes. The sound policies pursued by the Treasury and Federal Reserve system have limited in this country, though they could not prevent, the inflation which was world wide.

"Elected upon specific promises to curtail public expenditures and to bring the country back to a status of effective economy, the Republican Party in Congress wasted time and energy for more than a year in vain and extravagant investigation, costing the taxpayers great sums of money, while revealing nothing beyond the incapacity of Republican politicians to cope with the problems.

"Demanding that the President, from his place at the peace table, call the Congress into extraordinary session for imperative purposes of readjustment, the Congress when convened spent thirteen months in partisan pursuits, failing to repeal a single war statute which harassed business or to initiate a single constructive measure to help business. It busied itself making a pre-election record of pretended thrift, having not one particle of substantial existence in fact. It raged against profiteers and the high cost of living without enacting a single statute to make the former afraid or doing a single act to bring the latter within limitations.

"The truth is that the high cost of living can only be remedied by increased production, strict governmental economy and a relentless pursuit of those who take advantage of post-war conditions and are demanding and receiving outrageous profits.

"We pledge the Democratic Party to a policy of strict economy in Government expenditures and to the enactment and enforcement of such legislation as may be required to bring profiteers before the bar of criminal justice.

"In another plank in the Democratic platform the following dealing with this subject is found:

"'We favor such legislation as will confirm to the primary producers of the nation the right of collective bargaining and the right of co-operative handling and marketing of the products of the workshops and the farm and such legislation as will facilitate the exportation of our farm products.

"We favor comprehensive studies of farm production costs and the uncensored publication of facts found in such studies.'

"Comment—The platform paragraph on co-operation responds largely to labor's proposal. In relation to the second proposal the platform calls for publication of costs of production on farms, but does not call for publication of costs of manufactured articles nor costs caused by middlemen. The platform is silent as to the third proposal and offers no substitute dealing constructively with profiteering but proposes the enactment and enforcement of such legislation as may be required to bring profiteers before the bar of criminal justice.

Immigration and Labor.

"Labor's Demand—Americanization of those coming from foreign lands, as well as our standards of education and living, are vitally affected by the volume and character of immigration.

"It is essential that the additional legislation regulating immigration should be enacted based upon two fundamental propositions, namely, that the flow of immigration must not at any time exceed the nation's ability to assimilate and Americanize foreigners coming to our shores, and that at no time shall immigration be permitted when there exceeds an appreciable degree of unemployment.

"Democratic Platform—The platform is silent on the general subject, though in relation to Asiatic immigration it says:

The policy of the United States with reference to the non-admission of Asiatic immigrants is a true expression of the judgment of our people, and to the several States whose geographical situation or internal conditions make this policy and the enforcement of the laws enacted pursuant thereto of particular concern we pledge our support.

Hours of Employment.

"Labor's Demand—We demand the observance and enforcement of all the Federal maximum eight-hour laws and their extension to comprehend all civil departments of government.

"Democratic Platform—The platform refers to the passage of the eight-hour law under the Democratic Administration and further says:

Laws regulating hours of labor and conditions under which labor is performed, whel passed in recognition of the conditions under which life must be lived to attain the highest development and happiness, are just assertions of the national interest in the welfare of the people.

Workmen's Compensation.

"Labor's Demand—We favor the enactment of a more comprehensive Federal compensation law which will embrace all workers who cannot be provided for by State compensation laws, and we demand that workmen's compensation laws be amended to provide more adequately for those incapacitated by industrial accidents or occupational diseases.

"Democratic Platform—Under this Administration was passed the Workingman's Compensation act (the extension of which we advocate so as to include laborers engaged in loading and unloading ships and in interstate commerce).

Products of Convict Labor.

"Labor's Demand—We demand the enactment of legislation excluding from interstate commerce the products of convict labor.

"Democratic Platform—Silent.

Esch-Cummins Railroad Law.

"Labor's Demand—We demand the repeal of the labor provisions of the Cummins-Esch law.

"Democratic Platform—The President's recommendation of return to private ownership gave the Republican majority a full year in which to enact the necessary legislation. The House took six months to formulate its ideas and another six months was consumed by the Republican Senate in equally vague debate. As a consequence the Esch-Cummins bill went to the President in the closing hours of Congress, and he was forced to a choice between the chaos of a veto and acquiescence in the measure submitted, however grave may have been his objections to it.

"There should be a fair and complete test of the law until careful and mature action by the Congress may cure its defects and insure a thoroughly effective transportation system under private ownership, without Government subsidy at the expense of the taxpayers of the country.

"Comment—The platform calls attention to the fact that defects exist in the Cummins-Esch law and pledges the Democratic Party to their rectification. Inasmuch as the railroads are now under private ownership and operation and their employes no longer in Government employ, it will be observed that in the third plank hereinbefore quoted the Democratic platform declares that "in private industrial disputes we are opposed to compulsory arbitration as a method plausible in theory but a failure in fact."

Federal Courts.

"Labor's Demand—We declare that the Congress of the United States should take action to prevent the Federal courts from continuing the usurpation of authority in declaring unconstitutional acts passed by Congress.

"We further urge that Judges of all Federal courts shall be elected by the people for terms not exceeding six years.

"Democratic Platform—Silent.

Mexican Intervention.

"Labor's Demand—We declare our unalterable opposition to any exercise of force by the United States in compelling the Mexican people to meet unwarranted and unjust demands of those Americans whose sole interest is the exploitation of the people and the natural resources of the Mexican nation.

"Democratic Platform—The United States is the neighbor and friend of the nations of the three Americas. In a very special sense our international relations in this hemisphere should be characterized by good will and free from any possible suspicion as to our national purpose.

"The administration, remembering always that Mexico is an independent nation and that permanent stability in her Government and her institutions could come only from the consent of her own people to a Government of their own making, has been unwilling either to profit by the misfortunes of the people of Mexico or to enfeeble their future by imposing from the outside a rule upon their temporarily distracted councils. As a consequence order is gradually reappearing in Mexico. At no time in many years have American lives and interests been as safe as they now are; peace reigns along the border, and industry is resuming.

"When the new Government of Mexico shall have given ample proof of its ability permanently to maintain law and order, signified its willingness to meet its international obligations and written upon its statute books just laws under which foreign investors shall have rights as well as duties, that Government should receive our recognition and sympathetic assistance. Until these proper expectations have been met Mexico must realize the propriety of a policy that asserts the right of the United States to demand full protection for its citizens.

"Comment—We are firmly of the opinion that our Republic should not attempt to determine which laws shall be enacted by the people of Mexico and that our Government should not constitute itself a censor of the international obligations of Mexico with relation to investors foreign to that country. The splendid spirit manifested in the first two paragraphs in the platform corresponds entirely with the demands of labor with regard to Mexico, and sets forth a policy of international morality in keeping with the highest and best concepts of Americanism.

Conclusion.

"In summarizing it is but fair to say that the Democratic platform marks a measure of progress not found in the platform of the Republican Party. In relation to labor's proposals the planks written into the Democratic platform more nearly approximate the desired declarations of human rights than do the planks found in the Republican platform.

"The delegation of the American Federation of Labor which appeared before the Platform Committee of the Republican Party convention in Chicago presented to the convention of the American Federation of Labor in Montreal the labor proposals which it submitted, and analyzed and compared these with the declarations contained in the Republican Party platform. The convention by unanimous vote adopted and approved that report. The convention authorized and directed a committee to appear before the Democratic National Platform Committee at San Francisco and to present the identical proposals to that committee with the instruction that a comparison and analysis should be made with the proposals and the declarations of the Democratic Party. These we submit in the foregoing.

"The men and women of labor of the United States and her liberty-loving people must judge between the declarations of these parties. The impending campaign and election for President and Vice President, United States Senators and members of the House of Representatives is upon us and the citizenship of our country must determine its own course in electing these candidates for these offices who are most friendly disposed toward labor, justice, freedom, democracy and humanity, and to defeat those who are less friendly or more hostile to these principles.

"Labor of America is not partisan to any political party; it is partisan to principles, the principles of justice and freedom. It undertakes neither to dictate nor control the choice of the workers or the citizenship generally for which party or candidates they should vote, but it would be a palpable dereliction of duty did we fail to place the facts before the voters of our country upon the records of both parties and their respective candidates for public office.

LONGER ODDS AGAINST COX.

Senator Harding Now 2½ to 1 Favorite in Wall Street.

Senator Harding was a 2½ to 1 favorite over Governor Cox in Wall Street betting odds on the Presidential election yesterday. Most previous wagers were at 2 to 1.

James W. Ball & Co. announced that a New York Stock Exchange firm had offered to wager $50,000 on Harding at the new odds. This was not covered by Cox supporters. Another Stock Exchange firm is said to have $10,000 to wager on Cox, but demands odds of 3 to 1.

licans in the North Carolina Legislature, or in the Tennessee Legislature, that word would be: 'Vote for ratification and don't worry about who gets the credit of putting it over.'

"Even if a Democratic State now shall finish the business, the record will still show that twenty-nine Republican and seven Democratic States made up the roll of honor. That is good enough for us."

In view of statements this Spring, even by officers of the National American Woman Suffrage Association, that final credit for the ratification of the Federal suffrage amendment should go to the Democratic Party, Senator Harding's statement is interpreted here as a beginning by Republican Party leaders to bring the woman vote into the party.

His willingness to lift the issue above the level of partisan politics and his promise to rejoice even should the final ratification be by a Democratic State Legislature are regarded by some of his political strategists as an explicit definition of Senator Harding's personal attitude toward suffrage that can leave no doubt as to where he stands on the question.

Senator Harding was visited frequently in Washington by suffrage delegations. He announced his sympathy with the suffrage cause, but took the position that it would not be "becoming" for him to make a formal appeal for ratification until he had been formally notified of his nomination.

The inside story of his conference with Governor Clement of Vermont in Washington two weeks ago never has been told.

When the news of Governor Clement's refusal to convene the Vermont Legislature came, Senator Harding declined to make any further comment beyond a few words of disappointment. That was two days ago, and it was followed by disquieting reports that suffrage pickets would be at the Senator's notification ceremonies with threats of heckling him during his speech of acceptance.

While Senator Harding's view that a formal and public letter to Republican State officials appealing for ratification of the suffrage amendment would not be appropriate before his notification ceremonies, it is thought by his advisers that today's statement is strong enough to imply that appeal without a complete reversal of his previous position.

During the last three days Senator Harding has issued a statement each day bearing on some aspect of the campaign and replying to statements by Governor Cox. When Governor Cox's reply to Senator Harding's League of Nations statement of yesterday was brought to the attention of the Republican nominee this morning, however, he refused to continue the controversy.

"I find nothing in Governor Cox's statement deserving of a reply from me," he said. "It appears useless to me to enter into a debate by wire. Some day I shall make an address in which I will give my views of the desirability and intimacy of a front porch campaign."

Samuel J. Randall of Philadelphia, a lifelong Democrat and son of the late Speaker of the House of Representatives of the same name, has written Senator Harding notifying him of his support of the Republican ticket this Fall.

"This coming campaign is one between those who believe in America for Americans against those who believe in America for foreign entanglements," Mr. Randall wrote Senator Harding.

"No self-respecting American could indorse the Democratic platform as adopted at San Francisco with respect to the alleged League of Nations, and it is the duty of every man and woman in America to destroy once for all the autocratic Government now existing at Washington so that future generations can look back and see it well illustrated that no one man is greater than his country or his party, and that one man cannot take unto himself the right to represent 100,000,000 people abread without first receiving authority as their duly authorized agent to represent them."

Senator Harding was deeply touched today by the receipt of a letter from a man in St. Louis, who formerly had been a prisoner in an Illinois penitentiary.

"Dear Senator," the ex-convict wrote, "please accept my sincere congratulations. I am the who was in prison at Menard, Ill., and you wrote the Board of Parole in my behalf asking my parole for which I feel very grateful. I shall consider it the greatest honor and pleasure of my life to vote for you for President and I firmly believe you will be elected. I have a good job here, and I am making good, thanks to your confidence in me and your kindness to me."

Busy as he is on his speech of acceptance, the Senator took a moment off to thank the man and wish him every success in the future.

Hotel Tubs Popular.

Ralph D. Cole, candidate for the Republican nomination for Governor in the Ohio primaries in August, accompanied by Mrs. Cole and R. D. Cole, Jr., called on Senator Harding today. Upon leaving the Harding headquarters Mr. Cole said:

"Senator Harding will carry the State of Ohio and be elected President of the United States."

Alex Moore, publisher of the Pittsburgh Leader, intimate friend and political supporter of Theodore Roosevelt, was another caller today.

"The fact is the election is all over," he said. "It ended on July 6 when Governor Cox was nominated at San Francisco. I think the result will be a good deal like that in the Grant-Greeley contest."

He said he thought the effect of a third party ticket would be a great help to the Republican Party. All the men mentioned in the third party convention were for Wilson, with hardly an exception. "They have made their party so extreme that it is a Soviet party. Hughes in 1916 lost all those men. Every man in the crowd voted for Wilson."

Mr. Moore arrived here this morning, reserving a room and bath at a Marion hotel. On going to his room he found his tub had another occupant, and he went outside and said a few things to the chambermaid. Tubs in some Marion hotels are community affairs, and when a hotelkeeper finds they are too popular, he turns the water off for a while.

Some one told the maid who Mr. Moore was.

"I don't care if he is the husband of Lillian Russell," she replied. "I think any man who complains when some one else is in his tub is a crank."

How the butcher, the baker and everybody else in Marion will try to make comfortable the large crowds expected here the day of Senator Harding's notification ceremonies, July 22, were outlined today by D. R. Crissinger, Chairman of the local committees in charge of arrangements. The bakers say they can supply 50,000 loaves of bread a day, along with an unlimited supply of buns and doughnuts. As for pies, the bakers say they can bake some, but Marion housewives think they ought to have a chance to show what they can do, and they have promised pies enough to go around, also baked hams and the things that go with them.

Expert caterers from outside also will be on hand with tents for restaurants. A system of smaller lunch stands will be established for the day and churches and lodges, too, will prepare meals.

The local committee has been assured, among other things, that the Marion wienerwurst factory can turn out several tons of sausages daily, and "hot dogs" will be waiting for anybody who wants them.

More than a thousand rooms in private homes have been listed, but a large part of the crowd, it is expected, will arrive by train or automobile in the morning and leave before night. Parking space is ready for 10,000 automobiles, while 150 military police from Camp Sherman will regulate traffic.

Today being Bastile Day, Mrs. Harding, whose grandmother Vetallis came to this country from France, searched Marion stores in vain for French flags to be displayed over the Harding front porch. She found some red, white and blue bunting, and after a few minutes with needle and thread the tri-color was flying from the Harding home.

Cancels Visit to St. Louis Legion.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., July 14 (Associated Press).—Senator Warren G. Harding telegraphed the Committee on Arrangements here today that he would be unable to speak at he dedicatory ceremonies of the American Legion's Memorial Cemetery here July 25.

He asserted that his reason for declining was "inseparable from my candidatorial obligations," but explained no further. He previously had accepted the invitation tentatively and it was believed the address here was to have marked the opening of his campaign.

PLATFORM ADOPTED BY THE THIRD PARTY

"Democratic Control" of Industry and Public Utilities Is Demanded.

PROTECTION FOR STRIKERS

League of Free Peoples and Referendum on War Favored—Want Colonies Given Up.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, July 14.—The platform adopted today by the third party reads:

The American Declaration of Independence, adopted July 4, 1776, states that Governments are instituted to secure to the people the rights of life, liberty and pursuit of happiness, and that Governments derive their just powers from the consent of the governed.

Democracy cannot exist unless all power is preserved to the people. The only excuse for the existence of Government is to serve, not to rule, the people.

In the United States of America the power of government, the priceless and inalienable heritage of the people, has been stolen from the people, has been seized by the few men who control the wealth of the nation and by the tools of these men, maintained by them in public office to do their bidding.

The administrative offices of the Government and Congress are controlled by the financial barons, and even the courts have been proteituted, and the people as a result of this usurpation have been reduced to economic and industrial servitude.

Under the prevailing order in the United States wealth is monopolized by a few and the people are kept in poverty, while cost of living mounts until the burden of providing the necessaries of life is well-nigh intolerable.

Charge Imperialistic Policies.

Having thus robbed the people first of their power and then of their wealth, the wielders of financial power, seeking new fields of exploitation, have committed the Government of the United States, against the will of the people, to imperialistic policies and seek to extend these enterprises to such lengths that our nation stands today in danger of becoming an empire instead of a republic.

Just emerging from a war which we said we fought to extend democracy to the ends of the earth, we find ourselves helpless while the masters of our Government, who are also the masters of industry and commerce, league themselves with the money masters of other nations to prevent self-determination by helpless peoples and to exploit and rob them, notwithstanding that we committed ourselves to guaranty of self-government for all such peoples.

Following the greedy spectacle of the Peace Conference the money masters feared an awakening of the people which threatened to exact for mankind those benefits for which the war was said to have been fought. Thereupon these masters in the United States, through their puppets in public office, in an effort to stifle free discusion, stripped from the inhabitants of this land rights and liberties guaranteed under American doctrines on which this country was founded and guaranteed also by the Federal Constitution.

These rights and liberties must be restored to the people.

Demand for "Industrial Democracy."

More than this must be done. All power to govern this nation must be restored to the people. This involves industrial freedom, for political democracy is only an empty phrase without industrial democracy. This cannot be done by superficial, palliative measures such as are, from time to time, thrown as sops to the voters by the Republican and Democratic parties. Patch-work cannot repair the destruction of democracy wrought by these two old parties, therefore, cannot seriously attempt reconstruction which, to be effective, must smash to atoms the money power of the proprietors of the two old parties.

Into this breach step the amalgamated groups of forward-looking men and women who perform useful work with hand and brain, united in the ——— party [the name Farmer-Labor Party was subsequently adopted] of the United States by a spontaneous and irresistible impulse to do righteous battle for democracy against its despoilers and more especially determined to function together because of the exceptionally brazen defiance shown by the two old parties in the selection of their candidates and the writing of their platforms in this campaign. This party, financed by its rank and file, and not by big business, sets about the task of fundamental reconstruction of democracy in the United States, to restore all power to the people and to set up a governmental structure that will prevent seizure, henceforth, of that power by a few unscrupulous men.

The reconstruction proposed is set forth in the following platform of national issues, to which all candidates of this party are pledged:

Want Protection in Strikes.

1—100 per cent. Americanism.

Restoration of civil liberties and American doctrines and their preservation inviolate, including free speech, free press, free assemblage, right of asylum, equal opportunities and trial by jury; the return of the Department of Justice to the functions for which it was created, to the end that laws may be enforced without favor and without discrimination; amnesty for all persons imprisoned because of their patriotic insistence upon their constitutional guarantees, industrial activities or religious beliefs; repeal of all so-called "espionage," "sedition" and "criminal syndicalism" laws; protection of the right of all workers to strike, and stripping from the courts of powers unlawfully usurped by them and used to defeat the people and foster big business, especially the power to issue anti-labor injunctions and to declare unconstitutional laws passed by Congress.

To Americanize the Federal courts we demand that Federal Judges be elected for terms not to exceed four years, subject to recall.

As Americanism means democracy, suffrage should be universal. We demand immediate ratification of the Nineteenth Amendment and full, unrestricted political rights for all men and women regardless of sex, race, color or creed, and for civil service employes.

Democracy demands also that the people be equipped with the instruments of the initiative, referendum and recall, with the special provision that war may not be declared, except in cases of actual military invasion, before referring the question to a direct vote of the people.

For "League of Free Peoples."

2—Abolish imperialism at home and abroad.

Withdrawal of the United States from further participation (under the Treaty of Versailles) in the reduction of conquered peoples to economic or political subjection to the small groups of men who manipulate the bulk of the world's wealth; refusal to permit our Government to aid in the exploitation of the weaker peoples of the earth by these men; refusal to permit use of the agencies of our Government (through dollar diplomacy or other means) by the financial interests of our country to exploit other peoples, including emphatic refusal to go to war with Mexico at the behest of Wall Street; recognition of the elected Government of the Republic of Ireland and of the Government established by the Russian people; denial of assistance, financial, military or otherwise, for foreign armies invading these countries, and an embargo on the shipment of arms and ammunition to be used against the Russian or Irish peoples; instant lifting of the blockade against Russia; recognition of every Government set up by peoples who wrest their sovereignty from oppressors in accordance with the right of self-determination for all peoples; abolition of secret treaties and prompt publication of all diplomatic documents received by the State Department; withdrawal from imperialistic enterprises upon which we already have embarked (including the dictatorship we exercise in varying degrees over the Philippines, Hawaii, Haiti, the Dominican Republic, Porto Rico, Cuba, Samoa and Guam), and prevention of the imposition upon the people of the United States of any form whatever of conscription, military or industrial, or for military training.

We stand committed to a league of free peoples, organized and pledged to destruction of autocracy, militarism and economic imperialism throughout the world and to bring about a worldwide disarmament and open diplomacy, to the end that there shall be no more Kings and no more wars.

3. Democratic Control of Industry—

The right of labor to an increasing share in the responsibilities and management of industry, application of this principle to be developed in accordance with the experience of actual operation.

Call for Public Ownership.

4. Public Ownership and Operation—

Immediate repeal of the Esch-Cummins law, public ownership and operation, with democratic control, of all public utilities and natural resources, including stock yards, large abattoirs, grain elevators, water powers and cold storage and terminal warehouses, Government ownership and democratic operation of the railroads, mines and such natural resources as are in whole or in part bases of control, by special interests, of staple industries and monopolies, such as lands containing coal, iron, copper, oil, large water powers and commercial lines, and establishment of a public policy that no land (including natural resources) and no patents shall be held out of use for speculation or to aid monopoly; establishment of national and State owned banks where the money of the Government must and that of individuals may be deposited, granting of credit to individuals and groups according to regulations laid down by Congress which will safeguard deposits.

We denounce the attempt to scuttle our great government owned merchant marine and favor bringing the ocean-going commerce to our inland ports.

5. Promotion of Agricultural Prosperity—

Legislation that will effectively check and reduce the growth and evils of farm tenancy, establishment of public markets, extension of the Federal Farm Loan system, making personal credit readily available and cheap to farmers, maintenance of dependable transportation for farm products, organization of a State and national service that will furnish adequate advice and guidance to applicants for farms and to farmers already on the land, legislation to promote and protect farmers and consumers, co-operative organizations conducted for mutual benefit, comprehensive studies of costs of production of farm and staple manufactured products and uncensored publication of facts found in such studies.

Public Economy and Income Taxes.

6. Government Finance—

We demand that economy in governmental expenditures shall replace the extravagance that has run riot under the present administration, the Government expenditures of the present year of peace, as already disclosed, exceed $6,000,000,000 or six times the annual expenditures of the pre-war period. We further condemn and denounce the system that has created one war-millionaire for every three American soldiers killed in the war in France and we demand that this war acquired wealth shall be taxed in such a manner as to prevent the shifting of the burden of taxation to the shoulders of the poor in the shape of higher prices and of increased living costs.

We are opposed, therefore, to consumption taxes and to all indirect taxation for the support of the current operations of the Government. For the support of such current operations we favor steeply graduated income taxes, exempting individual incomes amounting to less than $3,000 a year, with a further exemption allowance of $300 for every child under 18 and also for every child over 18 who may be pursuing an education to fit himself for life. In the case of State governments and of local governments we favor taxation of land value, but not of improvements or of equipment, and also sharply graduated taxes on inheritances.

7. Reduce the cost of living—

Stabilize the currency so that it may not fluctuate as at present, carrying the standard of living of all the people down with it when it depreciates, Federal control of the meat packing industry, extension and perfection of the parcel post system to bring producer and consumer closer together, enforcing existing laws against profiteers, especially the big and powerful ones.

8. Justice to soldiers—

We favor paying the soldiers of the late was, as a matter of right and not as charity, a sufficient sum to make their war pay not less than civilian earnings. We denounce the delays in payment and the inadequate compensation to disabled soldiers and sailors and their dependents, and we pledge such changes as will promptly and adequately give sympathetic recognition of their services and sacrifices.

Pledges Bill of Rights for Labor.

9. Labor's Bill of Rights—

During the years that labor has tried in vain to obtain recognition of the rights of the workers at the hands of the Government through the agencies of the Republican and Democratic Parties the principal demands of labor have been catalogued and presented by the representatives of labor, who have gone to convention after convention of the old parties—to Congress after Congress of old-party office holders. These conventions and sessions of Congress have from time to time included in platforms and laws a few fragments of labor's program, carefully re-written, however, to interpose no interference with the oppression of labor by private wielders of the power of capital. It remains for this party, the workers' own party, financed by the workers themselves, to pledge itself to the entire bill of rights of labor, the conditions enumerated therein to be written into the laws of the land to be enjoyed by the workers, organized or unorganized, without the elimination of a single word in the program.

Abraham Lincoln said: "Labor is the superior of capital and deserves the highest consideration."

We pledge the application of these fundamental principles in the enactment and administration of legislation.

(a) The unqualified right of all workers, including civil service employes, to organize and bargain collectively with employers through such representatives of their unions as they choose.

(b) Freedom from compulsory arbitration and all other attempts to coerce workers.

(c) A maximum standard 8-hour day and 44-hour week.

(d) Old age and unemployment payments and workmen's compensation to insure workers and their dependents against accident and disease.

(e) Establishment and operation through periods of depression of Governmental work on housing, rebuilding, reforestation, reclamation of cut-over timber, desert and swamp lands and development of ports, waterways and water-power plants.

(f) Re-education of the cripples of industry as well as the victims of war.

(g) Abolition of employment of children under sixteen years of age.

(h) Complete and effective protection for women in industry, with equal pay for equal work.

(i) Abolition of private employment, detective and strike-breaking agencies and extension of the Federal free employment service.

(j) Prevention of exploitation of immigration and immigrants by employers.

(k) Vigorous enforcement of the Seamen's act and the most liberal interpretation of its provisions. The present provisions for the protection of seamen and for the safety of the traveling public must not be minimized.

(l) Exclusion from interstate commerce of the products of convict labor.

DENIES LEAGUE PARTICIPATION

Special to The New York Times.

MINNEAPOLIS, July 14.—There will be no amalgamation or affiliation of the Non-Partisan League and the third party and there is no one participating in the formation of such a party who represents the league or has authority to speak for the Townley organization, it was made plain here today.

Despite the numerous attempts made at Chicago to convey the impression that representatives of the organization were active in the Committee of 48 and other groups, Oliver S. Morris, head of the Non-Partisan League publications, who is authorized to speak for the league, issued a flat denial today. Mr. Morris issued a statement at the national headquarters of the league to the effect that the organization had no officially accredited delegates at the Chicago meetings and that there would be no merger or affiliation. He said that Presidential candidates of the proposed third party could not even be indorsed by the Non-Partisan League unless the National Committee should make such indorsement.

MACAULEY IS A REPORTER.

Single Taxers Add a Third Newspaper Candidate to List.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, July 14.—The Pennsylvania candidate did not "go over" in either the Republican or the Democratic National Convention, but when the Single Taxers met last night in Chicago to nominate a candidate for President there was no guessing and no balance of power. They just unanimously picked Robert C. MacAuley of Philadelphia as their standard bearer.

Like the Republicans and the Democrats, the Single Tax Party has nominated a newspaper man.

Bob MacAuley, as he is familiarly known to newspaper men and politicians in Philadelphia, was until a few months ago a reporter on The Philadelphia Inquirer. MacAuley is speeding homeward, accompanied by his sister, who went to Chicago with him. As far as could be learned no arrangements have been made by the single tax leaders of the city or State to have their candidate met at the station by a band, although his old newspaper friends are ready to give him a rousing reception.

The single tax nominee will conduct a "front porch" campaign from his home, 1,737 Berks Street, according to advices received here, following the plan of Senator Harding, which Senator Penrose has disapproved.

WISCONSIN OLD GUARD MEET

"Conservative Republicans" Name Seaman for Governor—Vote Wet.

MADISON, Wis., July 14.—The conservative branch of the Republican party here, in convention today, selected Col. Gilbert E. Seaman, a war veteran, as its candidate for Governor and went on record as favoring beer and light wine. Gov. Philipp refused to make another attempt to win the nomination.

REED TO BACK COX, BUT AGAINST LEAGUE

Will Support Democrats, He Tells St. Joseph, Because of Other Issues.

DISLIKES BOTH PLATFORMS

Asserts No Senator Would Have Supported League if Wilson Had Not Interfered.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., July 14.—Reiterating his opposition to the covenant of the League of Nations as it is now framed, Senator James A. Reed, of Missouri, addressed a meeting here tonight, opening the Democratic campaign in Missouri.

"I intend to support the Democratic candidates," Senator Reed asserted, "notwithstanding the declarations of the party upon the League of Nations, because the great principles of the Democratic party which have survived the vicissitudes of the century still live.

"Upon the League of Nations, the platform of neither party suits me, but there is something greater than the platform of a political convention. It is the platform of Americanism. That platform was proclaimed in the Declaration of Independence. It was formulated by George Washington in these words:

"'Europe has a set of primary interests which to us have none, or a very remote relation. Hence, she must be engaged in frequent controversies, the causes of which are essentially foreign to our concern. Hence, therefore, it must be unwise of us to implicate ourselves by artificial ties in the ordinary vicissitudes of her politics, or the ordinary combinations and collusions of her friendships or enmities.'

"That is sound Democratic doctrine. That is sound American doctrine. To it I adhere, and by it I will abide to the end."

One of the principles which he asserted was one of "the very cardinal principles of Democratic faith," is "that this government should constitute the leading power on this side of the Atlantic, shielding and protecting against foreign aggression the weaker countries of the western hemisphere, and that it should forever keep itself free of entanglements with European and Asiatic powers, refusing to take part in their wars, controversies or intrigues, except where our interests were directly concerned.

"The demand of the hour," the Senator said, "is for the exercise of sober judgment, patient investigation and the exercise of infinite caution. Many mighty problems are pressing for immediate attention. They demand the highest order of intellect and the most exalted character of patriotic statesmanship.

"At such a time as this it is unfortunate that the country is infested with demagogues.

"The demagogue is a political profiteer. To gain office he advocates any doctrine, subscribes to any creed and utters any falsehood. If he lived under a monarchy he would assert 'the king can do no wrong.' In a republic he declares that he favors 'all a popular president has done,' and swears he will support everything he may ever do. The world is full of such creatures. They are the curse of the world. They have done much to confuse the public mind."

Senator Reed reviewed the history of the treaty negotiations, saying that "if there had been no interference by the executive department there would not have been three senators who would not have voted radically to amend the treaty."

"I also unhesitatingly state," Senator Reed declared, "that if it had not been for an immense propaganda financed by international bankers, plus the influence of the White House, there would not have been a half dozen senators who would have voted for the League of Nations in any form."

Even the Democratic platform, the senator added, recognized that reservations or amendments are necessary.

Rise in Spanish Tobacco Prices.

MADRID, July 13.—Further increases in the price of tobacco, especially that imported from Havana, have been announced by the company owning the tobacco monopoly in Spain. The reason for the advance is given as being the rise in the price of labor in Cuba.

GERMANS YIELD AT LAST MINUTE

have been carried out by six divisions, three French, two British and one Belgian. Every military preparation had been made to this end.

It is said that Chancellor Fehrenbach and Dr. Simons, German Foreign Ministers, suggested to the allied Governments that they send a commission composed of Ministers and experts to Essen to meet workingmen and their representatives for the purpose of talking over the urgency of increasing coal production. The proposal was made yesterday afternoon.

Washington Takes Allied View.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 14.—The news tonight that the Germans had climbed down and accepted the allied terms on coal caused no surprise in Washington. It rather indicated that the Germans had been trying to evade the performance of their contract under the treaty. Opinion in Washington agrees with allied expert opinion that Germany can produce and deliver 2,000,000 tons of coal monthly. Germany, in fact was delivering approximately that amount until the coal mines in the Ruhr fields were shut down in retaliation against the allied demand for deliveries of coal from the Silesian fields to Poland.

All American official reports from Spa leave no doubt as to the ability of the Germans to deliver 2,000,000 tons monthly, but doubt is expressed that the Germans could exceed this figure by any considerable amount.

EXCITING TIME FOR FOCH.

No Sooner Reaches Paris Than He Is Called Back to Spa.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, July 14.—Marshal Foch and his entourage spent dramatic moments yesterday evening. The Marshal had returned to Paris from Spa "to preside at the Fourteenth of July celebrations," says the official report—"disgusted by the way French interests are sacrificed to Germany," says Paris gossip.

He went to his office at the Invalides about 7 last night to get his Grand Cross of the Legion of Honor to wear in reviewing the troops this morning. General Weygand, Foch's Chief of Staff, was changing his uniform preparatory to attending a gala performance at the Opéra Comique. Their two aides de camp were making arrangements for an early dinner.

"What is it?" said Foch.

"A telephone message from President of the Council Millerand at Spa, Monsieur le Maréchal. He requests your return immediately."

"Why?" inquired Foch.

The orderly had no idea.

There was just an hour to catch the Brussels train, and while Foch was wondering whether it was Poland, Turkey, the Bolsheviki or the Germans that had been causing trouble and General Weygand was changing back again from full dress and the aides de camp were countermanding orders and making new ones and the Marshal's big car was at the Invalides entrance the harassed orderly was wrestling with the sudden intractability of the Paris-Brussels telephone.

Just as Marshal Foch had decided that longer delay would mean missing the train the orderly came running.

"The Premier says he wants you to concert measures with the British military authorities," he gasped. "The Germans are defiant and the conference has broken up."

Foch's lips tightened. General Weygand smiled. The aides de camp looked interested.

At the station Marshal Pétain was waiting. He exchanged a few words with Foch before the latter's departure. Onlookers saw Foch make an inquiring gesture as much as to say "Are you ready?" Pétain nodded with a wave that seemed to mean "I have just to give the word and they will sweep forward." Foch bowed his head in approval, then clenched his fist in menacing decision.

"The negotiations have failed," he might have been saying. "Let us see what they will say to force, these Germans."

CAN OF KALSOMINE CAUSES TROUBLE AT SPA

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

SPA, July 14 (By telephone to Paris, and thence by cable).—This is the story of how a can of kalsomine produced an international incident.

In a certain house are lodged a number of attaches of the German delegation. A small crowd, gathered in front of it, was watching the Germans enter after a session with the allied experts. Suddenly some one exclaimed that there was a German flag flying from the balcony. Sure enough there it was, black, white and red, waving above the heads of the gathering. Indignation grew rapidly until several men climbed to the balcony and tore down the flag. By this time the police had arrived. The crowd was dispersed and the chief of police started an investigation.

Here is the result of his inquiry. When the Germans departed from Spa in 1918, they left a great number of German flags behind. The Belgian flag is like the German flag, except that the white stripe of the former empire's banner is replaced by orange in the Belgian emblem. In preparing for the Spa Conference, many folks here painted yellow the white stripe in the German flag. Most of the paint used was good, but in the house in question a small boy of the family had used kalsomine. It had rained, and the Belgian flag had turned to the German flag.

Numbers of such incidents have been produced by the presence of the Germans here, but none of them has been serious. The greatest difficulty has been that growing out of the objection of the Belgians to sitting in cafés with the Germans. The German visitors for the first few days were inconspicuous. But, finding that the Belgians were tolerant, they grew more bold, and for the last few days have been frequenting the Spa cafés until the early hours of the morning, and, as is generally the case, too much drink has produce a certain friction.

These occasions, however, have been much overemphasized, as, for instance, the incident of the beating of Herr Stocklossa, a German newspaper man, by a Belgian Lieutenant. The French newspapers have printed stories that the German was singing "Die Wacht am Rhein" and therefore the Belgian beat him. The German newspapers have said that it was Herr Dernburg, "former Ambassador to America," who was beaten.

The truth of the matter is that a party of Germans, among whom were Herr Stocklossa and Herr Dernburg, had been drinking for several hours in the Excelsior Café at a table next to some Belgian officers. The atmosphere was becoming dangerous when the orchestra played "God Save the King." The Belgians evidently were not familiar with the English anthem, but they knew the German song by the same tune. One of the Germans laughed and the next any one knew was that a young Belgian officer had struck him with his riding crop. The Germans quickly scattered, the Belgian pursuing Stocklossa across the street, kicking him vigorously. Herr Dernburg did not get beaten. He ran up an alley.

The Belgian Government after investigation expressed its regrets to the German delegation, but advised the Germans to get to bed earlier.

As a rule the behavior of the Belgians has been very correct, although from sentiment they show plainly they are not open to the charge of being pro-German.

SALT LAKE CITY MAN WINS

Nominating Speeches Made.

Robert H. Harmon, of Washington State, placed Dudley Field Malone in nomination for President at 10:05 Chicago time (12:05 New York time).

Malone's name was received with light applause and some "boos."

Katherine Simms of New York nominated Henry Ford of Detroit, the only man who has had a headquarters and an active boom here. This nomination drew more laughs and "boos" than applause.

Delegate E. D. MacDougall of Kansas nominated Parley P. Christensen of Salt Lake, Utah, who presided over the Committee of 48 convention.

Harry Weinberger of New York seconded the nomination of Malone.

T. H. Lunde of Illinois nominated Senator La Follette, despite his refusal to be a candidate. The La Follette men were noisy for half a minute.

William E. Rodriguez of Illinois seconded the nomination of La Follette.

Eugene V. Debs, the Socialist candidate now confined in the Federal Penitentiary at Atlanta, was also put in nomination.

Robert M. La Follette, Jr., announced that he had informed his father over the telephone he had been put in nomination. The Senator dictated a statement that he would not run if nominated and requested that his name be withdrawn. No action was taken.

Herbert Bigelow, a Cincinnati clergyman, was nominated by Mrs. Josephine Lovreglio of Chicago.

Governor Lynn J. Frazier of North Dakota, who has refused to be a candidate, was also nominated.

Announced Malone Would Accept.

Edward Nockles of Illinois announced that he had asked Malone if he would accept the nomination, and Malone had said "Yes."

Parley P. Christiansen refused to be a candidate.

Delegate Jefferies, a woman, nominated Jane Addams, of Hull House.

It was announced that Governor Frazier would not run. His name was withdrawn.

J. A. H. Hopkins moved to withdraw La Follette's name. The motion was carried.

Executive Secretary Otto Brainstetter, of the National Socialist party, withdrew the name of Debs on the ground that it was inadvisable for him to be a candidate.

Berger Urged Naming Debs.

Delegate Levin, who had nominated Debs, protested that the nomination had been made upon the urging of Victor L. Berger, of Milwaukee, and the nomination stood.

Walter H. Pollard of New York nominated Assistant Secretary of Labor Louis F. Post.

The chair then declared nominations closed.

A motion to suspend the rule requiring a roll call of States in order to nominate a candidate was lost.

The State delegations went into caucus to select their candidates for the Presidency after a motion had been carried that the lowest candidate be dropped after each ballot.

Announce La Follette Won't Run.

After a stormy and almost futile morning's work, the delegates to the convention reassembled in Carmen's Hall in the afternoon to have a disconcerting situation exploded in their faces the very first thing. The Forty-eighters, the World War Veterans, the Non-Partisan Leaguers and most of the other groups from the first had wanted Senator La Follette to head the ticket. The labor men had not been so keen for him, but a bit grudgingly had united upon him as the prospective Presidential nominee.

All the week delegates to the conventions, all and separate, had believed that once amalgamation was effected the Senator would consent to run. They knew that a messenger had arrived last night telling Gilbert E. Roe, his confidential adviser and spokesman in Chicago, and his son and secretary, Robert M. La Follette, Jr., that the platform was not satisfactory to him. But they had gone to bed in the hopes that this wrinkle would be smoothed away and they little dreamed that they were to find themselves hopelessly at sea for a candidate after they had worked so hard to get together.

John Walker, Illinois labor man and acting Chairman of the convention, stepped to the edge of the platform and announced that he had been authorized to say that Senator La Follette had refused the nomination. He added that the Senator had wished the movement all success, but could not allow his name to be considered at the present time.

There was a cheer from those who enjoyed everything that happened, a yell of disappointment from the La Follette men, and a moan from the general body of the delegates, who realized that this meant more trouble and delay and speechmaking.

Lester Barlow, spokesman for the World War Veterans, took the platform and shouted:

"It is a lie. There's an intriguing clique here that's trying to shut out La Follette. I know he will run on this platform."

Attempt La Follette Stampede.

Barlow attempted to read a La Follette platform, but at the same moment a big red banner with "Bob La Follette" on it in white letters was flung over the gallery rail and a huge photographic enlargement of the La Follette countenance, draped with an American flag, was lifted to the platform, where young La Follette stood at rigid salute before it.

That was the signal for a carefully planned and entirely futile attempt of the La Follette men to stampede the convention. They got most of the State standards except those of a few Eastern Commonwealths upon the platform, with a handful of delegates parading behind each other. But most of the delegates, particularly those originally in the labor fold, sat stolidly in their seats.

Majority Platform Is Read.

Robert Buck, publicity director for the labor forces and Chairman of the Joint Platform Committee, then presented that document with its planks embodying many radical doctrines. The delegates, a great many of whom were of very recent foreign origin, showed noisier enthusiasm for those planks dealing with European politics than for those concerning themselves with domestic economics. They liked such ideas as forbidding the Supreme Court to declare unconstitutional any act passed by Congress, but they were far more enthusiastic over recognition for Ireland and Soviet Russia.

When Russia was mentioned, some one in the gallery called for "three cheers for the Reds," and many delegates joined in.

Discussion and debate became almost inextricably entangled between that platform and one presented immediately afterward by a minority consisting of George L. Record, Amos Pinchot and Gilson Gardener and which was read by Record, and the question whether or not La Follette was a candidate and why.

Record read a long platform differing in degree rather than in kind from that of the majority and frankly offered as one of greater expediency in appealing for votes to many who were not class-conscious workingmen. In the end Record stated that the platform he offered had been substituted by the minority for the Forty-eighters' St. Louis platform, that the document he had just read what Senator La Follette's own and that La Follette would run if it were adopted.

Almost immediately afterward Record regained the platform to say that the situation as he had presented it had existed when he left the committee deliberations early this morning, that he had just learned of La Follette's positive refusal to run, and that he wished to withdraw his statement that the Senator would make the race on a minority platform.

Meantime the La Follette men had started to demonstrate again, but the Chairman told them coldly they could not stampede the convention and might as well not try, and they subsided.

Delegate Lefkowitz of New York took the platform after Record had corrected his error and said that the whole difference between the platforms was that one was built on fundamental principles and the other on expediency. He made a great point of labor's "Bill of Rights," drafted at the Montreal Convention of the American Federation of Labor, not being included, as he declared, in its entirety, laid even more emphasis upon the minority platform being silent as to equality for the negro and attacked the minority report sharply because it called for Government ownership of railroads but not for operation under "democratic" management.

Already the delegates, by the tone and temper of their interruptions, had made it perfectly plain that they were going to do exactly as the labor men wanted and adopt the majority platform, but C. J. France of Washington, a Forty-eighter of radical labor sympathies, announced that he could not now side with the Forty-eight men and followed this by a statement from the platform which deeply enraged the La Follette men. He asserted that the La Follette spokesman had refused to permit the negro plank in the platform because it would alienate Southern white votes.

He scored the minority platform for leaving out Ireland and Russia and told of Dudley Field Malone having presented an earlier La Follette platform which he also attacked. Finally in a burst of oratory France asserted that if the negro plank were omitted he for one would walk out.

Gilson Gardner, rising to a point of personal privilege, defended La Follette, denying all the France charges in a nervous voice that was almost inaudible.

Next Roe, speaking officially for La Folette, repudiated the France attack, insisting that there had been no mention of the negro plank and that the Senator wanted an Irish plank, though it had not been finished in time to be included in his draft of the platform. When Roe got through a heated defense of the Wisconsin man, he appealed to Buck to corroborate him. He ended by flatly assuring the convention that the statement that La Follette was not available had been made upon his authority as La Follette's representative.

That smashed the La Follette boom for good and some Irish enthusiasts at once started one for Dudley Field Malone, which had reached sufficient size to be heard all over the hall before the afternoon session adjourned.

J. A. H. Hopkins, Executive Chairman of what was left of the Committee of Forty-eight, pleaded for the minority platform, saying that he personally would go all the way down the line for either platform, but that a lot of voters were not sufficiently educated to indorse all the radical planks proposed. Once Hopkins had made it clear that his group, so far as he could speak for it, was just as radical as the others, the last vestige of his influence was gone.

Buck took the platform again and, after refusing to corroborate Roe's statements exonerating the La Follette representatives from trying to keep out the negro plank, made a fiery speech in which he insisted with an occasional interjection of mild profanity, by way of emphasis, that the war had shaken people loose in this country and that never again could a "2liberal" ticket hope to win.

"It must be a radical ticket," he cried.

Buck declared that the object was not to elect a President this year, but to found a workers' party that would grow until it dominated. He shouted that otherwise, unless the workers got a party to their satisfaction, they would soon be marching in revolution with guns on their shoulders.

Pinchot, McCurdy and a few others had lined up on the platform to answer him, but the laborites had had enough. They knew what they were going to do and would not wait any longer to do it. They put through a motion to close the debate, and thereupon a ballot was taken on the minority report, which was badly beaten, and then on the majority report, which was declared unanimously adopted, the ultra radical platform thus becoming that of the third party.

An hour's recess was taken before the night session.

Clashes at Morning Session.

Delegates to the Amalgamated Third Party Convention gathered in Carmen's Hall for a morning session on this, the second day of their united existence, believing that they could find a name for their political infant, a platform for it to stand upon and a Presidential candidate to father it, within a few hours adjourned.

Soon after the session got under way, forty minutes late, the delegates learned that they were not to tread a path of roses. Apparently every one of the thousand or more in the auditorium and the gallery had believed everything was to be done in a hurry by being done in his or her particular way and there was apparently not a single thing, no matter how minute and inconsequential, upon which any considerable number could agree heartily. The delegates had learned that in the confusion of yesterday the Single Tax Party had withdrawn and returned to its own convention, and that it had nominated a candidate for President and another for Vice President. The candidate for President is Robert C. MacAuley of Philadelphia and the Vice Presidential candidate is R. G. Barnum of Cleveland. MacAuley, until he decided to devote the rest of his life to the single tax movement a few months ago, had grown gray covering police districts for a Philadelphia newspaper. He and Barnum appeared in the convention just after the delegates had learned that they had turned traitors to the cause. They were booed and hissed, which they did not mind, and were laughed at, which they did mind.

The first question to arise was the selection of tellers and a decision once more (the question had been settled once) as to how the vote was to be apportioned among the States. As soon as this business came before the convention the delegates proceeded to stage an almost indescribable parliamentary delirium. Hard working sergeants at arms were powerless, the Chairman's gavel was making noise and the delegates simply ran things to suit themselves.

So it went for a couple of hours while the men and women tired themselves out and the officers and leaders strove vainly to steer the wabbling political craft in some direction. Finally the questions at immediate issue were settled. It was decided that the States were to be represented on the basis of electoral votes.

Then the delegates found they were out of the tangle, only to face a more difficult one, for the irreconcilable Forty-eighters spoiled the situation once more by presenting a statement announcing that they could not unite on the radical labor platform. The statement read:

"The negotiations between the platform sub-committee of our convention and a similar committee of the labor party have reached a stage where we feel that the members of both conventions and the public generally are entitled to a full and frank statement of the inside facts.

"After prolonged conferences, we are unable to agree. The underlying cause of the difference is that the labor party representatives think the new party should be a class conscious radical party, standing upon the principles of British guild Socialism, expressed in trade unionism language.

"We believe the new party should have a short, definite platform, aimed at the destruction of economic privileges and the winning back of the historic political liberties lost during the war.

Feared Socialistic Platform.

"We offered the substance of our St. Louis platform. A platform drawn by friends of Senator La Follette, now here, was also presented in the Conference Committee with the assurance that the Senator would be willing to accept our joint nomination on this platform.

"The situation, therefore, now is this: If the platform submitted by Senator La Follette's friends is adopted we can probably have him as our candidate. If the Labor Party platform is adopted, the Senator will not run as our candidate and in our judgment no other public man having any considerable following can be induced to take the nomination.

"In this event the new party will enter the field with a socialistic platform, headed by a radical labor leader. Such a campaign in our judg[illegible] would be a contest between the candidate of the new party and Eugene Debs for the negligible Socialist vote of the country.

"We are unable to join a new party established upon such lines."

Single Taxers Issue Platform.

CHICAGO, July 14 (Associated Press).—The following platform of the Single Tax Party was promulgated here tonight:

"Full rental value of the land shall be collected by the Government instead of all taxes, and all buildings and other improvements of land, all industry, thrift and enterprise, all wages, salaries, incomes and every product of labor shall be entirely exempt from taxation."

Planks Contradicted La Follette.

MADISON, Wis., July 14.—Senator Robert M. La Follette today refused to discuss the provisions of the platform at Chicago to which he had made objection. It was learned that he considered many of the provisions too radical. Some of the planks were in direct contravention with expressed views of the Senator.

dered them to vote against me. Otherwise they would not have done so. I have had twenty-two years of service in the New York City public schools. So far as I know, no superintendent has ever been refused re-election if his work has been found to be satisfactory.

"The four members who voted against re-electing me gave no reason at all when they were asked. This is the first case that I know of a superintendent being turned down for no reason whatever. It may be that the opposition was not directed against me so much as it was directed against the Board of Superintendents. The action of the Board would seem to make it impossible for a superintendent to do his duty and retain his position."

When Dr. Tildsley was asked whether he thought his campaign against radicalism in the schools had anything to do with his defeat he said, "The Mayor is the only one who can answer that."

Somers Defends Tildsley.

During his speech placing Mr. Tildsley in nomination Mr. Somers was frequently interrupted with applause by the good-sized audience that was present. He asked if Dr. Tildsley was to be punished because of his Americanism. As a leader he had done good and faithful service, and had given much satisfaction by his work as Principal of De Witt Clinton High School and the High School of Commerce. He had become Associate Superintendent when this nation was bleeding and had forced from the educational system teachers who were disloyal. He was a protection against the persons who were threatening the foundations of the Government. He declared that it would be dangerous to drop, with his sterling record, such a man from his high and important position.

"I cannot conceive the board dispensing with one who has served so well and faithfully," he declared. Mr. Somers said that in some things he had not always agreed with Dr. Tildsley, who, however, was a man of conviction and not afraid to say "no" when required. He hoped that the board would re-elect him. Mr. Wilsey, in seconding his nomination, spoke briefly of Dr. Tildsley.

Mr. Ryan said that his blood was set boiling by some of the editorials in the press reflecting on certain members for not re-electing Dr. Tildsley. He declared there was something behind all the clamor that had been raised in Dr. Tildsley's behalf. There was no one who could justly criticise his own Americanism. In nominating Dr. Shimer, he said he had been a noted educator for forty years. Dr. Ferguson seconded the nomination.

Ettinger for Tildsley.

Dr. Ettinger, Superintendent of Schools, who is not a member of the Board but is allowed a voice in its deliberations, said that he thought the re-election of Dr. Tildsley was necessary. He knew Dr. Shimer and held him in great esteem, but Dr. Tildsley's record deserved approval and his rejection would be a bad thing. It was necessary, he declared, that legislation would be asked to make the position of Associate Superintendent permanent on good behavior. There was a belief that Dr. Tildsley was to be punished for doing his duty fearlessly. There was another rumor to the effect that politics was in opposition to him, but he did not believe this. Dr. Tildsley had kept Americanism in the school sand had driven out those who were opposed to it.

Mr. Wilsey said that he had voted ten years ago for Dr. Shimer for Associate Superintendent. Dr. Shimer, he said, was now close to the retirement age and could only serve a part of the six years for which he was elected.

Mrs. Julia Wheelock of Barbara Frietchie Post, which has 1,500 members, asked Mr. Ryan if Dr. Shimer would accept the superintendency if he should be elected. Mr. Ryan replied that Dr. Shimer would do so.

"I am sorry to hear that," said Mrs. Wheelock. "I still believe he would decline the position in Dr. Tildsley's favor."

Francis M. Fallon, President of Captain B. Brook Post, 450, American Legion, said that he appeared as a legionaire in fovar of Dr. Tildsley, under whom he himself had once been a teacher. He asked Mr. Ryan if he had any reason for not voting for Dr. Tildsley.

American Legion Plea.

President Prall called Mr. Fallon to order.

"You are at liberty," he said, "to speak on behalf of your choice, but you are not to heckle members of the board."

Mr. Fallon then named posts of the league which had unanimously indorsed Dr. Tildsley's candidacy. He said that one of them was the Murray Hill post, of which Irwin Rachdolt, formerly under Dr. Tildsley, is President.

Maurice J. McCarthy, President of the New York Parents' Association, said that Dr. Tildsley's fight against radicalism should re-elect him.

Richard M. Hurd, President of the American Defense Association, said that its 50,000 members were for Dr. Tildsley. He declared there was some basis for the editorials in the press, because the Teachers' Union, a radical organization, was opposing him.

Dr. Ferguson was annoyed at the speaker's remarks, and said there could be no question of his loyalty. His record, he declared, was perfectly clear and would remain so throughout his career on the board. He was not to be criticised, he explained, because he chose to vote for a man he approved.

Some applause greeted the announcement of the result of the balloting.

"It is not the first time," said Mr. Somers, "that there has been applause at an execution."

Dr. Shimer 67 Years Old.

Dr. Shimer is 67 years old. He was born on Feb. 25, 1853; was educated at Muhlenberg College, Pennsylvania; became Assistant Principal in the New York schools in 1875, and has held different positions in them ever since. In 1896, in old New York City, he became Assistant Superintendent, and in 1902, in Greater New York, was appointed District Superintendent. He is in charge of schools in Queens, and lives in Flushing, L. I.

Throughout yesterday's long discussion there was nothing said to show why Dr. Tildsley should not be re-elected. He entered the New York school in 1898, and first served as a teacher in Morris High School. Then he became Principal of De Witt Clinton High School and the High School of Commerce. He was elected in 1916 to fill the unexpired term of the late Assistant Superintendent John H. Haaren.

ADMIT THEY ARE ALIEN REDS

Assailants of Rev. Dr. Pidhorecki May Be Deported.

Because of admissions made when questioned at police headquarters yesterday the three men arrested Tuesday for an attack on the Rev. Dr. Nicholas Pidhorecki, pastor of the Ukrainian Greek Catholic Church, 24 East Seventh Street, will be turned over to the Department of Justice with a view to their deportation as undesirable aliens, after their prosecution on charges of felonious assault, attempted robbery and violation of the Sullivan law.

Samuel Dero of 68 Avenue A, one of the trio, is said by the police to have admitted that he stands for the overthrow of all Governments by force and the assassination of all public officials. He told the officers he had served three years in a prison in Siberia for advocating the overthrow of the Russian Government. All three men are said to have admitted that they were members of the Russian Workers of the World and that although they had been in this country six years they were not citizens. The other men are Anton Waisiok of 218 East Twenty-eighth Street and John Siviskey of 25 South Street.

Dr. Pidhorecki was attacked in the parish house of the church at 22 East Seventh Street at 11 o'clock Tuesday morning by three armed men. The priest put up a vigorous fight and forced the men to flee. They were later arrested.

The three prisoners were arraigned yesterday before Magistrate Jesse Silberman in Essex Market Court, and held without bail for examination on Friday.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, July 12.—With the red flag, symbol of anarchy, hanging from the rail in front of the jury box in Judge Hebel's court, the trial for sedition of William Bross Lloyd, wealthy Socialist, described as "the man who would be king of the proletariat," and of nineteen aspirants for positions as assistant dictator under the Soviet rule, was resumed here today.

The Moscow manifesto, which, it was expected, would enlighten the masses, was the subject of most of the afternoon session. The State asked to be permitted to read it to the jury tomorrow. It was said to be in effect the "pronunciamento" under which Lenin and Trotzky rule Russia and the model form of government to be adopted when the Communist Labor Party should come into power.

Most of today's evidence was directed against Lloyd himself and Edgar Owens of Moline, Ill., State Secretary of the party. It was in Owens's home that the red flag was found, Sergeant William A. Gaynor, a police officer attached to the State's Attorney's staff, testified.

"The flag was neatly folded on top of the bookcase," Gaynor said. "I pulled it down and asked him what he was doing with it.

"His answer was that he had used it at a convention and that it was his flag. We also found the American flag wadded up on the floor of a closet with a lot of rubbish.

"I asked, 'What do you mean by treating our flag that way?' He answered that it was not his flag; that the red flag was his, and that it would also be mine when I understood his people better."

Albert J. Flynn, a court reporter, read to the jury a copy of statements made by Owens in the office of Maclay Hoyne on Jan. 8, 1920. To questions there asked Owens replied that he was 42 years old and had been a member of the Socialist Party since 1906, but seceded from the convention. He was, he said, one of the leaders of that revolt.

"Do you believe in the Soviet form of government for the United States?" he was asked.

Witness said he did.

"How do you propose to bring about the Soviet in this country?" was another question. Owens said he would do so through education and organization.

When asked, "How ultimately are you to get rid of the present form of government and establish the Soviet?" he replied, "I don't know how ultimately, but it will be brought about."

"Do you believe in bringing that about by the ballot box?"

"By the ballot box, yes; but, in addition, through the organization of the workers. Might makes right, because an organized group of sufficient membership has the power to enforce its rule."

"So, then, as I understand, what the Communist Labor Party stands for, in your opinion, is that they want to organize the workingmen in groups with sufficient power to seize all industry?"

"I would change that one word 'seize' and make it 'take over,'" was the witness's answer.

"You would not propose to pay anything to the owner of the industry?" was the final question.

Witness had replied that that depended on the condition that prevailed at that time.

A letter which Owens acknowledged writing was read. It was addressed to Ralph Factory, City Hall, Mason City, Iowa.

Referring to the Communist Party, the letter said:

"It is aligned with the Bolsheviki of Europe, the Spartacans of Germany and all the Communist leaders of Europe. We are forming organizations in Muscatine and Dubuque. Oelwein, Iowa, is lining up. Iowa must be organized."

The trial will be resumed tomorrow.

BOLIVIA TO DEMAND NEW CHILEAN PORT

Successful Revolution Will Take Sides with Peru and Drop Claim for Arica.

SANTIAGO, Chile, July 13.—Confirmation of reports of the overthrow of the Bolivian Government was received by the Chilean Foreign Office today in a dispatch from La Paz.

The Government advices announced that ex-President Gutierrez Guerra took refuge in the United States Legation, which asked the revolutionary Government for guarantees for his safety.

Varying opinions are expressed here regarding the sudden turn of events in Bolivia. In some quarters the situation from a political standpoint is declared to be regarded as not of particular importance, it being argued that the change is only one in the personnel of the Government, affecting a small circle of political elements, the centre of which is La Paz. On the other hand, some significance is attached to the reported assumption of power by the Republicans and elements of other parties called "Revindicationists." The Republican platform is said to contain a plank which has stood for a long time past urging the partial reclamation at least of the Bolivian littoral which was ceded to Chile after the war of 1879.

Bolivian Troop Movements.

LIMA, Peru, July 13.—Military movements by troops favorable to the new Government of Provisional President Savedra in Bolivia have followed the revolutionary overturn in that Republic, according to Bolivian advices received this afternoon. A message from Arica (Northern Chile) states that 2,000 of Savedra's troops left La Paz, the Bolivian capital, on Monday night, advancing some eighty miles to Corocoro, where important copper mines are located. The object of this manoeuvre was the interception of regiments reported to be advancing across country from Oruro under command of a cousin of General Montes, former President of Bolivia, a supporter of the Gutierrez Guerra Government. The intention of the Montes forces, it was assumed, was to recruit troops among the workmen at the mines.

BUENOS AIRES, July 14.—The revolution in Bolivia, according to a dispatch to the Nacion from La Paz, took place quietly, with the aid of the army. The deposed President took refuge in the United States Legation, the message states.

Provisional President Savedra has notified the diplomatic corps of his assumption of power.

Dr. José Maric Escalier, chief of the Republican Party of Bolivia, told The Associated Press yesterday that he planned to return to Bolivia within a week, having received dispatches that the revolution had been successful in three of the principal Bolivian cities, La Paz, Oruro and Potosi.

The revolution in Bolivia seems likely to change the complexion of South American international politics. It is probable it will upset the recent accord between Bolivia and Chile relative to the former's aspirations for an outlet to the Pacific, and a new situation in the Tacna-Arica controversy may be created.

11 MORE REDS SENT TO ELLIS ISLAND

The radical colony in the detention quarters on Ellis Island was increased to twenty-six yesterday by the arrival of eleven Reds from points west of Chicago. They were brought to this city under the surveillance of Leo Russell, special deporting agent of the Immigration Service.

The group was accompanied by eleven others who have been ordered deported by the Federal authorities because they have not met the requirements since they were permitted to enter this country. They were not classed with the admitted sympathizers with the doctrines of anarchy or Bolshevism, although it is understood some of them have leanings toward those beliefs.

The immigration officials are anxious to get rid of the radicals as soon as possible. It is understood that arrangements are being made to send the Reds back to their native countries within the next few weeks.

Special precautions are being taken by P. A. Baker, Superintendent of the immigration station, to prevent further escapes from the detention department. It was said yesterday that on Tuesday afternoon Baker received information that some of the Reds in his charge would attempt to emulate the Lithuanian revolutionist who escaped Monday night. Baker remained at the station Tuesday night and increased the guard. Although agents of the Department of Justice, immigration officials and the police of this city and Jersey City sought the escaped Red, no trace had been found of him up to a late hour last night.

Soon after the arrival of the new batch of undesirables the police boat Patrol drew up to the pier with a delegation of social workers, humanitarians and general welfare workers headed by Mrs. Philip Berolzheimer, wife of the City Chamberlain. Mrs. Berolzheimer, aided by her husband, introduced the visitors to Commissioner Wallis. Mrs. Berolzheimer explained that the party was making a tour of city, State and Federal institutions for the purpose of obtaining first-hand information about conditions under which the charges are cared for. She said the party was arranged in honor of Miss Frances Greenhood of San Francisco, an instructor in sociology, who was her guest.

Others in the party included Mrs. Arnold Biel, Miss Ray M. Biel, Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Brooks, Professor L. E. Bowman of Columbia University, Miss Claire Beesely, Bird S. Coler, Commissioner of Public Welfare; Miss Currin, Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Eschenberg, Miss Louise Fishlin, Mrs. Simon Frankel, Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Goldman, M. E. Hanson, Mrs. Millie Hambur, Mrs. Eli Joseph, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. [illegible]oehler, Mrs. Charles Keller, Miss Helen Keller, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Mack, Donald Mazer, Miss Albert New, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Newburger, Mrs. Henry Ollesheimer, President of the National League of Girls' Clubs; Mr. and Mrs. Edward Seisel, J. Simon, Mrs. William Stern, Miss Tinney, Mrs. Eli Winkler, Mrs. Frank Wolf, Kenneth Wittime, Robert C. Weinberg and Mrs. Henry Zuckerman.

Mrs. Berolzheimer and the others in the party felicitated Commissioner Wallis on his "humanizing" reform methods of handling immigrants.

MANCHESTER, N. H., July 14.—Chief Justice John Kivel, of the New Hampshire Superior Court, and Arthur G. Whittemore of Dover, a member of the Governor's Council, will sail from New York on August 14 for Ireland to distribute a trust fund of $50,000 to the poor of Dublin. The money was left by Mrs. Anna Sharpe of Dover, widow of William Sharpe, for many years a buyer for the Amoskeag Manufacturing Company. Mrs. Sharpe was a native of Dublin.

THIRD-PARTY PSYCHOLOGY.

Many find it hard to understand the anxiety to found a third party. They think that among the elegant line of parties already in the market something could be found to suit the most exigent taste. It is understood, of course, that the moving spirits in the effort at Chicago to combine all the explosives into one gigantic bomb are in hot revolt against the two historic parties. Democrats or Republicans they can no longer be. But admitting that, and allowing that a decree of separation ought to be granted on the ground of hopeless incompatibility, why can they not satisfy themselves elsewhere? They frankly avow themselves Socialists, some of these amiable gentlemen. Then why don't they join the Socialist Party? Others have conceived a sudden but rather platonic passion for workingmen. It would seem as if the Labor Party were exactly the place for them to go. And those of them who feel that they cannot stop until all private property, except their own, is taken over by the State for the use of the community, might find a haven of rest and happiness, it might be supposed, in one or the other of the branches of the Communist Party. Why go to all the trouble and expense of starting a new party to attain objects already ardently sought by existing organizations?

The answer to this question is to be found in the state of mind of the Third-Party founders and fathers. Their sincerity need not be questioned. They are doubtless honest in declaring that neither of the old parties satisfies their longing for political and social upheaval. They see the whirlwind and the storm coming, but they wish to ride the whirlwind and direct the storm. This is the root of their trouble, the secret of their insistence upon a new party. They do not want to belong to a party; they want one to belong to them. Several of them have in times past played a considerable part in other political movements. They had the prominence of men whom THEODORE ROOSEVELT fooled to the top of their bent, or whom Mr. WILSON flattered by listening to their prattle. But all of that fussy importance has long since dropped away from them, and the instinct of publicity is again mighty within their breasts. If there is no other way to get themselves talked about, they will create and control a third party to make sure of it.

Let not this motive be hastily set down as unworthy. A good part of the fame of statesmen consists in having their names pass from mouth to mouth. It was BAGEHOT, we believe, who said that public men "set the conversation" of their era. By that test the ambitions of the agitators for a third party should already be pretty well satisfied. They have made themselves frequent subjects of conversation. The remarks made about them are not, perhaps, precisely what they would like. Instead of being frightened by them as they might desire, people seem generally to be amused. Still, they have got themselves into the public eye. That is the main thing for a framer of parties as well as for a writer of books or a cinema actor or a prizefighter. And even if the Third Party is destroyed by internal explosions before it gets afloat, the notoriety already achieved for it will be precious to those who hunger and thirst after that kind of righteousness.

If the Third Party ever does come to birth, it is now clear that it will be too much like Richard III.,

> Deformed, unfinished, sent before my > time
> Into this breathing world, scarce half > made up.

Even so, the traces of its parentage would be visible upon it. The correspondents at Chicago are amazed at the confusion and violent inconclusiveness which mark the convention of the would-be Third Party. But these qualities have their origin first of all in the minds of the convention begetters.

MR. HARDING'S "CHALLENGE."

Senator HARDING is a wise and cautious statesman. More than that, he is incorrigibly grave. Since the fight of the Horatii and the Curatii there has been nothing nobler, more chivalrous or absolutely without regard to consequences, than Mr. HARDING'S statement about the League of Nations:

> We are more than willing to make the election a national referendum on the question whether we shall have four years more of Democratic readiness to surrender this Republic.

To Mr. HARDING, apparently an amiable Republican Ohio politician of a school not changed since 1896, the question before the country and the world is purely one of partisan politics. The future of the world, the hope that nations shall not have to fight again in the old way, the hope that something of intelligence, of common sense, of mutual self-interest may bring the nations of the world together for their common advantage, seem not to occur to Mr. HARDING. To him, and doubtless to hundreds of his kind, that is still as parochial as if the war of the world had not been, everything is as it was in the sacred time of Mr. MCKINLEY and Mr. HANNA. There is, there must be, a Democratic and a Republican way of settling everything. As the tariff that fell from heaven was the final word of wisdom, so any disposition and any arrangement to provide for the peace of the world, the new world that has been born since 1914, is purely "Democratic" or "Republican."

Mr. HARDING belongs to a type of Republican politicians among the most active, the most successful and the most amiable in the old days, in Ohio. Ohio has passed the period of blindly voting the Republican ticket. At least the election returns in 1916 implied that. But if Mr. HARDING, one of the most urbane of Buckeye Republican politicians, thinks that the indispensable means and hope of keeping the nations together are not national or international, but "Democratic," why, Mr. HARDING is well fitted to a very active Republican political "environment." It would seem to many of us, however, that the world has moved away, implacably, from the pleasant little village-chime ideas of the Western Reserve of 1896.

THE IRONY OF GENERAL WOOD.

Many Republicans have regretted that General WOOD was the victim at Chicago of a too partial friendship and the Senatorial machine. Any of his friends who were not reconciled, or don't mean to be reconciled, to going back to the reservation, will be pleased by his statement of the Republican opportunity this year:

> The party can win through united effort and such clear and explicit declaration of program as will bring the large independent vote to its active support.

The party is not united. It is trying to win on an inexplicit and muddy program. The large independent vote shows no signs of being attracted into the tent of the good old reactionary gospelers. Otherwise, everything is all right.

THE TIMES has a considerable admiration for General WOOD'S many and distinguished talents and public services. It has never suspected him of the profound irony that seeps through these remarks of his. Yet they may be doing good. It is impossible not to believe so when any acute ear can collect the Republican anathemas which they set vibrating. Heard curses are sharp, but those unheard are sharper.

A ROCK-RIBBED GOVERNOR.

Governor CLEMENT of Vermont belies his name. He is made of tough and unyielding material. It was supposed that his heart had been softened by the irresistible smile of Senator HARDING, who would not openly appeal to him to call a special session of the Vermont Legislature to ratify the suffrage amendment, but who in private sought to bewitch him into doing so. The Senator thereafter assured the ladies by whom he was beset that he thought they would soon hear "good news" from Vermont. The news which presently was heard, however, was that the Governor, after getting back to his mountains, remained as immovable as they. As if with a glance in Senator HARDING'S direction, he said that he had been asked "as a matter of party expediency" to violate what with him was "a well-established principle." This the stubborn and singular man refused to do.

With the legal reasoning of Governor CLEMENT it is difficult to agree. He complains that "the provisions "for changes in the Federal Constitution" are "in conflict with those "laid down in the Constitution of "Vermont." But in joining the Union Vermont agreed that the Federal Constitution should be the "supreme law of the land." On that issue, therefore, there is nothing for Vermont to do but yield. But the Governor's moral and political reasoning is much stronger. In a way hard to refute he points out the mischief of the methods followed in working for ratification of both the prohibition and suffrage amendments. His firm protest, on this score, will reinforce the argument that no such constitutional change ought ever to be sought again without a freer and more direct consultation of the people of the States. The truly wonderful thing, however, is to find a public man, and presumably a politician, standing for what he believes to be right, against enormous pressure. If JAMES RUSSELL LOWELL were alive, he might apply to Governor CLEMENT the lines which he quoted in the presence of GROVER CLEVELAND, in praise of a man who held to what he thought his duty despite all imperious popular clamors.

ENGLAND'S RAILWAY POLICY.

England is having troubles like ours in winding up Government operation of railways and is proposing to solve them in ways somewhat like ours. There are in England, as here, those who favor nationalization and also those who favor democratic control with or without nationalization. The problem was to find a middle course and retain private ownership and management. The method proposed is to set up regional systems combining several companies, but not dividing individual companies. There are to be six of these systems in England, and Wales and Ireland are to be dealt with separately. Each group railway, or regional system, is to be managed by a board on which the shareholders are to have a majority. The minority is to include representatives of both the manual workers and official staffs.

Before the war British railways were regulated in a manner far less thorough than ours through a department in the Board of Trade, a sort of combination of our Departments of Commerce and Labor. Now new machinery is proposed for the regulation of rates and fares, and for safeguarding the interests of all concerned, owners, workers, shippers and the general public. Rates and fares "shall be "fixed at such a level as with efficient and economical management "will enable the companies to earn a "net revenue substantially equivalent, "on some pre-war basis to be settled "in the act, to the combined net revenue of all the companies absorbed "in the group." Pre-war and post-war profits are to be equalized, and there is no suggestion of our difficulty of earning a fixed rate on a valuation. If there shall be an excess earned over the pre-war standard, it is to be used in betterments of plant and facilities. The Government is to withdraw its guarantee, but is to assume new powers for the protection of the public and national interests and to assure the economical working of the systems. Under this heading it is proposed to take power to require adequate service, extension of construction, standardization of equipment, uniform accounts, oversight of security issues, and similar details.

One feature of war operation is to be retained—the method of regulating wages and working conditions. There are now two boards, established by agreement, and the permanent arrangements are to be on similar lines. The Central Wages Board is composed of equal numbers of managers and men, with an appeal to the National Wages Board. That is a tripartite board, including four members representing managers, men and users of the railway, with an impartial Chairman. This installment of democratic management would seem sufficient to begin with, but the British unions want to go all the way at once. Like the miners, the railway men have let it be known that they will decline to co-operate with the new arrangement unless the principle of nationalization is accepted.

Full reports of British opinion on this new departure are not yet at hand, but such as are available are none too cordial. The proposal is termed a "difficult and uncomfortable compromise" between nationalization and State control. Competition between individual companies is to be ended and the regional systems are to be "fettered" by the proposed regulation. State control is not abandoned when such a measure of regulation is retained, and there is a likeness to nationalization without the expense of expropriation. The interests of the users of the railways are not thought sufficiently protected, and it is said that the companies will part with their autonomy cheaply if they accept instead rates assuring profits. The prospect seems to be, in the opinion of The Manchester Guardian, that the compromise will fall between the two stools of nationalization and freedom of private operation.

THE HOUSING MENACE.

In insisting upon time as the essence of the housing situation President CURRAN strikes the right note. The Lockwood-Donohue law affords protection against gouging landlords for those who already hold leases, but it tends rather to check than to encourage new building. If anything is to be done in the way of municipal aid, the exemption of mortgages from the income tax, or other public measures, it must be in an extra session of the Legislature; otherwise there will be "a delay of two years."

The outlook under present conditions is not encouraging. Owing to the lack of cars, building materials have accumulated in the factories, while new construction in the cities is halted. Then came a lack of coal, which forced many establishments to close. In the lumber trade perhaps a third of the mills are shut down and the remainder working on part time. According to Senator CALDER of the Senate Committee on Reconstruction, building fell off 19 per cent. during May, and the first five months of the year showed a falling off of 25 per cent. as against the same months of last year. To be available next Winter, construction on any large scale should be already begun; even the smaller and less solid houses cannot wait beyond late August or September. Unless conditions are very speedily reversed, the shortage of housing will be far worse than ever.

People who have been postponing operations in the expectation that the prices of materials would fall have apparently misjudged the situation. The recent fall in certain kinds of lumber was temporary—the result of congestion in the trade. The Dow Service Reports forecast a stampede of operations as soon as factories are assured of coal and cars. And such is the country-wide shortage of housing that the day of lower costs and falling rentals seems indefinitely postponed. Senator CALDER'S committee is making a nation-wide canvass of the housing problem and is grappling with the situation in a spirit that should produce early results.

Meanwhile a timely word has been spoken by the President of the City and Suburban Homes Company. The organization is not commercial, its motives being those of public spirit and its profits being limited to 5 per cent. During the past year it raised its rentals an average of only 14 per cent. Before the war, as Mr. ALLAN ROBINSON points out, the great body of Americans were prosperous and steadily accustoming themselves to ease and even luxury. Today the movement is in the opposite direction, toward increasing discomfort and conditions that are dangerous to health. "It is a short-sighted policy to ignore "the obvious menace in the situation: "the menace in the social unrest "which will inevitably follow unless "the housing situation is soon remedied. We don't take medicine be- "cause we like it; we take it to get "well. We may not want to invest "money in new homes—but we ought "to do it, to restore the body politic "to health."

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Extortion Will Be Kept Down.

Not much more can be said for the new ordinance in relation to public baths, passed this week by the Board of Aldermen at the earnest request of Mayor HYLAN, than that it recognized the existence of ruthless exploitation and made a well-intentioned attempt to stop it. That was something and not a little, and both the Mayor and the Aldermen deserve commendation for what they did. Probably it was all that could be done immediately, for they recognized their inability to fix the prices to be charged by the owners of private bathhouses for the use of their facilities.

To do that, of course, would be such a violation of ordinary property rights as is legitimate or tolerable only in some great public emergency, and especially in war, the greatest of public emergencies. At other times other expedients of less efficiency must be adopted. The one selected by the Aldermen—that of rigid inspection of the bathhouses with regard to their sanitary condition, and the requirement under a license system that the management of all baths adopt and post a scale of prices, not to be changed on any day—certainly will reduce the amount of this particularly obnoxious form of profiteering.

Power to enforce such an ordinance is unquestionable, and hopefulness in expecting some relief from it is justified. Few of the bathhouse proprietors could live out of the patronage of people able and willing to pay every day the prices recently demanded at the nearby beach resorts on days when the presence of unusual multitudes eager to enter the water created an unusual demand.

Municipal Baths the Solution.

For bathhouse profiteering the real and true remedy is the provision by the city of bathing facilities in such amount and at such prices that the proprietors of the private baths can attract patronage only by offering lower prices or better facilities. They cannot do the one, and to the other there would be no objection, assuming that the municipal baths were so conducted as to satisfy the reasonable demands of people who do not feel the need of luxury or exclusiveness when they "go in swimming"—if one still may use the older and better phrase describing what is done in open water.

Other cities—large ones like Boston and little ones like New Rochelle—have solved this problem with entire success, for they have discovered that at low and fixed prices bathhouses and bathing beaches can be maintained to the contentment of their patrons, and that from the very moderate fees charged not only salaries and other expenses of operation can be defrayed, but a small surplus—it should not be a large one—can be obtained to help toward the payment of other municipal costs.

New York is not in a position just now to spend the millions it would take immediately to give the city multitudes the beach privileges they want and need, but its inability is largely due to lack of foresight in the past, when shore property was cheap and building material and labor had not soared to present altitudes.

Presenting the Facts in the Case.

Certain doctors up in the Bronx—doctors whom it is charitable to call misguided—have been rebuked properly and severely by the County Medical Society of that borough. The misguided practitioners, unnecessarily compassionate of a colleague who had been convicted of malpractice, not only declared that his conviction was an injudicious infringement of the discretionary rights of all members of the medical profession; they also asserted that the legal condemnation of him had so terrified other doctors that for fear of like convictions they were allowing to die patients whom operations would save.

The Bronx County Medical Society, speaking through its Comitia Minora in terms carefully moderate, announces that the convicted physician was not a member of the society, that no member of the society has been authorized to use its name in connection with the case, that it previously had not considered the case in any way, and that it desires to go on record as "upholding the laws of this State and country as interpreted by the court."

The last of these statements is of particular importance. It means, in effect, that under the law as it is any surgeon whose procedure is in accord with professional custom can perform any operation in his judgment necessary for the saving of life, and that for doing it he is in no danger of either prison or fine.

This is true and the opposite contention is without any support in fact.

A Warning Easy to Read.

Boudoir Bolsheviki and salon Socialists should think long, long thoughts after reading what happened out in Chicago to their representatives when the latter found themselves confronted by, and in contact with, the real thing in the way of Bolshevism and socialism. Their present fate of scorned and ridiculed helplessness is of some present significance, but it is of still more, as to what the lot of such exponents of interesting, amusing and leisure-filling radicalism would be if ever the revolution they play at wanting should come.

They would not be the leaders—the guides, philosophers and friends—of a properly humble and respectful proletariat. If fortunate, they would be simply brushed aside as of no use because of their absurd moderation; if not so lucky, they would be the objects of an animosity even fiercer than that excited by the avowed friends of capitalism. Their money and their culture would not save them on that day of wrath, and, caught in the No Man's Land between conservatism and radicalism, they would receive missiles coming from both armies.

Of all dangerous positions that is the most dangerous—far more dangerous than holding the front-line trenches, or even than going over the top.

DIRT FARMER FOR OFFICE.

Could One Be Found to Meet All the Requirements?

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Do those who virtuously advocate the appointment of a "dirt" farmer as Secretary of Agriculture realize the extent or scope of the department's activities?

Could the "dirt" farmer—the man who has spent a large part of his time in following the plow or in supervising agricultural operations which at best must have been limited to a very few sections of the country and a very few lines of product—be expected to have a practical, first-hand familiarity even with the following problems, set down almost at random:

(1) "Dirt-farming," including growing of (a) staples, such as wheat, cotton, corn, rice, and forage crops. (b) Vegetables—"dry-land" and irrigated. (c) Fruits.

(2) Experimental work, including development of better varieties of plants, as well as of better farming methods.

(3) Livestock raising. (a) Cattle—beef and dairy. (b) Horses. (c) Swine, poultry, sheep, &c.

(4) Forestry.

(5) Economics of agriculture, including marketing, financing farmers' organization, &c.

How far would a "dirt" farmer's experience carry him along these lines?

The man is more important than the experience—for the office of Secretary of Agriculture. Moreover, it would be only fair, when criticising the Wilson appointees, to explain that the "publisher" and the "professor," respectively, were the publisher of a great farm paper, and the former President of Texas Agricultural and Mechanical College.

Faith in Buses.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The courts having prevented the City Administration from embarking in municipal ownership and operation of buses, Mayor Hylan is now out with the suggestion that the city grant a franchise to a private corporation for the ownership and operation of buses all over the city.

There is no doubt that the future of surface transit is buses. Wherever Hylan's jitney buses operated they competed successfully against the street cars. They are flexible in operation and much speedier. Some 60 per cent. of the traveling public in London is carried by buses.

The buses, however, must not have truck chassis; they should be along the lines of the Fifth Avenue buses, centre of gravity lower, and "closable" roofed top. The power should be steam and not gasoline explosion. Why shouldn't the New York Railway Companies, Interboro and B. R. T., get a city-wide franchise for buses? The street cars started with horses, then cables, then electricity, and why not now buses as the final evolution for the present?

STEWART BROWNE.

New York, July 13, 1920.

TO QUENTIN ROOSEVELT.

They sounded taps, young soldier of the free,
And heaped Memorial flowers above your breast,
In France across the North Atlantic sea,
Where you are lying quietly at rest.

On soil in bondage to your mortal foe
You fell. Foes laid you in a soldier's grave!
Today above you Yankee bugles blow—
French tears, French flowers, rain upon the brave.

They scourged the wolves in panic from that soil:
Methinks you know and that your soul is glad
To see French peasants peacefully at toil.

We'd laughed at all your pranks and boyish wit
And scarce could think you grown to man's estate;
The shot that brought you down, the nation hit;
O'er all the land hearts leaped with grief and hate.

'Tis for ourselves, not you, we mourn today,
You scion of our choicest and our best;
Such lives as yours we're ill resigned to pay,
To rid the world of Hohenzollern pest.

But you!—'twas thus, brave heart, you'd choose to go;
If come death must, you'd have him ride a cloud;
And when you went, 'twas gayly, that I know,
As well befits the gallant and the proud.

Above your breast the Yankee bugles blow;
French hands are twining wreaths across the sea;
And somewhere your brave heart is joyed to know
That all about your grave French soil is free.

HARRY D. THOMPSON.

DEMOCRATIC CONVERT.

One of Mr. Taft's Envoys Comes Out For Governor Cox.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The convention at San Francisco has given us a superior candidate for the Presidency and a superior platform. It is a cause for gratitude at this trying time.

The Chicago convention accepted as its chairman the most powerful enemy of the League of Nations. It then permitted a coterie of Senators to dominate its principal committee and to frame, and get adopted, resolutions upholding their own disastrous course in the Senate, characterizing it as patriotic. It turned its back on the existing world organization, worked out by the thought and labors of many men during, and long previous to, the Peace Conference, and by the necessary give-and-take of all the progressive nations. Its vague declaration in favor of the principle of world-organization, while conveying the impression that we were to attempt to undo all that had been done and ourselves to impose a superior plan, was too impractical and too dishonest to command respect.

The time is plainly too big with possibilities of good and evil to permit of indulgence in the luxury of partisanship. If the existing League of Nations is suffered to become ineffective, the principle of international organization will rest under a cloud for years to come, and closed will be our avenues of escape from the armament waste and the nightmare of war. The way to make the League effective is for our country to join it at the earliest possible day, and the way to get that done is to elect the men who have been and are its friends.

Breaking away from old political ties is not a light nor an easy matter. When the existence of the Union was at stake, my own father, who had been a Democrat up to that time, clapped muskets on the shoulders of two of his sons who were old enough to fight and sent them into the Union army as privates. Since that day we have been Republicans, and I have hitherto been able to take pride in the achievements of the party. But after Chicago I was one of those who felt that it would be a duty to part political company with many valued friends and support the Democratic ticket unless prevented by a foolish platform or impossible candidates. It was, then, a source of immense satisfaction when San Francisco brought us a platform written by statesmen and candidates of tried ability and character.

Governor Cox's effective administration of the affairs of his own State, and his published views, especially as disclosed in his article in THE NEW YORK TIMES of May 23 (republished July 7), with its balanced judgments and moderation of statement, inspire confidence in his ability to guide the nation wisely as its chief executive. THE TIMES article reveals understanding of the principles and possibilities of a League of Nations and of the way to meet any honest doubts of its effect on American constitutional and other problems. It likewise discloses views on home questions which command respect, displaying a thorough grasp of the nature of our own Government. Among other things, Governor Cox lays proper, but not undue, stress on the principle of local self-government, which really makes it possible to extend dominion safely without limit; he perceives how the ballot-box, substituting evolution for revolution, removes all excuse for resort to violence; how familiarizing the alien with our language and, through it, with our ideals will go far toward solving the alien problem; how facilities for educating the young in rural communities must supplement gain in farming if we are to keep men on the farm; how knowledge is one thing that can be centralized without danger and what part the central government can play in gathering it while leaving the work of actual teaching as much as possible to the separate States and to local communities; how, in labor disputes, the promising line of action lies in letting in the sunlight of God's truth through inquiry without permitting the tribunal to pass judgment on the facts; what the budget system may mean to State and Nation; and the need for a system of taxation which will not discourage enterprise and the accumulation of capital.

A Visitor from Japan.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The Pacific was a vast enigma about forty years ago, but today it is the great artery of trade. And the ships which cross the ocean link the East with the West, making short shrift of distance between them. The American and the Japanese flag on the Kasuga, a warship, tied up at the army and navy pier of Boston, reminded me of a United States Commodore who sailed into our harbor threescore and six years ago to take President Fillmore's message to Japan—the message which made Japan see the world in the social relationships of life.

The Kasuga visited the United States not only to celebrate the one hundredth anniversary of the statehood of Maine, but to foster a spirit of friendliness toward this country which has extended the Western civilization to the East. In Portland the ship, which carried 55 officers and 600 sailors, was welcomed not merely as a representative of Japan, but as a national guest of the United States. The Japanese highly appreciated that the American people, endeavoring to remove the cause of friction and irritation between the two countries, showed a pledge of America's unceasing friendship.

Today Japan comes into intimate contact with America on her eastern seaboard. Japan must make an effort to co-operate with the United States. She must endeavor to implant in the deepest consciousness of her people the truth, that the public interest in democratic internationalism is the noblest of political virtues, which are nourished only by man's faith and love for them.

Salaries of Minor Railroad Officials.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

While nearly all classes of railroad employes are to be taken care of by the Wage Board, nothing has apparently been done in the way of increasing the salaries of the minor officials. The high cost of living affects the latter in the same proportion as the former, and in all fairness they are entitled to reasonable consideration.

The following extract from Mr. Atwood's article in The Saturday Evening Post of July 3 is particularly commended to the attention of the high railroad executives:

"Unfortunately, however, the railroads have always paid rather meagre salaries to those in minor managerial positions, a fact which no doubt has discouraged the rank and file and tended toward the extremely close unionization of the industry. The plain fact is that the railroad service has had much the same deadening effect upon individual opportunity as the Government service. Promotion has been too slow, and the rewards, except in the highest positions, of which there are not enough to hold out much inducement, far too small."

REVISING HAGUE TEXT.

Court Project Soon Ready for League—Principles Agreed Upon.

THE HAGUE, July 14 (Associated Press).—The first part of the conference of jurists who are organizing a Permanent Court of International Justice on the invitation of the League of Nations was finished today. The work has reached a stage where the principles on all important subjects, including the selection of judges, the competence of the court, the law to be applied and the procedure of the court, have been agreed upon on first reading.

The remainder of the week will be devoted to formulating the text of the project, during which time the jurists will sit as an editorial commission. When the text is ready, which is expected at the beginning of next week, the second reading will take place and if an agreement is reached then the project will be ready to be submitted to the Council and Assembly of the League of Nations.

This morning the question discussed was whether a judge should sit during a case in which his country was one of the parties. Though all the jurists admitted that the nationality of a judge was of no moment in the ideal court, they agreed that international law was not yet perfect and decided the judge should resign. His country will be permitted to nominate him as an assessor, however, having the right to be present at all sessions, but having only a consultory voice.

RAINBOWS ELECT OFFICERS.

Special to The New York Times.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., July 14.—At the final session of the reunion of Rainbow Division Veterans here today Cleveland was proposed as the next convention city and won without a dissenting vote. Colonel Matthew E. Tinley of Iowa was elected President and Colonel William P. Screws of Alabama Honorary President. Other officers were named as follows:

Colonel W. E. Tolbert of Texas, First Vice President; Major R. A. Meade of Illinois, Second Vice President; Sergeant John Wirsching of California, Third Vice President; A. G. Brown of Columbus, Ohio, Secretary, and Colonel George Leach of Minnesota, Treasurer. Father Francis P. Duffy was re-elected Chaplain.

For the erection of a memorial to members of the Rainbow Division who made the supreme sacrifice it was suggested that the Executive Committee prepare for a memorial fund campaign. California pledged $500 to the fund.

A motion was adopted instructing the Secretary to send to Marshal Foch the division's warmest regards and congratulations, this being Bastile Day. It was also decided that the regards of the convention be extended to President Wilson.

During the afternoon Birmingham was in a continuous whirl of parades, music and cheering.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, July 14.—At 11:40 tonight, when Chicago's decorated veterans of the World War joined hands with visiting members of the 3d Division, A. E. F., there began a celebration unique in the city's history.

Two years ago today the last great German offensive was launched. Between the Crown Prince and Paris lay the 3d Division.

"Well, I guess we can hold them," said General Joseph T. Dickman, munching a piece of ice. The Germans were held, and that is why the American veterans are celebrating tonight.

At a banquet in the Hotel Sherman last night Major Gen. Howsze, who led the 3d Division into Germany, was guest of honor. Five hundred members of the unit which stopped the Germans sat around the board.

One thousand wearers of gold service chevrons are expected in the city by noon tomorrow, when the veterans open their convention.

HYLAN ADVISES VETERANS.

Tells Ex-Service Men to Keep War Risk Insurance.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 14.—The Bureau of War Risk Insurance today made public an open letter written by Mayor Hylan of New York City to former soldiers, sailors and marines, advising them to keep up their war risk insurance. The letter read:

"If you drop your insurance you are the loser in financial independence and the feeling of security which it gives. But that is not all that is lost. Your family and your dependents lose the protection which these insurance certificates give. While in the individual instance this is felt only in the immediate family circle, yet if thousands of holders of war risk insurance permit their certificates to lapse there is danger to the community at large.

"It is well to turn a deaf ear to the easy-going or irresponsible individual who would urge you to drop your insurance. His argument is one of selfishness alone. And the only return such an argument can ever bring is discontent and unhappiness.

"The holders of war risk insurance are honored above their fellows. They bear the insignia of unselfish service in the cause of humanity. The time is at hand to demonstrate that this spirit still lives. Throw a safeguard around your own fireside. Keep up your premium payments and convert your war risk insurance certificates into policies under one of the plans offered by the Government. You will then be doing the right thing by yourself, your family and your country."

PROPOSE RARITAN CHANNEL.

Sixty Promoters of Project and Guests Make Inspection Trip.

PERTH AMBOY, N. J., July 14.—The first step in agitation for a channel in Raritan River deep enough to permit large steamers to go up as far as New Brunswick was taken today when about sixty members and guests of the Raritan Terminal and Waterways Association made an inspection trip. The guests included heads of factories along the Raritan, Mayors of municipalities fronting on the river, army officers and Government engineers.

The Raritan Bay and Lower New York Bay were covered almost to Sandy Hook. The boat then returned up the Raritan to New Brunswick. Congressman Radcliff of Paterson said the next Congress would act to deepen the channel between Perth Amboy and New Brunswick. Rodney Miller, a Government marine engineer and surveyor, said a public hearing on the matter of deepening and widening the channel would be held probably in Perth Amboy or New Brunswick in October.

$5,000,000 FOR PALESTINE.

M. Manschewitz Goes to Devote This Sum to Country's Development.

Max Manschewitz of Cincinnati, who is sailing today for Palestine, is taking with him $5,000,000 which he will devote to the economic development of the country, the need for which, he declared at a luncheon at the Broadway Central Hotel yesterday, was urgent. Accompanying him, besides members of his family, will be five engineers who will study road building conditions and the erection of factories. The luncheon was given by editors of the Jewish newspapers and magazines in this city.

With the increase in immigration into Palestine, Mr. Manschewitz said there would be an increase in poverty unless Jewish capital in this country built factories for the employment of the immigrants. The Holy Land, he said, had always been a place where men and women went to die. In the future they would want to go there to live, he declared. Mr. Manschewitz intends to devote the rest of his life to the interests of the Jews' new homeland, he says.

Other speakers were Joseph Barondess, Judge Otto Rosalsky, the Rev. H. Masliansky, the Rev. M. S. Margolies, Adolph B. Landau and Harry Fischel.

COAL AND RAIL MEN MAKE RELIEF PLANS

Cars to be Assigned to Mines for Loading and Rushed to Points Where Needed.

FINAL ACTION TOMORROW

All Parties Pleased with Progress—Proposal Involves Temporary Suspension of Contracts.

After an all-day conference yesterday, representatives of coal operators and railway executives drew up a plan to relieve the fuel shortage in the Northwest and in New England. Both Daniel Willard, President of the Baltimore & Ohio, in whose office at 2 Wall Street the afternoon conference was held, and Colonel D. B. Wentz of Philadelphia, President of the National Coal Association, expressed themselves as pleased with the progress made and felt confident that a satisfactory arrangement would be completed soon.

Sub-committees were appointed by the operators and the railroad men. They will meet at 10 o'clock this morning at the Pennsylvania Railroad office, 85 Cedar Street. The sub-committees will work out the details of the general plan and these findings will be submitted tomorrow to a general meeting of the operators and railroad executives for final approval.

The plan on which both sides were in accord, it was said, involves a car distribution program whereby cars may be assigned to mines for loading and then rushed to points where the coal situation may be acute.

The question of coal contracts involved in such a plan of operation came up for consideration, it was said. It appeared that a legal ruling from the Interstate Commerce Commission would have to be sought before it could be put into operation.

Important problems centring around the coal supply were discussed by the conferees. There was great concern shown by the railroad executives and coal operators that whatever plan is finally adopted to relieve the situation, nothing must be done to disrupt the industries dependent on the coal supply. The sub-committees left the meeting with this admonition in mind.

The meeting was harmonious, both sides showing a disposition to co-operate fully, it was said.

"I am hopeful and confident that a satisfactory solution will be reached and that the Northwest and New England will receive the coal they require," said Mr. Willard after the meeting.

He said that the operators were anxious to co-operate and that sub-committees had been appointed to work out the general plan which had been discussed.

"Satisfactory progress has been made," said Colonel Wentz. "A general plan has been drawn up and detail men will work over it tomorrow to whip it into shape, after which it will be submitted to the entire conference."

At the beginning of the conferences, the first of which was held at 61 Broadway, the railroad executives admitted the shortage of open top cars and said that 250,000 were needed.

Mr. Willard was Chairman of the meeting. The other railroad executives included W. W. Atterbury of the Pennsylvania, W. B. Story, President of the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe; C. H. Markham, President of the Illinois Central; B. F. Bush, President of the Missouri Pacific; E. J. Pearson, President of the New Haven, and C. G. Burnham, Vice President of the C., B. & Q.

The bituminous coal operators present were: Colonel D. B. Wentz of Philadelphia, President of the National Coal Association; J. D. A. Morrow, Vice President of the National Coal Association; J. P. Walsh of Pittsburgh; Frank Wilshire, Consolidation Coal Company, New York; C. P. White, Cleveland; F. C. Honnold, Chicago, and J. G. Bradley, Dundon, W. Va.

UTILITIES GET MORE COAL.

Power and Light Companies Have Supply for 15 Days.

During the last week the Brooklyn Edison Company received 32,000 tons of soft coal. Gains were made by several other companies which resulted in placing the public utilities above any immediate fear of a shutdown.

The weekly report of the utilities filed yesterday with the Public Service Commission shows that under the pooling system all of them have enough coal to continue normal operation for about fifteen days, with the prospect that the improvement in the situation will continue.

FOR COURT OF TAX APPEALS.

Former Revenue Solicitor's Proposal at Kentucky Bar Meeting.

HENDERSON, Ky., July 14.—A Circuit Court of Appeals for Taxes should be established to meet needs for prompt judicial determination of the validity and effect of tax regulations of the Department of Internal Revenue, Robert N. Miller, former Solicitor of Internal Revenue, declared in an address at the annual meeting of the Kentucky State Bar Association here today.

Revision of Federal war revenue acts also was needed to remove impositions on the taxpayers of unreasonable burdens, Mr. Miller said.

"Beginning with the things which must be done, two propositions are clear," he added. "They are that retroactive tax legislation, however necessary in the war emergency, must utterly be abandoned, and that the tax burden must be distributed more equitably, to remove unfair stress on particular groups."

Speaking against "group taxation," Mr. Miller said:

"Voters may enjoy passing a law which appears to subject a particular group of successful corporations to a heavy tax, but in the long run, since taxes must be figured in the selling price of the goods or services, just as any other element in the selling price is figured, voters are still taxing themselves.

"Even an excise tax on stock dividends, so popular a subject of discussion with those who do not expect to receive any, would be shifted, finally and at length through operation of necessary economic laws, back to the consuming public. This is not an agreeable doctoring, but things are true that are not agreeable. We have to face the facts."

He urged that steps be taken to replace the excess profits tax by a flat corporation tax not involving calculation of invested capital; also to impose a moderate individual income tax, and provide for final settlements between the Government and taxpayers which shall be binding on both parties; give taxpayers the privilege of distributing accumulated gains over the several years to which they are properly allocable; clear up uncertainties as to "personal service corporations," and provide relief to taxpayers suffering net losses in taxable years, so they may deduct them from subsequent years' profits until the losses are exhausted.

M. L. Schiff Made Scout Chairman.

Mortimer L. Schiff, New York banker, yesterday was appointed Chairman of the American delegation of Boy Scouts of America officials which will attend the first international conference of Scout executives to be held in London on July 25-30. Mr. Schiff will sail today on the Imperator, accompanied by Colin H. Livingstone of Washington, D. C., President of the Boy Scouts of America; James E. West, Chief Scout Executive, and John M. Phillips of Pittsburgh, member of the Executive Board.

BUYS FROISSART MS.

Mrs. Millard's Purchase, at £2,950 May Have Been for Huntington.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, July 14.—At yesterday's sale at Sotheby's of Lord Mostyn's collection of illuminated manuscripts Mrs. George Madison Millard, a bookseller of Pasadena, Cal., purchased for £2,950 the manuscript of Froissart's "Chronicles" in two folio volumes containing 363 leaves with thirty-one miniatures.

It is understood that Mrs. Millard made the purchase for a very well known collection, and it is suggested that it was for the Huntington Library which is being erected in Pasadena.

NAVY LIQUOR CASE FAILS.

Ensign Acquitted of Charges of Bringing Intoxicants from Bimini.

Ensign Windsor H. Cushing, senior officer of Naval Seaplane 3606, who was tried on a charge of bringing liquor in a plane from Bimini, Bahamas, to Miami, Fla., was acquitted yesterday by the General Court-Martial at the Brooklyn Navy Yard. Counsel for Cushing said it had not been proved that the bottles found on the seaplane contained liquor. The bottles were all thrown overboard when the seaplane reached the naval air station, after coming from the Bahamas.

Ensign Frank Lamb, junior officer of the seaplane, against whom similar charges have been made, probably will be placed on trial today.

HUNDREDS VIEW BODY OF EUGENIE IN MADRID

MADRID, July 13.—Hundreds of the members of the Spanish nobility and others visited the palace of the Duke of Alba today to look for the last time upon the face of the late Empress Eugenie. Masses were being said continuously during the day.

The Duke of Alba, who is expected to return to Madrid from Paris tomorrow, will accompany the body to England on board an ordinary mail train.

When the casket is taken from the palace to the station, however, it will be carried in the royal hearse.

The body of the former Empress lying in state was clothed in the habit of the Carmelite Order. A silver crucifix lay on her breast.

Eugenie long before her death expressed a desire that her funeral be conducted with the greatest simplicity and that her body be buried beside that of her husband, Napoleon III., in the chapel built by her at Farnborough, England.

The late ex-Empress Eugenie made complete arrangements ten years ago with regard to her resting place when she should come to die, as she has done now at 94. It was said at the time that her tomb would be unique in England, if not in the world. For this purpose, she caused to be constructed a remarkable addition to the mausoleum in the Benedictine Abbey, which she had formerly built at a cost of $500,000 near the English home where she spent most of her fifty years' exile.

In the large church that forms part of this abbey at Farnborough, in Hampshire, on either side of the high altar, are granite sarcophagi containing the remains of Napoleon III. and the Prince Imperial. Behind the altar is a small door leading into the monastery, and over this an "arcosolium," or niche with vaulted roof, was in 1910 built into the wall. Designed by French architects and constructed of stone, the new work formed the framework of a tomb, the third and last that the Empress's church was destined to receive.

Mass was sung annually during Eugenie's lifetime on the anniversary days of her husband and son. It was said also that the Benedictine Abbey at Farnborough was the only place in the world where similar service was held each year for the great Napoleon I. One of the last public appearances of the ex-Empress at this church was on the occasion when she took part in the thanksgiving service for the allied victory following Armistice Day.

Brunswick Phonograph

Becomes a Wanamaker Feature

And These are the very good reasons

The most important thing you buy in a phonograph is music; and the quality of that music depends largely upon the tone of the instrument. Now, the question of tone is a very broad one, regarding which there will never be a universal opinion. But—

Every maker of a phonograph is striving for several definite qualities in tone production—clarity for one; less surface noise for another; and a more perfect re-production of voice or instrument.

When we first heard The Brunswick

—we were impressed with its all-around excellence—particularly with its musical reproduction. It was smooth; clear; mellow; pleasing. Then we examined the Ultona, an exclusive Brunswick feature. This Ultona is a combination reproducer, which plays all kinds of records with exactly the right pressure, and in the right way. A turn of the hand turns the trick.

This feature looked even better upon closer examination, and the demonstration proved the point in a better way still. "Here," we said, "is something that people everywhere have been waiting for—a new idea that is practical and good."

The Cabinet work

—of the Brunswick is unusually fine. Beginning with style 107, at $125, there is a gradual increase in the cabinet size, and in the elaboration of detail; but no matter which model you choose, you will be favorably impressed (as we were) with the construction and finish.

Now the records

"Can the Brunswick people really make GOOD records?" we asked. . . . "What is their plan for the future?" . . . . These were natural questions; we wanted to know for your sake as well as ours. So we went to a demonstration and listened . . . And we heard some excellent recordings—surprising, in fact.

Then we saw the materials that were used in making the records. Nothing cheap, nor skimped, nor slipshod. . . . Care and precision all the way through; BECAUSE—

The Brunswick Co. is working for the future, planning to build up a fine library of good music—the kind of music that every home knows and wants. The record production will grow; new numbers will be ready every month; and there will always be something that is interesting and good

Come in and hear

We have the Brunswick ready to demonstrate. You can hear it side by side with many other instruments. You can hear Brunswick records—or any other style or make of record you prefer. You can be the judge and the jury, and you'll enjoy the demonstration.

We're Glad

—to have the Brunswick because it is another step forward. It adds to our service; and service is something that means much these days to every phonograph purchaser.

ARMY FLIERS START ALASKAN TRIP TODAY

WILL MAP HIDDEN LANDS

Expedition's Chief Dangers on 45-Day Journey Are Forced Landings Amid Mountains.

The War Department announced late yesterday that all arrangements for the New York to Nome, Alaska, and return army flight had been completed and that, unless bad weather or some unforseen circumstances prevent, four De-Haviland 4-B Liberty airplanes will leave Mitchel Field, Garden City, at 10 o'clock this morning, on the start of the 9,000-mile flight. Captain Howard T. Douglas, who has gone over the proposed route, locating landing fields and placing supplies at proper points, has reported that everything along the line of flight is ready. It has been estimated that the trip to Nome and return will take forty-five days.

The route of the Alaskan Flying Expedition will be:

New York (Mitchel Field) to Erie Pa., 350 miles; Erie to Grand Rapids, Mich., 800 miles; Grand Rapids to Winona, Minn., 810 miles; Winona to Fargo, N. D., 320 miles; Fargo to Portal, N. D., 290 miles; Portal to Saskatoon, Sask., Canada, 280 miles; Saskatoon to Edmonton, Alberta, 800 miles; Edmonton to Jasper, Alberta, 200 miles; Jasper to Prince George, B. C., 200 miles; Prince George to Hazelton, B. C., 220 miles; Haselton to Wrangell, Alaska, 210 miles; Wrangell to White Horse, Yukon, 300 miles; White Horse to Dawson, Yukon, 250 miles; Dawson to Fairbanks, 275 miles; Fairbanks to Ruby, 240 miles; Ruby to Nome, 300 miles.

On reaching Nome the expedition will make a 100-mile flight to Cape Prince of Wales, at which point it will be approximately fifty miles from the continent of Asia.

This is the personnel of the expedition:

Plane 1—Captain St. Clair Street, pilot and commanding officer of the expedition; Sergeant Edmond Henriques, observer and mechanic.

Plane 2—First Lieutenant Clifford C. Nutt, second in command, pilot; Second Lieutenant Eric H. Nelson, engineering officer, pilot.

Plane 4—Second Lieutenant Ross Kirkpatrick, information officer and pilot; M. E. Sergeant Joseph E. English, mechanic and observer.

Especially equipped for the long flight, the planes will carry 117 gallons of gasoline and 12 gallons of oil. An officer of the Canadian Air Service assisted Captain Douglas in laying out the route, and the Canadian Weather Bureau will cooperate with the American Weather Bureau in furnishing the aviators with daily weather reports.

In addition to establishing an aerial route to the northwestern part of the American continent, one of the principal purposes of the flight is to photograph an important area in that territory which is comaratively inaccessible and has never been surveyed. The tract lies to the south of the Tanana River and is approximately 170 miles long and 65 miles wide.

Lieutenants Nelson and Nutt, two of the flight officers, have had a special course of training at the Air Service School of Aerial Photography at Langley Field, near Hampton, Va.

Grand Rapids, Mich., marks the turning point where airplanes will be turned northward toward Nome, and all is expected to be well along the route until the fliers reach Jasper, Alberta, Canada. Here the most difficult and dangerous part of the flight begins. The Canadian Rockies are encountered soon after leaving Jasper and are known to be a part of the most rugged and inaccessible region in the northwest part of the North American continent. Speed will be reduced from this point on and the planes will probably only make one jump per day or 250 miles of flying.

In flying over the country the pilots will have to rely entirely on their compasses, and their ability as aerial navigators will have a thorough test. The success of the expedition is dependent largely on the performance of the Liberty motor with which each plane is equipped.

Each plane will carry mosquito helmets, a concentrated supply of food, as well as revolvers, shotguns, fishing tackle, &c., for emergency. Every precaution has been taken to guard against any trouble whatsoever, and it is believed that the planes will complete the trip, encountering only minor troubles which will not call for forced landings.

MAYOR HITS TUBE CRITICS.

Says City Had No Power to Pay Contractor $625,000 More.

Charging "false and misleading propaganda against the city officials" by certain contracting interests, Mayor Hylan replied yesterday to the charge made on Tuesday by the General Contractors' Association that the city was facing a loss of approximately $1,565,000 on one small subway contract because of the failure of the Board of Estimate to keep its alleged agreement to allow the contractors the difference in the cost of materials and labor between war and pre-war periods. The contract involved is for a section of the Fourteenth Street-Eastern District line, and was let to the Degnon Contracting Company for $1,972,349.

When the work was about one-third completed the company announced that it could go no further unless $626,000 more than the contract price, or a total of $1,799,115, was allowed for the completion of the remaining two-thirds of the job. This was refused and the city thereupon advertised for new bids, and recently the Board of Estimate approved a bid of $3,364,000 to finish the work.

The Mayor, in a letter to Commissioner of Accounts David Hirshfield, directed him to make a thorough investigation into all the facts used by the contractors' association as a basis for their charge that the Board of Estimate alone is responsible for this loss. In his letter the Mayor says "that certain interests, their financial backers, asd other corporate interests, have been endeavoring to induce, persuade, and in fact coerce public officials to reimburse certain contractors out of the city treasury for any loss they may have sustained in their contracts with the city."

The Mayor said that the contractors tried twice to have a law enacted in Albany which would have cost the people from $50,000,000 to $100,000,000. He added that under the law the city had no power by which it could give the Degnon Contracting Company $625,000 in excess of its contract price.

FAMOUS VIOLINIST COMING.

Otokar Sevcik, a famous violinist and teacher, of Prague, according to advices from that city to the Czechoslovak Review, of New York, has decided to follow the example of Leopold Auer, of Petrograd, and come to America. The local Czechoslovak organ says that under the terms of a contract entered into by Sevcik with the Egbert Conservatory, of Ithaca, N. Y., he has agreed to spend six months, beginning Jan. 1 next, instructing American pupils at Ithaca.

Sevcik, who is 68 years old, having been born in Bohemia on March 22, 1852, studied music with his father and at Prague Conservatory, and made his début as a solo player at Vienna in 1873. He is noted, however, for his own pupils in later years, including Kubelik, Kocian, Marie Hall, Carl Ondricek, Sascha Culbertson, Eleanora Jackson and others known in New York, as well as Hugo Heermann, Jr., whose father played here, and Adolph Wilhelmj, son of the virtuoso of that name.

RUM RAIDS HIT EIGHT ATLANTIC CITY CAFES

EACH IS HELD IN $1,000 BAIL

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, July 14.—The Federal authorities put a few extra nails in the "booze lid" here today when they arrested eight café men on warrants charging violation of the prohibition law.

The specific charge was "keeping for sale liquor and selling it contrary to the provisions of the Volstead act."

The arrests closely followed the spectacular raids made at seven cafés last Saturday afternoon by Philadelphia agents, over the heads of local officers. Chief J. W. Crowly said the evidence on which the arrests were made was obtained by his men before last Saturday's raids. The café men arrested were:

EMMETT J. DUGAN, Jackson Cafe, Virginia Avenue and the beach.

HENRY MARTIN of the Cafe Martin.

H. O. SMITH of the Little Egg Harbor Cafe and RALPH WELLHOF of the Paradise Inn, both on the north side.

In some cases the accused learned that warrants had been issued for them and appeared voluntarily in the office of the United States Commissioner and accepted service. Bail was fixed at $1,000 for each defendant and promptly furnished. Commissioner Loomis set next Wednesday as the date for a preliminary hearing.

The agents had a search warrant for the Princess Hotel on Saturday along with the others, but Crowly explained that when his men attempted to serve it they found that a wrong description of the location was given. When they were refused admittance the agents did not attempt to force entrance.

"Prior to the raids I sent my men around to the cafés enumerated in the warrants," Crowly said this afternoon. "They bought liquor in every place mentioned. On the strength of these purchases I have issued the warrants."

When his attention was called to the fact that some of the men arrested were the managers and not the proprietors, Crowly replied: "We probably will get the proprietors after the hearing, as well as the waiters who served the liquor. However, that will be determined later, as will also what disposition is to be made of the seized goods."

Crowly refused to say whether additional raids could be expected. He admitted, however, that he had a large force still in the city.

OUSTED DRY AGENT IS HELD.

Enforcement Officer Charged with Illegally Moving Whisky.

Armand Lagier, formerly a prohibition enforcement agent, who was suspended by James Shevlin, Supervising Agent, on March 6, was arraigned yesterday before United States Commissioner Hitchcock on a complaint charging him with aiding in the illegal transportation on July 9 of fifty cases of whisky withdrawn from bond for non-beverage purposes. In violation of the permit, the complaint says, the whisky was delivered to places to be sold for beverage purposes.

Lagier, who lives in Tiffany Place, the Bronx, was released on bail of $500 by the Commissioner for hearing on Aug. 17. The defendant was brought here Tuesday night from Pennsylvania, where he was arrested. Mr. Shevlin said Lagier worked as a prohibition enforcement agent only a short time, when he was suspended, and since then had been under surveillance.

Louis Csahi was sentenced by Federal Judge Harlon B. Howe yesterday for three months in the Essex County, N. J., penitentiary for illicit distilling. "This illicit distilling has got to be stopped," said Judge Howe, "because violators of the law are reaping enormous profits. In other cases I shall be more severe in giving punishment."

Prohibition Agents Furey and Collyer yesterday seized forty-three ginger ale bottles, alleged to contain ginger ale highballs, in the saloon of Louis Swiskey, 7,121 Third Avenue, Brooklyn. Swiskey was arrested and held in $1,000 bail on a charge of having liquor in his possession in violation of the Volstead act.

Henry Hubner, of 319 Freeman Avenue, Long Island City, arrested by prohibition agents for selling liquor, was held in $1,000 bail for examination.

A. HAMMERSTEIN TO PRODUCE SEVEN PLAYS

Arthur Hammerstein's plans for the coming season embrace five musical comedies and two plays.

First comes "Tickle Me," which, serving Frank Tinney, is now on the last stretch of rehearsals, and is to open at the Selwyn Theatre Aug. 16. Slated for a New York opening on Sept. 20, Frances White, engaged by Hammerstein for five years, will star in a musical comedy called "Jimmie," which also provides for Ben Welch and Roger Imhoff as features. Both these men are from the burlesque field. The Harbach-Mandel-Hammerstein combination of authors and Herbert Stothart as composer are putting the finishing touches to "Jimmie."

"I'm Cured," a musical comedy makeover, adapted by Otto Harbach from William Collier's farce "Never Say Die," will be presented in Hartford, Oct. 11. "The Love Apple," in "two bites" and "ten nibbles," with Bide Dudley as creator of the book and lyrics, will come as a musical attraction around holiday time. "Blossom Time," another by Harbach, will bloom late in February, when Louise Allen will accompany it into New York.

Also there is "The Marriage Not," a three-act comedy drama written by Ada Patterson, whispered to be inspired by the "pal" married life of Fannie Hurst. Eugene Walter, commissioned by the same producer, has set to work on a new play on the Irish question, called "Sinn Fein." The cast is to be made up largely of Irish players. Hammerstein's road plays will be "Always You," starred in by Irene Franklin; "Some Time," "Somebody's Sweetheart," and "Tumble In."

'Cyrano de Bergerac' Suit Dismissed

The suit instituted by Ruby L. Hodgson against Edward Vroom for damages for alleged infringement of the copyright of the play "The Merchant Prince of Cornville" in the production of Edmond Rostand's play "Cyrano de Bergerac" was dismissed yesterday by Federal Judge John C. Knox. Mr. Vroom was allowed the costs of the litigation.

GALA CONCERTS INDOORS.

Rain Drives National Symphony and Goldman's Band from Open.

Wind and rain played the overture to two gala concerts planned in open air last night, one at the Stadium, where Hipolito Lazaro, the Metropolitan tenor, was to sing with the National Symphony Orchestra, and the other at Columbia University, where Goldman's Band had a French program in honor of Bastile Day.

Both organizations had shelter near at hand, however, in the City College Hall and the Columbia Gymnasium. These were filled to capacity, about 3,000 each, where the throngs afield in ordinary weather would both have figured above 10,000.

Mr. Lazaro sang airs from "La Boheme" and Meyerbeer's "L'Africaine" in the Great Hall at 140th Street, and Mr. Rothwell conducted Beethoven's fifth symphony. Mr. Goldman's popular program on Morningside Heights included the "Marseillaise" and "Sambre et Meuse."

MUSIC NOTES.

Edgar Schofield will sing the "Evening Star" from "Tannhauser" and Valentin's air from "Faust" in tonight's concert at the Stadium. Cornelius Van Vliet, 'cello, and Albert Chiafarelli, clarinet, will play "Under the Lindens," from Massenet's "Alsatian Scenes." Walter Rothwell will conduct Halvorsen's "March of the Boyars," Glaznov's Suite, op. 52; Offenbach's entr'acte and barcarole from "Tales of Hoffmann" and Elgar's march, "Pomp and Circumstance."

Ugo Ara was a passenger on the Giuseppe Verdi, due yesterday from Italy, where the former member of the Flonzaleys went to arrange for a tour of America by an orchestra from Milan to be conducted by Toscanini.

Sigmund Romberg has written "The Dream Lady," to be sung in a pageant play of that name on Saturday at Elkridge, Red Bank, N. J., by the Junior League.

Watahwaso, an Indian soprano, with Nicolo Zerola, tenor, and Sascha Jacobsen will appear in a benefit on Friday evening at Castles by the Sea, Long Branch.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

Abraham Levy is retiring from the theatrical producing business to become general manager for Sam H. Harris.

Instead of taking a vacation, William Collier will direct the rehearsals of Arthur Hammerstein's "Tickle Me."

Reports on the progress of the race between the Resolute and the Shamrock IV. this afternoon will be received by wireless at the Rialto and Rivoli Theatres and flashed on the screen.

RUTH HITS ANOTHER, BUT YANKEES LOSE

QUINN DRIVEN FROM BOX

Allows One Hit in First Six Innings, but Passes Out of Game in the Seventh Frame.

Babe Ruth pasted his twenty-eighth home run of the season into the lower tier of the right field grand stand at the Polo Grounds yesterday. The Prince of Punchers had his mind all made up to make his twenty-ninth home run yesterday also and tie last year's record but Dixie Davis, the St. Louis pitcher, didn't give him a chance to hit after his first homer. Davis walked the thumper three times. Ruth says that if the pitchers are going to keep on walking him so much, he is going to ask them to furnish him with shoes. He has worn out three pair this season already.

This pleasant feature of the game is unloaded because what must be said about the Yanks from now on isn't so jolly. The Yanks lost the ball game, with the light end of a 7 to 3 score. St. Louis rose in anger in the seventh inning and whacked Jack Quinn out of the game. Languid Ernie Shore came in and finished well in a lost cause. It was a sad occasion.

The collapse of Quinn came as a shock. For six innings he held them at bay and gave only one hit, that a single to Gerber in the fifth after two were out. Then in the seventh, which Sisler opened with a single, everything went wrong, and after the Browns had smashed in three runs Shore went to the mound with two on the bases and no one out. Shore did well to get out of that mess as quickly as he did.

Meusel Forced to Retire.

The Yanks didn't show their usual dash and punch yesterday. They weren't scrappy enough to get going when St. Louis went to the front. When Ruth got his home run off Davis in the second inning, the Yanks seemed to take it for granted that the game was over. However, one run isn't margin enough on which to do business with a club like Jimmy Burke's Browns.

Peckinpaugh was back at the old stand at short and Ward went back to third, Meusel taking his right field berth. Meusel's bruised hand bothered him after he went to the bat in the second inning and he gave way to Vick. Sammy uncorked an error in the eighth which was of such generous proportions that it handed the Browns a couple of extra runs, which they didn't at all need.

For the first few innings it looked like easy picking for the Yanks. Ruth was the first Yank on the batting horizon in the second inning. Dixie Davis, the Brownie flinger, tried to sneak one over on Babe and he smashed it into the grand stand for his twenty-eighth bang of the season, before Davis knew what kicked him. Smith tossed Meusel out and Bodie also went out at first, via Gedeon. Pratt singled to centre and the inning closed when Smith tossed out Ruel at first.

Quinn gave Severeid a pass in the third, and he was the first player to reach first. He stayed there because the next two batsmen, Davis and Tobin, were easy outs. In the fifth, with two out, Gerber singled to left for the first St. Louis hit of the game.

While Quinn was doing this high class flinging, the Yanks were letting chances slip by like water tumbles over Niagara Falls. Why, in the fourth inning Davis was so wild that he gave three walks and loaded the bases after two were out and the Yanks couldn't squeeze over a run. After Gedeon tossed out Pipp, Ruth walked. Babe stole second with a new fangled slide. He also used a sliding glove in his left hand so that he wouldn't hurt his wrist. Babe slid into second on the outside of the bag, his feet flying out toward center field while he slipped his gloved left hand over and grabbed the base. It was a neat bit of acrobatics.

Opportunity Beckons in Vain.

Vick was called out on strikes. Davis was as wild as a Fiji and walked Bodie. Then he walked Pratt and filled the bases. With this appetizing layout before him, the best that Ruel could do was to knock a grounder to Smith, who just touched third and forced Bodie for the final out. In the fifth there were two gone when Ward socked a three-bagger to left centre and Pipp feebly rolled to Davis, who chucked him out for the third out.

In the sixth inning Babe Ruth came up for the third time of the afternoon. At just exactly 4:34 by the clock. Davis's count on Ruth was two strikes and three balls. It seemed as if Babe's twenty-ninth home run, tying last year's record, was about to be hatched. The fans sat over in the edges of their seats, clenched their fists and suffered in the heat with their eyes trained onto the right field grand stand. Davis shot over another ball and Babe walked. The only satisfaction the crowd got was hissing Davis, who was probably only doing what his boss ordered him to do. Babe tried his new slide again and this time got caught.

The slip of a lad who just now carries around the biggest batting average in the world, George Sisler, was the first Brownie up in the seventh. George singled to left, this being the second hit that had been made off Quinn during the afternoon. Jacobson hoisted a fly to short left. Peck ran back to get it and Ruth yelled for him to stay away. Ruth opined that he had it. As Babe put up his hands to catch the ball the well-known sun flooded through Babe's glasses and filled his eyes, so the ball fell safely.

Shore Replaces Quinn.

Quinn then got a bit wabbly and passed Williams, filling the bases. As the Yank infield was playing in for Smith, he lifted a pop over the infield to short left and Sisler scored. That almost completed the upset of Quinn, and when Gerber slashed a single to right field, which pushed Jacobson and Williams over the plate, Quinn took a short cut to the club house. Ernie Shore came up wearing a look as if he expected that he would soon be following Quinn. Hank Severeid banged a double close to the left field foul line and scored Smith. Peck threw out Davis at first. Tobin sent a hard drive to Vick and Gerber scored on the sacrifice fly. Gedeon hoisted to Bodie and the suffering was ended.

Jacobson singled in the eighth with one gone and after William flied to Vick, Smith singled to right. The ball flitted through Sammy's hands and rolled to the fence, while Jacobson and Smith scored.

Aaron Ward enlivened the eighth with a home run into the left field bleachers. Ordinarily this would have been an occasion for a demonstration, but with the Yanks five runs behind it didn't look very profitable. After Pipp had grounded out again, Gedeon to Sisler. Ruth walked for the third time and Vick was hit in the head and got free passage to first. Bodie singled to right and sent Ruth through. Davis disposed of Pratt at first for the third out.

TY COBB INJURED AGAIN.

Is Carried from Field While Red Sox Down Detroit Twice.

BOSTON, July 14.—Everett Scott ran his string of consecutive games up to 601 today and Boston celebrated by defeating Detroit in both ends of a double header, 6 to 5 and 4 to 0. The first game was won by a rally in the ninth inning. Ty Cobb again injured his left leg in that inning and was carried from the field. Joe Bush was ejected from the game for bumping intoi Umpire Friel after a decision at first base.

Pennock was credited with winning both games. Detroit batters were ineffective against Boston pitching, making only four hits in each game. Scott made two doubles and a single in the second game.

Curves and Bingles

Sisler covers not only first base, he also covers the space 10 feet above it and the territory two feet under it, to say nothing of the 10 feet on all sides of the pillow.

St. Louis ought to win a game once in a while. The club had two managers. Jimmy Burke is the regular boss and Lee Fohl, who used to manage Cleveland, is first mate.

Jimmy Burke's favorite cry to his players is, "Hit it where you like it." His cry to his pitchers is, "Pitch it where Ruth doesn't like it."

Ruth was mad when he went up to bat for the first time. He didn't like that striking out five times in one afternoon. Ruth will make some pitcher pay dearly for that before this season is over.

One more homer and Ruth will equal his home run record of last season. Two more and he will establish a new record which will probably never be approached by any one else until they make the ball out of India rubber and the bat out of dynamite.

After Ruth stole second in the fourth Davis tried to catch Babe napping off second. He threw the ball back once too often and it was wild, so Babe went to third.

The mere 12,000 fans at the game yesterday looked like a handful of people compared with the multitude of Tuesday.

When Sam Vick was hit on the side of the head with the ball, he went right to first base without even rubbing the bump.

GIANTS HAVE EASY TIME WITH CARDS

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., July 14.—Arthur Nehf pitched fine ball, the Giants hit when there were men on bases, and thereby they defeated St. Louis, 7 to 1, at Sportsman's Park this afternoon. The fielding of the New Yorkers was not so good as the pitching or as their hitting, but they did reasonably well in the field. Had they fielded perfectly, Nehf would not have been scored upon.

The Cardinals did not get a man to third base until slow fielding by King let McHenry's high fly go for a triple in the eighth inning. To that time the Cardinals got but one man as far as second base, Schultz in the third inning. Nehf was careless when he pitched the first ball to McHenry in the eighth. The batter reached outside the plate and smote it. The pitch was so far off the plate that King probably thought that it would not be hit, so he was slow about getting after the fly. Then Schultz hit the third bag with a single and the Cardinals scored the only run they had a chance to score during the game.

To the seventh May was almost as good a pitcher as Nehf. The Giants had a lot of trouble with the little Cardinal left-hander. May struck out two men in the first inning and two in the second after Frisch was on third with no one out. Doyle's fly to Schultz ended the inning.

Nehf Starts Big Rally.

Nehf himself started the débâcle in the seventh that put the game in the locker. He opened with a real single to left off May, who had been puzzling the left-handed hitters. Burns followed with a line single over shortstop on a hit and run play. In the eighth inning Nehf and Burns continued the nefarious work. With two gone Fournier dropped Lavan's throw and the New York pitcher was on base. Burns hit a tremendous triple off Goodwin. It was a tremendous drive. From all of which it may be deduced that Nehf was a very decided factor in the victory.

Frisch again played a beautiful game in the field and at the bat. Bancroft let some balls get away, or through him, that liberal scoring recorded as hits against Nehf. The Giants pulled themselves together and looked like a much better team than they had at any previous time in St. Louis this season. The base running was exceptionally good. The Giants exploited that advantage to the limit. They put a lot of the old time Giant dash and vim into their game here today and encouraged Manager McGraw immensely.

Giants Score in Fourth.

May worried the New Yorkers a lot in the fourth inning. When Frisch, who fought hard at the plate walked. It looked like the play to bunt a pitcher who was hard to hit, but McGraw took a chance and let Kelly hit. And infield hit bounded off May's glove. King beat a perfect bunt right on the third-base line. Three on and no one out. Doyle struck out. Snyder sent in New York's first run with a fly to McHenry.

Bancroft's double and Young's single counted the Giants' second in the fifth inning. The New Yorkers got four in the seventh. Nehf hit hard to right. Burns pickled a fast one over Lavan and Hehf went to third. Nehf scored when Hornsby's throw of Bancroft's grounder took Dilhoefer away from the plate. Young took the third strike. Frisch singled to right, Bancroft going to third. Stock let Schultz's throw get away and Bancroft scored, while Frisch ran to second. Kelly singled to left, scoring Frisch. That finished May. Goodwin pitched to King, who hit into a double play.

MANY CYCLISTS ENTERED.

ANTWERP, July 13.—America will have twelve opponents in the bicycle road race and ten in the velodrome track events in the Olympic Games. Among the contestants will be some of the best amateur cyclists on this side of the Atlantic, including Pekrs, the famous Dutchman, who has been winning all over Europe.

Olympic committees today announced the following nations had entered the velodrome events to be held Aug. 9 and 10: Great Britain, the United States, Holland, Denmark, Italy, South Africa, Canada, Luxemburg, Switzerland, Poland, and France.

All of these except Switzerland will compete in the 170-kilometer road race on Aug. 12. Czechoslovakia, Norway and Sweden have entered for the road race, but not for the velodrome contests.

After much confusion due to clerical errors, it has finally been announced that the polo matches at Ostend will be played from July 24 to 31, instead of the dates in August which were announced last week. The American polo team includes Colonel Nelson E. Margetts, Colonel John C. Montgomery, Captain Terry de la M. Allen and Captain Arthur Harris, regulars, with Captain William W. West, Captain K. C. Greenwald, Captain Sloan Doak and Captain Harry N. Chamberlain, substitutes. All of them are army officers who have recently been playing in France and who are now training with the American rifle and equestrian teams at Coblenz. Against the Americans will be the Belgian, Spanish, French and British teams, this being the first time in the history of polo that five national teams have engaged in a tournament.

Although the names of her participants have not as yet been received, America, according to the Olympic Committee, has also entered the archery target events, which will be held here from Aug. 3 to Aug. 8. Only two other nations, Holland and France, have teams entered for this part of the Olympiad.

With the main events of the meeting only a few weeks off the Executive Committee is endeavoring to overcome what appears to be a lack of immediate interest prevailing among many of the various sub-committees recently appointed. Some of them are charged with work of importance, but up to the present have shown so little activity that they have been sharply censured by Belgian newspapers. With the exception of the Executive Committee and one or two others, bodies charged with arrangements for the Olympic Games have done very little and now find themselves flooded with work and in confusion.

DODGERS WIN TWO GAMES FROM CUBS

Dame Fortune Helps Them Take First, 3-2, and Bunched Hits Capture Second, 4-1.

CHICAGO, July 14.—With a little assistance from Dame Fortune, the Brooklyn Dodgers managed to win both games of a double-header from the Chicago Cubs here this afternoon. They took the first game by a score of 3 to 2 and won the second, 4 to 1. It was in the first game that Dame Fortune smiled on the efforts of the Robins and enabled them to romp home with the game.

With one run already in in the sixth inning, thanks to a triple by Konetchy and a single by Krueger, Olson thumped the ball over third base. Under ordinary circumstances the hit would have been good for about two bases, but the ball rolled under the picket fence in left field and Krueger scored ahead of Olson. It was this hit, a purely lucky break, that gave the Robins the game.

In the second game the Superbas deserved to win. They outplayed the Cubs throughout. They managed to nick Carter and Bailey, who did the hurling for the Chicago clan, for a total of eleven hits and bunched them so that they were productive of four runs. On the other hand, Ed Pfeffer was in excellent trim and held the Cubs to five hits and one run. Pfeffer has seldom had more stuff on the ball than he had today. His curve was breaking fast and his fast ball was everything that could be desired in that line. The Cubs could do nothing with him and in only the second inning were they able to bunch their hits effectively. In that canto they combined a double and a single and scored a run. It was the only time they had a chance to do anything. Thereafter Pfeffer held them in the palm of his pitching hand. They were at his mercy and he had no mercy.

Pitching Duel in First.

Tyler and Mamaux hooked up in a pitchers' duel in the first game. For six innings the rival twirlers turned back the opposing pitchers without any damage being done. In the sixth, however, the Dodgers broke Tyler's defense and, thanks to Dame Fortune's assistance, were able to put over three runs, enough to win the game. Koney started the inning by tripling over Paskert's head. Kilduff popped to Terry, but Krueger came through with a single that scored Koney. Terry made a great play on Mamaux's grounder over second. The second baseman ran behind the bag and fielded the ball and was able to throw the pitcher out at first. Not only was it a great piece of fielding, but his throw was a peach. He was out of position to make it, but despite this he whipped the ball swiftly and accurately to Barber, just a step ahead of the runner. It seemed then that the scoring of the Robins was successfully checked and that Krueger was doomed to expire on the base paths, but Olson pickled one of Tyler's fast ones, driving the ball over third base. Under ordinary circumstances the hit would have been robust enough to have scored Krueger and to have permitted Olson to reach second, but when it rolled under the picket fence it was good for a homer.

The Cubs tried hard in their half of the same inning to overcome this three-run handicap and they came within one run of succeeding, but just when it seemed that they might tie the score, Mamaux put on additional steam and checked them. After Tyler struck out as a starter in the inning, Kilduff threw out Twombly. Terry then singled to centre, and Robertson walked. Barber beat out a hit to Johnston and the bases were filled. Paskert made good in the pinch by singling to left, scoring Terry and Robertson. That ended the rally for Deal flied to Wheat.

The Cubs became so dangerous in the ninth inning that Mamaux had to be taken out of the box and Burleigh Grimes rushed to the rescue. Paskert started the last half of the last inning by bouncing a hit off Johnston's shins. Deal sacrificed, Mamaux to Koney. A passed ball permitted Paskert to skip to third base. At this stage Mamaux was taken out of the box and Grimes sent in to pitch. Johnston threw out Friberg, Paskert holding third, Daly walked and Flack was sent in to bat for Tyler. Daly stole second and Olson ended the uprising by throwing out Flack.

Start Scoring Early.

The Dodgers got busy early in the second game. They jammed one over the plate in the first inning. Olson started the game by singling to left. He advanced to third when Johnston bounced a single over Deal's head. Griffith singled to right, and Olson scored, and Johnston romped to third. Then Carter put on the brakes and the scoring was stopped.

In their half of the second inning the Cubs tied the score. They bunched two hits, a double and a single, which netted the locals a run. Deal doubled to centre, Friberg sacrificed, Pfeffer to Konetchy, and Daly scored Deal with a single to centre.

In the third inning the Dodgers took the lead. Olson singled to centre. Johnston flied to Robertson and Griffith grounded to Barber. Wheat shook hands with Miss Opportunity and doubled to left, scoring Olson.

In the sixth inning the Dodgers made two runs, completing the scoring for the game. Wheat tripled to centre. Myers doubled to right, scoring Wheat. Koney fouled to Daly. Kilduff popped to Barber, who thought it was the third out and rolled the ball in the direction of the pitcher's bag. Myers took third on this play. Elliott singled to right, scoring Myers with the last run of the game.

DONOVAN PITCHES, BUT SKEETERS LOSE

Wild Bill in Rescue Role—Akron Wins Five-Inning Game by 8 to 2 Score.

Special to The New York Times.

AKRON, O., July 14.—Will Bill Donovan's disgust over the constant losing streak to the Jersey City Skeeters resulted in the manager taking the mound in the third inning of the game against Akron today. The Numatics, however, had the game sewed up when Donovan started, and grabbed their eighth straight game, 8 to 2. A heavy storm stopped the contest in the fifth inning.

Donovan started at first base in the absence of Denoville and, after Grevell had been touched for ten hits and five runs, Bill chased the pitcher and finished the game in the box.

When he arrived on the slab none was out and Walker was on second. Purtell sacrificed, then Wild Bill electrified the crowd by fanning the next two batmens.

He wasn't so fortunate in the fourth stanza. The sacks being crowded by two bases on balls and Thorpe's single. Walker dropped a pop single back of third and two runs were scored. In the fifth Akron was again held scoreless. Webb and Shannon came through with home run drives, it being the second for Webb in two days.

Akron is booked for a doubleheader tomorrow. The first game will be an exhibition with the New York Giants and the second a league scheduled game with Baltimore.

NATURALIST SETS PACE ALL THE WAY

DONNACONA ALSO A WINNER

Left Entry Not Extended at Any Stage of Mile Test—Sea Mint Is Second.

Before a large crowd that welcomed the opening of the Summer racing season at Empire City yesterday, J. E. Widener's Naturalist captured the Empire City Handicap at a mile and a furlong from a small but select field and indicated that he is back in the form that made him one of the best racers in this country last year. The imported gelding set his own pace all the way, was never seriously threatened and won from S. C. Hildreth's Mad Hatter by a length. J. K. L. Ross's Boniface was third three lengths further back, but three lengths in front of M. L. Schwartz's Audacious, which was the favorite.

Although the field was much smaller than usual for this $6,000 race, the Empire City Handicap was a good contest and a truly run one. There were no accidents or excuses. The victory of Naturalist was something of a surprise to those who thought he could not go the distance or that he was not the same horse he was a year ago. It proved, however, that Naturalist has been gradually racing himself into shape until now he has reached the top of his form. The 117 pounds he carried rested lightly on him and he will probably not get in so advantageously again.

Audacious was made the choice on the strength of his victory in the Carter Handicap and the fact that he had but 111 pounds up. He ran a good race for a mile but there was too much speed in the race for him and he was badly beaten all through the final furlong.

Good Lead for Naturalist.

Naturalist has always shown a fondness for the Yonkers track and when the break came yesterday he rushed to the front at once and soon had a good lead. Audacious and Boniface were back of him in the first dash past the stands while Mad Hatter was slow to get going and was trailing some distance away. The Widener gelding began to draw away easily when he reached the back stretch and soon had opened up a gap of about five lengths. Audacious and Boniface were racing head and head and it was this effort which undoubtedly told on Boniface when it came to the stretch run, for with 124 pounds up he showed none of his usual dash in the final furlong and was in fact dropping back badly.

Mad Hatter with Ensor up began to make up ground in the back stretch and Ensor sent the colt along with a rush just before reaching the far turn, so that coming into the stretch Mad Hatter had disposed of Audacious and Boniface and was running second. Once straightened out Mad Hatter closed with a rush which brought him up to within a length of the leader.

From the stands it appeared that Naturalist was sulking, as he has done on numerous occasions, and those who had supported him had a few uneasy seconds. However, Naturalist was not only running kindly but was being handled skillfully. Turner had taken him up for a short breath and when Mad Hatter was at the height of his rush Naturalist was permitted to have his head and he once more drew away, this time to a safe lead, which sent him home an easy winner. Boniface could not get up and Audacious tired badly and dropped back and out of the race in the final sixteenth.

Course Greatly Improved.

The Yonkers course has been considerably improved since last Autumn, and was spick and span yesterday. Better facilities for handling the automobile traffic have been installed, and altogether the plant is better than formerly. The opening day also witnessed the return of the favorites to winning form. Audacious was the only one to disappoint.

In the mile test for three-year-olds George W. Loft's Donnacona had very little trouble in winning over Sea Mint, with St. Allan third and Gloria France last in the small field. With but a small difference in the weights Donnacona had the race in hand at all times and was never fully extended. He went to the front at the start, drew away from Sea Mint, and just romped home. Sea Mint was much the best of the others, and was always second.

Friar Rock's Owner Declines To Set a Price on Stallion

J. H. Rosseter yesterday refused to set a price on the noted stallion Friar Rock, which is now at the head of his stud in California. S. C. Hildreth, who recently bought Inchcape, son of Friar Rock, from Mr. Rosseter for a record price, had desired to own the sire also, as he had trained Friar Rock for all his races. Mr. Rosseter declined to name a price, saying he could not think of parting with the horse. Friar Rock once sold for $50,000.

STARS ELIMINATED IN MEMPHIS GOLF

Special to The New York Times.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., July 14.—Old Gus H. Surprised took his mashie niblick down off the rack today and started shooting. As a consequence, the third round of match play in the Western Amateur Golf Championship, beginning this morning over the Memphis County Club course, finds such notables as Perry Adair, Atlanta; James Manion, St. Louis; Tom Prescott, Atlanta, and Richard Bockenkamp, St. Louis, on the outside looking in. Adair, Manion and Bockenkamp have all had experience in the National Amateur.

Over in Atlanta they are beginning to rate Prescott next to Bobby Jones, but today none of these stars was able to survive the first round.

With the exceptions noted above, the remaining members of the smart set came through the first and second round matches without serious mishap. Bobby Jones, Atlanta, won both of his matches handily and so did Chick Evans, Chicago. It's a better bet than ever now that Chick and Bob will come together in the match that will practically settle the championship today.

Both will have fairly stiff matches over a 36-hole test today, Jones meeting C. W. Hubby, Jr., of Dallas, and Evans playing Jimmy Ward of Kansas City. The dope presages victories for the headliners by reasonably comfortable margins.

Today was an eventful day for the golfers whose names begin with "W." Henry Wenzler, the Memphis champion; Jimmy Ward, the Kansas City collegian; Bert Wilber, the Indianapolis champion, and Clarence Wolff of St. Louis, were among the day's two match winners. Wenzler and Wilber were the authors of two staggering upsets. The young Memphian wrote a glorious chapter in his golfing record when he eliminated Perry Adair, and Wilber set the gallery to chattering when he downed Dick Bockenkamp, the St. Louis juvenile, whose game on the two preceeding days was strong enough to warrant the prediction that he would reach the finals.

Limberg's victory over Manion, who starred in the qualifying round of the National Amateur last Summer, at least had the aspects of a mild surprise. Both are from St. Louis. Limberg won, 2 up. Manion was having 57 varieties of tee trouble. He was out of bounds twice on the first nine, and topped his drive twice besides. Limberg on the other hand played steadily all the way. Manion finished with an 80 against his rival's 78.

DI GENNARO LOSES BOUT IN TOURNEY

Outpointed in Final of Olympic Tryouts—First Defeat in More Than 50 Clashes.

Surprises were furnished last night in the finals of the Olympic boxing tryout tournament at the Sixty-ninth Regiment Armory, when the amateurs from all parts of the country battled for berths on Uncle Sam's boxing team. One of the most striking upsets came in the 112-pound class, when Frank Di Gennaro of the Paulist A. C., who, as A. J. De Vito, carried off the national 108-pound boxing title at Boston, went down to defeat at the hands of Pete Zivic of the Willow A. C., Pittsburgh. The lads were rivals in the final of the 112-pound class, and after a spectacular three-round session the judges' award favored the Pittsburgher by the count of 2 votes to 1. The unfavorable verdict was the first Di Gennaro experienced in more than fifty bouts.

The decision did not meet with the approval of the majority of spectators. Di Gennaro had a legion of admirers in the crowd of 4,000 which turned out for the closing competitions of the tournament, and they openly voiced disapproval of the verdict. It was eminently fair, however, for the national title-holder, battling against the physical handicaps of height and reach, was outpointed in two of the three rounds.

Di Gennaro, with a rushing attack and well directed blows to the face and stomach alternately, showed to advantage in the opening session and urged on by the cheers of his many admirers clearly outpointed Zivic. The Pittsburgher seemed nonplussed in the face of his rival's senational onslaught and in his efforts to return the fire missed with many heavy swings.

In the second session, however, Zivic assumed the offensive and thwarted his rival's efforts at attack with well-timed jabs, which kept Di Gennaro at a safe distance. The Pittsburgh boxer relied principally on his jabbing to outpoint the champion in this round, but managed to score several solid smashes to the face and stomach.

Jabs Upset Champion.

Through the third round Zivic continued his careful plan of battle, while Di Gennaro, evidently with the realization of the necessity for expending greater efforts, sought unceasingly to crash home effective blows through his rival's defense. Zivic, however, met the emergency with well-directed jabs, which upset the title holder's attack, and at the final bell two of the judges decided in favor of Zivic, while the third judge rendered his decision in favor of Di Gennaro.

The bouts were conducted under the rules which will obtain in the Olympic bouts at Antwerp. Under the system prevailing in amateur boxing tournaments here, two judges sit at opposite sides of the ring and render verdicts immediately following each bout. In the event of a disagreement, the referee is called upon, and invariably orders an extra round. Under the Olympic system the referee is made one of the judges, making three arbiters in each bout, and at the conclusion of a contest the written decisions are counted to determine the award.

Earl Hartman of the Herman Institute, Philadelphia, earned a place on the American team as a wearer of Uncle Sam's silks in the 118-pound class. The Quaker City youngster was forced through a sizzling four-round session before finally gaining the distinction on the judges' decision over Stephen Gustin, a sorrel-topped, dangerous boxer from South Boston, Mass. At the end of the fourth round, necessitated when the judges disagreed and Referee Tom Smith refused to render a decision favoring either of the principals, the vote was 2 to 1 in favor of the Philadelphia amateur.

This contest was one of the stiffest of the night. Both lads threw aside what little knowledge they possessed of the scientific side of boxing and slugged savagely and willingly from one end of the ring to the other. The sorrel-topped Gustin, a sensation in the tournament, was competing at a disadvantage in reach and height, but despite the handicaps he bored in continually and belabored Hartman with vicious blows to the face and stomach.

A Slugging Bee.

Hartman, making good use of his natural advantages, landed cleaner and more often in the opening round, but in the second session ran second. In the third round the lads stood head to head for the entire four minutes, slugging fiercely, while the crowd yelled itself hoarse in encouragement. Good, solid thumps were crashed home by both boxers as the tide shifted, but neither youngster retreated more than the space he was driven backward by the force of his rival's blows. When the judges disagreed and an extra round was ordered the crowd sent up a shout which reverberated through the big drill hall.

In this final session Gustin sought to beat his way past Hartman's flailing arms with a hurricane of blows, but the Quaker City boxer had enough reserve strength to counteract this plan with a brilliant display of free-arm swinging in which he scored enough clean blows to gain the judges' decision at the end of the fourth round.

Another member of the Zivic family gained a berth on the Olympic team when Jack Zivic, sporting the colors of the Willow A. C. of Pittsburgh, carried off the premier laurels in the 126-pound class. Jack triumphed over Fireman George Etcell, U. S. Navy, who several years ago as a representative of the Union Settlement A. C., gained the metropolitan 115-pound title. Etcell, a compactly built, muscular gob, gave Zivic a stiff tussle for the honors throughout the three rounds, but at the final bell the Pittsburgher was awarded the unanimous verdict of the judges.

Frank Cassidy of the Ozanam A. A., international lightweight champion, and Sam Mosberg, Pastime A. C., metropolitan title-holder, provided the greatest bout of the night. Cassidy gained the judges' award at the end of three hair-raising rounds, by a count of 2 to 1.

Savage Drives Count.

The international title-holder's, savage drives to the face and stomach, delivered in an almost careless offensive, gained for him the points which landed the judges' verdict. With characteristic eagerness Cassidy forced the fighting throughout, never relenting in his attack and forcing Mosberg to the defensive. The latter tried to peck effectively through Cassidy's defense, but the international champion's solid smashes to face and body gained him a convincing lead in points.

Cassidy had previously upset the winning career of Benjamin Ponteau, a colered boxer of the St. Christopher Club, who had surprised the spectators with his form in the preliminary and second round bouts. Ponteau, a long, lean, heavy-hitting lightweight, found the aggressive, untiring pace and heavy-hitting of Cassidy too great an obstacle to overcome, and was on the short end of the judges' verdict after three hard rounds in the semi-final round.

William Clark, Herman Institute, Philadelphia, and Sam Lagonia, Bronxdale A. C., national and local middleweight champion, were the other boxers to land berths on the Olympic team as a result of last night's clashes. Clark, in the 147-pound division, gained the decision over Jack Bradley, Pastime A. C., in three hotly contested rounds. Lagonia, after going successfully through a stiff struggle with Steve Muchie, U. S. Navy, in his semi-final bout, won by default from Lieutenant Joseph A. Cranston, U. S. Army, in the final bout of the night.

LONDON, July 4.—King Alfonso of Spain participated in a game of polo at the Roehampton Club today. The team on which the King played won by a score of 9 goals to 5. Alfonso scored 3 goals and Prince Henry, third son of King George, shot 2. Other members of the team on which the Spanish monarch and Prince Henry had positions were W. S. Buckmaster and Lord Wodehouse. Their opponents were Early Beatty, Lord Wimborne, Colonel C. D. Miller and E. B. Horlick. The game was a fairly fast one. Among the spectators were the Queen of Spain, Dowager Queen Alexandria and Princess Beatrice.

ANNOUNCE TOURNEY RULES.

One Day Added to Play for Metropolitan Golf Championship.

Secretary A. H. Pogson of the Metropolitan Golf Association yesterday supplied the news that most professionals and many amateur shotmakers have been awaiting impatiently. He disclosed the conditions, rules and regulations for the thirteenth Metropolitan open championship, which will be played at the Greenwich Country Club July 28, 29 and 30. It is assumed, as a matter of course, that Walter Hagen, the national champion, will defend his Metropolitan title at that time.

Three days, instead of the customary two, will be devoted to the fixture. On the first day only the first eighteen holes will be covered, beginning at 9 o'clock. The second round will be played on Thursday, July 29, and the third and fourth circuits will be finished on Friday, July 30, starting at 9 and 1 o'clock. Competitors whose scores at the finish of the first thirty-six holes exceed by eighteen strokes the eighth place shall not be allowed to continue in the competition.

Purses total $755 this year, making a handsome collection of cash for the competing pros. An amateur winning any prize will be given the equivalent in plate. The tournament prizes follow: First $250 and a gold medal, second $125, third $100, fourth $75, fifth, $50, sixth $40, seventh $30, eighth $25. Extra prizes for low scores at various stages of the seventy-two holes of play are $10 each. They are for the following: Low score first day, low score second day, best total first and second day, low score third round, low score fourth round, and best score for the last thirty-six holes.

Entries will close with Secretary Pogson, 45 Nassau Street, on Wednesday, July 21. The tourney is open to all professionals and to all amateurs rated at handicaps of five or lower on the 1920 M. G. A. list or rated on either the 1919 or 1920 U. S. G. A. eligibility list. It is not limited to players from the Metropolitan district, and it is not necessary for contestants to enter through their club secretaries.

RACING IS POSTPONED.

Heavy Rain at Toledo Interferes with Grand Circuit Meeting.

TOLEDO, Ohio, July 14.—A heavy rain early today caused the postponement of the Grand Circuit races, and today's program went over until tomorrow, necessitating racing on Saturday to finish the week's program.

A heavy rain late today makes it doubtful if the track will be in any shape for the third day's racing tomorrow, although Secretary John Jackman was confident that if there was no more rainfall the track would be ready.

Noyes Is Medal Winner.

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., July 14.—W. H. Noyes, Oneida, playing par golf, led the field of 132 starters in the qualifying round of the annual invitation golf tournament of the Mohawk Golf Club here today. S. Davison Herron, Oakmont, national amateur champion, had the next best score, 76. Match play in all divisions will start tomorrow.

Golf Match at Shackamaxon.

There will be an interclub golf match Sunday between Shackamaxon Country Club and Canoe Brook Country Club, at the latter's course at Summit, N. J. It will be teams of twenty men at thirty-six holes.

SURPRISES MARK WOODMERE TENNIS

Botsford Decisively Defeats Kynaston and Martin Is Winner Over Gallon.

Six well-known tennis players of the Metropolitan district yesterday reached the round before the semi-finals in the open tournament of the Woodmere Club, at Woodmere, Long Island. They were Dr. William Rosenbaum, the present holder of the Woodmere Challenge Cup; Fred C. Anderson, Willard Botsford, Anton von Bernuth, Paul Martin and Manfred Goldman. Most of them found worthy opposition in the fourth round, three of the matches going to the limit of three sets.

The most surprising event of the day was the one-sided defeat of Percy L. Kynaston by Willard Botsford. A high wind, blowing directly up and down the courts, unquestionably affected the game of the loser more than that of his rival. Kynaston's ground-strokes were very wild all the way through the two sets, and accurate volleying was practically impossible. Botsford adapted himself to the conditions with some degree of success, and by merely keeping the ball in play he extracted numerous errors from the exasperated Kynaston. The latter failed to get a game in the opening set, and scored only once in the second, going completely to pieces in the face of most discouraging conditions. Botsford played well, under the circumstances, and looked strong enough to have won in any case, though not perhaps by so wide a margin.

The defeat of William J. Gallon of the West Side Club by Paul Martin of University Heights also had the elements of a surprise. Gallon's service is his chief weapon of attack, and this was upset by the wind, as he throws the ball very high before hitting it. Martin, playing very steadily, in spite of all handicaps, took the opening set at 6—3, but lost the next 6—4, with Gallon executing some beautiful shots. In the rubber Martin adapted himself far better to existing conditions, and ran ahead, largely on his opponent's errors, to win comfortably by the margin of 6—1.

Manfred Goldman and Edward J. McCall staged an even closer match, on the court nearest the locker house and most sheltered from the wind. They divided two curiously one-sided sets at 6—1 and 6—0, and then went at the rubber hammer and tongs, with neither ready to give way an inch. The games were a deadlock up to 12-all, until Goldman eventually broke through to put the match and the longest set of the tournament to his credit at 14—12.

Harry Sachs made Dr. Rosenbaum work hard for his victory, although it was scored in straight sets, 6—2, 6—3. The loser was very steady and kept the ball in play for long rallies, usually forcing the cup-holder to earn his points by clean placements. Rosenbaum had enough tennis to accomplish this, even under conditions which were all against accurate control of the ball.

The summaries follow:

Singles—Third Round—Fred C. Anderson defeated Harold Taylor, 6—1, 6—2; Ben Letson defeated Donald Keresey, 6—2, 6—4; Alfred D. Hammett defeated Charles A. Anderson, 6—3, 6—2; Paul Martin defeated William Demuth, 6—2, defaulted.

Fourth Round—Fred Anderson defeated Carlton Putnam, 6—0, 6—1; Dr. William Rosenbaum defeated Harry Sachs, 6—2, 6—3; Willard Botsford defeated Percy L. Kynaston, 6—0, 6—1; Anton Von Bernuth defeated L. W. Knox, 6—2, 6—6, 6—1; Paul Martin defeated William J. Gallon, 6—3, 4—6, 6—1; Manfred Golden defeated Edward J. McCall, 1—6, 6—0, 14—12.

Doubles—First Round—Fred Letson and H. J. Fitzpatrick defeated Byron Kikuchi and W. H. Ruxton, 6—3, 6—1; Katz and McLoughlin defeated Backe and McWhorter, 10—8, 6—3; George S. Groesbeck and Sigmund Spaeth defeated A. H. Frey and L. Luckenbach, 6—2, 6—4.

Second Round—James Weber and Harold Taylor defeated Harry Sachs and Charles A. Anderson, 6—0, 6—2; Percy L. Kynaston and Donald M. Lay defeated George Train and C. Reynall, 6—2, 6—4.

Golf Pros Rebel Against Entrane Fees for Tourney

Detroit golf professionals have mutinied against the plans of the Directors of the Michigan State open championship and will not enter the event unless a change in the conditions is made. The requirements are for each entrant to pay a fee of $25 in order that a group of five prizes may be awarded. The pros say that this means playing for their own money, whereas they insist that the State association should follow the plan used in other sections and offer purses to the pros for competing. Several of the pros who have delivered the ultimatum are former Easterners, including Mike Brady of Oakland Hills, Ben Nicholls of Brooklands, Davie Robertson and Archie Simpson of Detroit Country Club and Bill Trovinger and Jim Kenney of Bloomfield Hills.

RULES FOR GOLF TOURNEY.

Regulations for Open Championship Explained by U. S. G. A.

Rules and conditions for the national open golf championship were announced last night in a circular issued to all member clubs of the United States Golf Association by Wynant D. Vanderpool of Newark, the Secretary. It explains several features which have been in doubt, particularly the exact manner of changing the tourney from a three-day event to a four-day affair, as will be done this year for the first time.

The annual fixture will be played over the links of the Inverness Club in Toledo from Aug. 10 to 13. On Tuesday, Aug. 10, the entire field will play only eighteen holes and on Wednesday, Aug. 11, this will be repeated to determine the lucky qualifiers. Under the conditions only the sixty-four low scorers for these two days, and including also those who tie for the sixty-fourth place, will be permitted to play in the tournament proper on the two following days. The scores on the first two days do not count except to qualify.

Starting Thursday, Aug. 12, the daily task will be thirty-six holes and the tourney will end with the full seventy-two holes, which will be finished on the afternoon of Aug. 13. In case of a tie, as for instance in 1913, when Francis Quimet defeated both Harry Vardon and Ted Ray, who are to compete again next month, the playoff will be held on Saturday, Aug. 14.

The entrance fee is $5 and must be sent to the Secretary not later than 5 o'clock on Saturday, July 31. His address is 766-768 Broad Street, P. O. Box 77, Newark, N. J.

HUNTER IN NET VICTORY.

Paired with Throckmorton, He Scores in Doubles Tennis Match.

Francis T. Hunter, the new tennis champion of Westchester County, added the doubles title to his record yesterday at the County Tennis Club of Westchester, Hartsdale, winning the final round in partnership with Harold Throckmorton over the former champions, Dr. George King and Allen Tobey, in straight sets, 6—1, 6—4, 6—2. In the women's singles Mrs. W. H. Pritchard, Mrs. Henry H. Bassford, Mrs. Williams and Mrs. L. G. Morris reached the semi-final round.

Hunter and Throckmorton were too speedy for the old title holders, hitting the ball hard all the time, and making comparatively few errors. Throckmorton played with his customary dash, and brought off dazzling shots as he followed his fast service to the net. Hunter depended as usual on his terrific forehand drive, running around the ball again and again to get into position for a killing shot. Both he and his partner proved exceedingly steady overhead, and except for the second set, they held their opponents safe at all times. In this session King and Tobey succeeded in running the games to 4-all by brilliant play, but could not sustain the pace, and lost at 6—4 by a single break through service.

MURRAY ADVANCES INTO FIFTH ROUND

Former Champion Gains Three Victories in National Clay Court Tourney.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, July 14.—In three matches played at the South Side Tennis Club today in the national clay court championships R. Lindley Murray, national champion in 1917, showed that he had lost little of the skill which made him famous, even though his work no longer permitted him the amount of practice he has had in former years. The three victories plus a default place him in the fifth round, where he will be called upon to meet the winner of the match between Alex Squair, Western champion in 1915, and J. J. Armstrong, who has ranked in the first ten.

Murray was extended at no time, his hardest match being the one against Walter Westbrook, Michigan champion, who was defeated, 6—1, 6—2. Even against Westbrook Murray did not follow his service to the net in the majority of cases. He allowed Westbrook 8 points in the first five games and only 10 in the first set.

Roland A. Roberts, who is expected to meet Murray in the semi-final round, defeated L. Harry Waidner, president of the Western Lawn Tennis Asosciation, and a player of ability, in a three-set match. Roberts won the first set the day before, rain interrupting the play when Roberts was leading, 3—1, in the second set. Waidner outplayed Roberts when play was resumed today, and won the set, 8—6. He is over forty, though, and could not keep up the pace necessary to defeat the younger man. Roberts followed this win by a comparatively easy victory over George O'Connell, a South Side club player, entering the sixth round where he will meet Ralph Burdick, Western doubles champion.

Burdick was on the top of his game today and vanquished Simmons, of Cleveland, who had defeated Burdick in an intercity match a month ago, without allowing him a single game. He followed this win by defeating Walter Hause, one of the St. Louis contingent, 6—2, 6—2.

J. H. Armstrong, the well known stroke artist from St. Paul, defeated George Neeves, champion of Kentucky, in straight sets, 6—1, 6—2, and plays Alex Squair, Western champion in 1915, who is attempting a come-back this season. Armstrong enters the match favorite. Squair has not played seriously since winning the championship and is regarded as an unknown quantity.

The doubles started today and a number of matches were played in the first and second rounds. Roberts and Richards, and Clifton Herd and Jerry Weber, the former Yale captain, look like sure semi-finalists in the top half, while Hayes and Burdick, Western champions, and Bates and Levy, from California, are the most likely candidates for the finals in the lower section.

Tomorrow will be given over to doubles, only one single match being scheduled, between Armstrong and Squair.

Vincent Richards won an easy singles match against Bradley Guyton, a Chicago junior player of promise.

The summaries:

Doubles, First Round—Westhaven and Keith defeated Van Rridale and Burlingame, 6—3, 6—8, 6—2; Epstein and Froelichstein defeated Van Arsdale and Burlingame, 6—4; Boyden and Williams defeated Rice and Meyer by default; Brown and Keeley defeated Loehr and Harris, 6—4, 10—8; Herd and Weber defeated Warner and Williams by default; Barker and Evans defeated Newberger and De Swartz, 6—2, 8—6; Adone and Rees defeated Lunn and Turvey, 6—3, 6—3; McKay and Zeller defeated Neeves and Carlstrom by default; Shaw and Hubbell defeated Arnold and Hayes by default; Frankenstein and Fogelson defeated Reche & Grinstead, 6—3, 8—3; Washburn and Callahan defeated Westervelt and Hattsteadt, 3—6, 6—2, 6—2; Simmons and Wick defeated Chappel and Wigglesworth, 6—1, 6—2; Guyton and Guyton defeated Stanton and Birkland by default; Hayes and Boessat defeated Anderson and Harris, 9—7, 6—4.

RACES GOVERNED BY DEED OF GIFT

FOR PERPETUAL CHALLENGE

Donated on Condition That It Be Preserved for Friendly Competition Between Nations.

The America's Cup contests are governed by a deed of gift, which has been the subject of many discussions and of various interpretations in yachting circles here and abroad.

It follows:

This Deed of Gift, made the twenty-fourth day of October, one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven, between George L. Schuyler as sole surviving owner of the Cup won by the yacht America at Cowes, England, on the twenty-second day of August, one thousand eight hundred and fifty-one, of the first part, and the New York Yacht Club, of the second part, WITNESSETH—

That the said party of the first part, for and in consideration of the premises and of the performance of the conditions and agreements hereinafter set forth by the party of the second part, has granted, bargained, sold, assigned, transferred, and set over, and by these presents does grant, bargain, sell, assign, transfer and set over, unto said party of the second part, its successors and assigns, the Cup won by the schooner yacht America, at Cowes, England, upon the twenty-second day of August, 1851. To have and to hold the same to the said party of the second part, its successors and assigns, in trust, nevertheless, for the following uses and purposes:

Perpetual Challenge Cup.

This cup is donated upon the condition that it shall be preserved as a perpetual Challenge Cup for friendly competition between foreign countries.

Any organized yacht club of a foreign country, incorporated, patented or licensed by the Legislature, admiralty or other executive department, having for its annual regatta an ocean water course on the sea, or on an arm of the sea, or one which combines both, shall always be entitled to the right of sailing a match for this cup with a yacht or vessel propelled by sails only and constructed in the country to which the challenging cup belongs, against any one yacht or vessel constructed in the country of the club holding the cup.

The competing yachts or vessels, if of one mast, shall be not less than 65 feet or more than 90 feet on the load waterline; if of more than one mast they shall be not less than 80 feet nor more than 115 feet on the load water-line.

The challenging club shall give ten months' notice, in writing, naming the days for the proposed races; but no race shall be sailed in the days intervening between Nov. 1 and May 1. Accompanying the ten months' notice of challenge there must be sent the name of the owner and a certificate of the name, rig and following dimensions of the challenging vessel: Length on load water line, beam at load water line and extreme beam, and draught of water, which dimensions shall not be exceeded, and a custom house registry of the vessel must also be sent as soon as possible. Vessels selected to compete for this cup must proceed under sail, on their own bottoms, to the port where the contest is to take place. Centreboard or sliding keel vessels shall always be allowed to compete in any race for this cup, and no restrictions nor limitations whatever shall be placed upon the use of such centreboard, or sliding keel, nor shall the centreboard or sliding keel be considered a part of the vessel for any purposes of measurement.

The club challenging for the cup and the club holding the same may, by mutual consent, make any arrangement satisfactory to both as to the dates, courses, number of trials, rules and sailing regulations, and any and all other conditions of the match, in which case also the ten months' notice may be waived.

In Case of Disagreement.

In case the parties cannot mutually agree upon the terms of a match, then three races shall be sailed, and the winner of two of such races shall be entitled to the cup. All such races shall be on ocean courses, free from headlands, as follows: The first race, twenty nautical miles to windward and return; the second race an equilateral triangular race of thirty-nine nautical miles, the first side of which shall be a beat to windward; the third race (if necessary) twenty nautical miles to windward and return; and one weekday shall intervene between the conclusion of one race and the starting of the next race. These ocean courses shall be practicable in all parts for vessels of twenty-two feet draught of water, and shall be selected by the club holding the cup; and these races shall be sailed subject to its rules and sailing regulations so far as the same do not conflict with the provisions of this deed of gift, but without any time allowances whatever. The challenged club shall not be required to name its representative vessel until at a time agreed upon for the start, but the vessel when named must compete in all the races, and each of such races must be completed within seven hours.

Should the club holding the cup be for any cause dissolved, the cup shall be transferred to some club of the same nationality, eligible to challenge under this deed of gift, in trust and subject to its provisions. In the event of the failure of such transfer within three months after such dissolution, said cup shall revert to the preceding club holding the same, and under the terms of this deed of gift. It is distinctly understood that the cup is to be the property of the club subject to the provisions of this deed, and not the property of the owner or owners of any vessel winning a match.

No vessel which has been defeated in a match for this cup can be again selected by any club as its representative until after a contest for it by some other vessel has intervened, or until after the expiration of two years from the time of such defeat. And when a challenge from a club fulfilling all the conditions required by this instrument has been received, no other challenge can be considered until the pending event has been decided.

Always to Apply.

And the said party of the second part hereby accepts the said cup subject to the said trust, terms and conditions, and hereby covenants and agrees to and with said party of the first part that it will faithfully and fully see that the foregoing conditions are fully observed and complied with by any contestant for the said cup during the holding thereof by it; and that it will assign, transfer and deliver the said cup to the foreign yacht club whose representative yacht shall have won the same in accordance with the foregoing terms and conditions, provided the said foreign club shall, by instrument in writing lawfully executed, enter with said party of the second part into the like covenants as are herein entered into by it, such instrument to contain a like provision for the successive assignees to enter into the same covenants with their respective assignors, and to be executed in duplicate, one to be retained by each club, and a copy thereof to be forwarded to the said party of the second part.

In witness whereof, the said party of the first part has hereunto set his hand and seal, and the said party of the second part has caused its corporate seal to be affixed to these presents and the same to be signed by its Commodore and attested by its Secretary, the day and year first above written.

Hoodoos and Superstitions Surround the Cup Yachts

Superstitions may have their full play in the forthcoming America's Cup races. Thirteen is supposed to be a number of bad influence by many, while others believe it carries some good. In the case of the coming races it is bound to be a good omen for one side and as bad an influence for the other side, for both cannot win. This is the thirteenth challenge for the coveted trophy. It remains to be seen which side 13 is to hoodoo.

Sir Thomas Lipton is a great believer in the number four. This is his fourth challenge for the Cup. His yacht is the Shamrock IV. and its symbol is the four leaved shamrock, which, in Ireland, like the four leaved clover in America, is believed to be fraught with good luck. Sir Thomas has had a great collection of four leaved shamrocks and four leaved clovers sent to him by admirers in Ireland, as well as all parts of this country.

Twenty-one is another number that enters into the present case. Sir Thomas has been striving for the cup for twenty-one years. That represents maturity, and he expresses the thought that, now that he has become of age in the sport of yachting, he may have a better chance of winning than heretofore. The America's Cup came to this country the year Sir Thomas was born—1851—and he takes that as another good omen in figures.

AIRMEN CAUTIONED ABOUT FLYING RULES

The Aero Club of America announced last night that Colonel S. Herbert Mapes, Chief of the New York Aerial Police; Major Horace Keane, Adjutant; Major Augustus Post and Major Charles J. Glidden of the Contest Committee of the Aero Club and a committee from the New York Yacht Club will be stationed on the yacht Ace to see that the aerial rules are observed and act under orders of the New York City Aerial Police and in conjunction with the New York Yacht Club at the Resolute-Shamrock races, which start today.

The various aero clubs have agreed to suspend licenses of any pilots misusing the privileges of the air and infringing upon rules. The rules were drawn up for the guidance and observance of pilots of naval and army aircraft and will be observed by them.

The Aero Club stated that any pilot holding an aviation certificate of the Federation Aeronautique Internationale should strictly observe all air rules and regulations. Any infraction of the rules will render the pilot subject to suspension by the Contest Committee.

If any flights are made by aircraft of the Navy Department it is expected that any or all aircraft, in a spirit of good sportsmanship, will follow out the same instructions in order that there can be no possibility of interfering in any manner with the contesting yachts.

The New York aerial police will be represented in the air by their flagship H. S. 3-L, No. 5, commanded by Major Rheinhard and piloted by Harry Rogers. This ship will be signaled from the yacht Ace, the official aerial boat, using the international code.

Some of the other flying boats to be at the contest are H. S. 2-L, piloted by Steven Harris; the H. S. 2-L, piloted by George Gay; the H. S. 2-L, piloted by George Cobb; the sixteen-passenger aeromarine piloted by Alexander, the three-passenger aeromarine piloted by Zimmerman; the H-16, piloted by David McCullough; the H. S. 2-L, piloted by Clifford Webster; the Seagull, piloted by J. V. Manners, and another Seagull, piloted by Burns.

The army and navy will have several large flying boats and planes as well as several dirigibles.

COAST GUARD TO PATROL.

Six Cutters Will Guard Course Off Sandy Hook During Races.

A fleet of six Coast Guard cutters under command of Commander B. L. Reed will police the vicinity of the Sandy Hook course during the races for the America's Cup. They will enforce the regulations that have been drawn up for the event by the Department of Commerce. To these craft will be entrusted the task of keeping the course clear for the contending yachts and keeping back at a specified distance the thousands of small vessels that will line the course when the first race begins. All of the cutters will carry the flag of the United States Coast Guard.

The movements of the patrolling craft have been carefully based on experiences gained in former races. The regulations of the Department of Commence have been supplemented by an illustrated pamphlet issued by the New York Yacht Club, showing in detail the movements of the patrol to meet various weather conditions and the two different courses that will be followed by the competing yachts. Lines will be established, behind which all but those vessels designated as official will be compelled to remain. As the two yachts continue in their race, the patrol vessels will shift this line, especially in the triangular course, which will necessitate a complicated bit of manoeuvring by the Government cutters. In this race pleasure craft will be unable to follow the entire course.

Seneca—Lieut. Commander D. F. A. De Otte.
Manning—Lieut. Commander P. H. Scott.
Tuscarora—Lieut. Commander Eugene Blake.
Acushnet—Lieut. Commander J. F. Farley.
Androscoggin—Lieut. Commander John Boedeker.
Manhattan (tug)—Lieut. Commander J. E. Steika.

ORIOLE WINS YACHT RACE.

Best of 16-Foot Sloops in Interlake Association Regatta.

ERIE, Pa., July 14.—Heavy weather on both inside and outside courses delayed races in the Interlake Yachting Association regatta here today. Several squalls sent craft to shelter and a stiff breeze brought good time in a number of events.

The Oriole of Sandusky won the second and deciding heat of the sixteen-foot sloop class. The Fego, disqualified Thursday for fouling the Lynx in the star class event, won the second heat today from a large field. The Fego races under the Cleveland Yacht Club colors.

Official announcement was made this afternoon that the Iduna of Erie won the Cleveland to Erie power boat race run Sunday.

The Mebleh, Lipton Cup defender, of Cleveland, and picked to win the R class event after her performance Tuesday, lost her spar while carrying a heavy spread of canvas on the outside course and is out of the event.

AMBASSADOR TO SEE RACE.

Sir Thomas to Entertain Sir Auckland Geddes Today.

WASHINGTON, July 14.—Sir Auckland Geddes, the British Ambassador, and his staff left today for New York, where they will attend the international yacht races as the guests of Sir Thomas Lipton.

Sir Auckland has abandoned his plan to spend the Summer at Hot Springs, Va. He will visit the coast of Maine during part of August and will spend the remainder of the Summer in Washington.

BETTING EVEN IN LONDON.

Wagering Is Light, British Waiting for Outcome of First Race.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, July 14.—There is very little betting in London on the races for the America's Cup and no big money will change hands unless the results of the first races should stimulate public interest. Inquiries in various quarters today showed a certain number of British yachtsmen backing their hopes of the Shamrock's success at even money.

FLEET HERE FOR CUP RACES IN A REGATTA

Sea Gate Brushes Attract 23 Yachts—Mizpah Leads Thirty-Footers.

Slowly but surely the racing fleet is growing at the Atlantic Yacht Club. The Sea Gate organization is holding a "race week" to entertain the many yachtsmen who have gathered in Gravesend Bay for the international series for the America's Cup. There is an open regatta scheduled for each day the cup boats are not racing.

In the brushes held yesterday, twenty-three small yachts came to the starting line off the long dock at Sea Gate. The wind was south and fresh, and from a quarter that enabled Chairman Carlos de Zafra and I. L. Beebe, Jr., of the regatta committee, to give the various classes good weather legs, which were all the harder as they also were against a head tide. Naturally, it made late finishes in all the classes.

Interest centred in the race of four thirty-footers of the New York Yacht Club. They were sent over a course that gave them a stiff beat from the starting line to Old Orchard Light, then a reach to Ambrose Channel Buoy No. 10, and another reach home. Again the fleet was led home by D. R. Richardson's Mizpah, which covered a 15½-mile course in 2:15:58.

E. T. Supper's Mouse scored another clean-cut victory in the event for the knockabout division. The yacht has won practically every start this season. The Star Class was won by Saturn, the property of G. W. Elder, Jr. The only other yacht in the division was young Lewis Atkinson's Scud. The latter also raced in the third division of the handicap class and won on actual time. On corrected time, the first prize went to J. W. Christiansen's Sea Cob.

The Victory Class had its second race for the Sir Thomas Lipton Cup and for the special prize offered by Fleet Captain Horace E. Boucher. The division was made up of nine yachts. They also went over an outside course, and although the distance was only 12.3 miles, they finished long after the thirty-footers of the New York Yacht Club. The winner was Carry On, the property of W. H. Appleton. The craft sailed the course in 3:11:12.

In the second division of the handicap class, the Norwegian boat Pengvin was disabled and her class competitor, Fantasie, refused to finish the race. Earlier in the brush the schooner Sapho, also in the division, withdrew. Therefore not one in the class finished.

MARSHALL IN THE LEAD.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 14.—Philadelphia's representatives in the masters' tournament of the Atlantic City Chess Congress, the sixth round of which was played on the Million Dollar Pier today, scored 100 per cent. of results, both thereby moving up into close proximity to the leaders.

Edward S. Jackson, erstwhile University of Pennsylvania player, squared accounts with Jaffe of New York for the comparatively easy win the latter had scored in the first round. Jackson again was at his best, and with the white pieces won a Scotch gambit after forty-six moves. He obtained the upper hand at the eighteenth turn with a check of the Knight, in response to which Jaffe elected to give up a Rock for two minor pieces. Eventually Jackson reached the ending with the "exchange" to the good, and he quickly made the New Yorker's pawns disappear. This reverse deposed Jaffe from first place.

Sidney T. Sharp, Philadelphia's champion, demolished the Sicilian defense set up by Neidich of Cornell in eighteen moves, the latter losing himself in a maze of exchanges.

The last game to be finished was that of United States Champion Marshall, who played a drawn game with Miotkowski of Los Angeles in a queen's gambit declined lasting thirty-nine moves. Owing to Jaffe's defeat this put Marshall in the lead by half a point.

President McClure of the congress announced the offer of three special prizes, two from W. F. Drueke of Grand Rapids and one from Sidney Rosenzweig of the Manhattan Chess Club.

The standing follows:

Players.	Won.	Lost.	Players.	Won.	Lost.
Marshall	4	2	Jackson	3	3
Jaffe	3½	2½	Sharp	3	3
Miotkowski	3½	2½	Neidich	1	5

The seventh round will be played tomorrow.

OPEN DOUBLES TOURNEY.

Hoboken Tennis Club to Conduct Event Early Next Month.

Simultaneously with the playing of the Seabright invitation tennis tournament, which begins Aug. 2, the Hoboken Tennis Club will stage an open doubles tournament for men on its clay courts at Castle Point. This event is held in response to the desire of the United States Tennis Association to stage more team competitions, with the purpose of developing the combination game in America. The entries close with Haddon Ivins at the Hoboken Club on Friday, July 30. The open singles for the Castle Point trophy, now held by Harold Throckmorton, will be played early in September.

ETHELDA BLEIBTREY SETS WORLD'S MARK

Local Girl Swims 300 Meters in 4:34 1-5 at Olympic Trials.

Miss Ethelda Bleibtrey, of the Women's Swimming Association of New York, twice bettered the world's record for the 300-meter swim for women in open water during the final Olympic tryouts yesterday off Manhattan Beach. Miss Bleibtrey won her heat with ease, leading the other competitors from start to finish and duplicated the performance in the final.

Eleven mermaids took part in the competition, which had for its goal places on the women's swimming team which will represent the United States at the Olympic games. In the first heat six took part, with Miss Charlotte Boyle of the Women's Swimming Association showing the way. Five took part in the second trial heat, which was won by Miss Bleibtrey, with Eleanor Uhl of Philadelphia second. These two finished in the same order in the final.

The world's record for the distance by a woman swimmer was formerly held by Miss Fannie Durack, the Australian mermaid. Her time for the distance was 4:43. In the trial heat of yesterday's competition Miss Bleibtrey was clocked in 4:40 1-5, which gave her a new record. Not content with the laurels thus gained, the local swimmer did even better in the final, a short time after setting the new mark. Her time in the final was 4:34 1-5, or 8 4-5 seconds better than the mark established by Miss Durack.

Miss Boyle, who won the first heat, was making a fight for second place in the final and held the position until twenty yards from the finish. All the time Miss Bleibtrey was far ahead of the other contenders and having the race all to herself. About twenty yards from the finish Miss Boyle and Miss Eleanor Uhl of Philadelphia had a collision, which caused the New York woman to stop. Miss Uhl was able to continue and she got second place, about a yard ahead of Mrs. Frances Cowells Schroth of San Francisco. Margaret Woodbridge of Detroit was fourth, only inches behind the third, and Miss Boyle finished fifth.

The final of the swim was delayed by an accident to Miss Charlotte Boyle, when she was called to the float to take her mark. She slipped on the wet boards and fell heavily, sustaining a bad bruise near the right ankle. For a time the ankle was numbed and the accident undoubtedly had its effect on her effort in the final, in which she also was the victim of some bad luck near the finish.

The high diving competition brought together eleven competitors, and the results were surprising. The three who won leading honors were comparative newcomers in the local swimming field. Placement points were rated by five judges, and the choice for first honors went to Miss Helen Meany, a fifteen-year-old girl from the Rye Beach Swimming Club, with the low mark of 8½ points. Her closest contender was even younger, Miss Eileen Riggin of the Women's Swimming Association, being only 14 years old. Her rating was 11½ points, and Miss Alice Lord of the Women's Swimming Association, a seventeen-year-old miss, accounted for third place with 17 points.

In the field were several divers of established reputation and it was generally believed that first honors would go to one of these. The success of three comparative youngsters, who lacked the experience of many of the other competitors, was entirely unexpected.

The summaries:

300-Meter Swim—First Heat—Won by Miss Charlotte Boyle, Women's Swimming Association; Miss Helen Moses, Honolulu, second; Miss Margaret Woodbridge, Detroit, third; Miss Irene Guest, Philadelphia, fourth; Miss Elizabeth Ryan, Philadelphia, fifth; Miss Helen Wainwright, Women's Swimming Association, sixth. Second Heat—Won by Miss Ethelda Bleibtrey, Women's Swimming Association; Miss Eleanor Uhl, Philadelphia, second; Mrs. Frances Cowells Schroth, San Francisco, third; Miss Eileen Riggin, Women's Swimming Association, fourth; Miss Eleanor Smith, Morningside A. C., fifth. Time—4:40 1-5.

Final Heat—Won by Miss Bleibtrey; Miss Uhl, second; Mrs. Schroth, third; Miss Woodbridge, fourth; Miss Boyle, fifth; Miss Moses, sixth. Time—4:34 1-5.

High Diving (from four-meter and eight-meter heights)—Won by Miss Helen Meany, Rye Beach Swimming Club, with 8½ points; Miss Eileen Riggin, Women's Swimming Association, second, with 11½ points; Miss Alice Lord, Women's Swimming Association, third, with 17 points; Miss Betty Grimes, Minneapolis and Miss Elizabeth Becker, Philadelphia, tied for fourth with 23 points; Miss Helen Wainwright, Women's Swimming Association, sixth, with 32 points; Mrs. Bertha Tompkins, Women's Swimming Association, seventh, with 38½ points; Mrs. Constance Dresser, Portland, Ore., eighth, with 41 points; Miss Vonnie Malcolmson, Detroit, ninth, with 44½ points; Miss Aileen Allen, Los Angeles, and Mrs. Josephine Bartlett Taylor tied for tenth, with 48 points.

FIRST YACHT RACE STARTS NOON TODAY

one yacht to another in an America's Cup race.

The Shamrock IV. and the Resolute swung at their moorings in the Horseshoe inside of Sandy Hook all day yesterday without any attempt being made to take advantage of the fine sailing breeze that came up in the afternoon. Scarcely any signs of life were visible on the Resolute during the greater part of the day, while aboard the Shamrock various sails were set before noon and then quickly lowered.

The afterdeck yachtsmen on the Resolute kept to their quarters, and had little to say about their hopes or expectations, but it was quite evident that they were not worrying in the least. They have tried the defender out thoroughly in all sorts of weather and under all sorts of conditions. The crew has been trained to team work that would compare favorably with that of a star football team. Americans may rest assured that in the Resolute, her skipper and crew, they are to be represented by the best craft and most skilled handling that this country can produce.

Betting Getting Livelier.

Betting became slightly livelier yesterday than it has been, but there is still nothing like the amount of wagering on the series or on any single race which marked the races of old days.

Wall Street brokers reported that the Resolute still remains the favorite at odds of 5 to 8; that is, one must put up $8 to win $5 if he wishes to back the American boat. The backers of the Shamrock, of course, get the other end, and will receive $8 for every $5 risked if the Lipton craft wins.

The betting yesterday continued light, with the Resolute the favorite.

Wagers on the various aspects of the race were more numerous than those on the result itself, and there were plenty of "freak" bets in evidence. One of the latter was even money that the time allowance would not exceed six minutes, a confidence that evaporated later in the day when the official figures, seven minutes and one second, were announced. Another bet at even money was that the Shamrock would cross the finish line first, although not necessarily winning the race. At one betting place $500 was placed at even money on this aspect.

Other bets were $500 to $800 that the Resolute will win the cup; $600 even that the Shamrock will win one of the races; $300 to $900 that the Resolute will win three straight races.

The race was the big topic of conversation in the hotels. Nearly all of the hostelries reported a surprisingly large influx of enthusiasts, who talked, ate and probably dreamed last night little else than of the race on the morrow. With the exception of the Times Square district, which kept fairly normal, the hotels were compelled to turn scores of persons away. The Pennsylvania, Biltmore and Commodore reported especially large throngs and were filled to capacity.

Early in the day the Hotel Pennsylvania began to be jammed and was soon unable to accommodate the visitors. It was stated there that not only had the influx been unusually heavy, but that the number of departures had been cut nearly in half. Instead of the customary 800 or 1,000 departures less than 400 cancelled their reservations yesterday, most of the guests apparently staying on to take in the races off Sandy Hook. The incomers were from points as far west as Pasadena, Cal., and numbered many visitors from Pittsburgh, Chicago and the South. One special train yesterday brought spectators of the race from Canada.

The Sight-Seeing Fleet.

To make up for any shortage of excursion steamers there will be many more motor boats and motor yachts than there were before. Where there were but a few hundreds of these popular craft then there are many thousands of them today, and most of the owners are preparing to be out and to take their friends with them. Such owners are particularly popular at present, and most of them have been obliged to do a lot of pruning of their lists of good friends.

Not so many steam yachts are in commission this year as previously, but of all that are in operation it is safe to say that 95 per cent. will be down off the Hook when the race starts at noon today, and then, when the race is ended, there will be the same old-time run back to town, but neither the Kanawha nor the Haouli will be there to lead the great marine procession. Another yacht that will be missed will be Sir Thomas Lipton's steam yacht Erin, which is among those which served during the great war and found a watery grave off Malta, in the Mediterranean.

However, there will be speedier craft than the speedsters of the past and speedier than the speediest of these will be the craft of the air, which, for the first time, are to be an important factor. It is expected that many land and sea planes as well as several dirigibles will hover over the course, and, in expectation of this, special rules and regulations have been issued by the Government for the control of the aerial armada. Aside from army and navy planes it is expected that numerous privately owned aircraft will be out as well as several commercial planes which have booked passengers at fancy prices.

From many places along shore the races will be watched by great throngs. Of the numerous points of vantage from which to see the contests Atlantic Highlands and the Navesink Highlands undoubtedly offer the greatest possibilities because of their greater altitude and the ability to scan the entire course on a clear day.

However, the resorts along the New Jersey shore as far south as Asbury Park and along the Long Island shore from Coney Island to Long Beach probably will have their quota of interested spectators, who will watch the races without the risk of becoming seasick.

Wireless to Send Bulletins.

At the time of the last America's Cup races, in 1903, newspaper bulletins on the contest were somewhat uncertain and infrequent as regards reports from the course itself, as wireless was in its infancy. Carrier pigeons played an important part in the transmission of news from off at sea. Wireless bulletins will be sent out today by the Navy Department and distributed broadcast through various news channels, so that the masses who are interested in the great international contest but cannot get out to see it may follow every move of the two racing yachts.

There has been considerable discussion in yachting circles regarding the possible absence of a guide boat from the race this year, but last night it was announced that Commodore J. P. Morgan's steam yacht Corsair, flagship of the New York Yacht Club, would serve in that capacity, and H. de B. Parsons, Chairman of the Race Committee of the same organization, announced that, in the event of neither yacht winning three straight races, a race would be held every day, starting July 20, until one or the other had won three races, unless one or the other of the contestants requests a day of postponement in which to effect repairs.

Reports that the ocean off the New Jersey Coast was coated in patches with oil were scoffed at by the skippers, who have already had their share of oil troubles and do not look for any more. Both yachts are in perfect trim for the contest, and, although Shamrock IV. has not been hauled out since she left the Morse Dry Dock, as has Resolute, still both Mr. Nicholson, designer of the strange mystery craft, and Mr. Burton, her Corinthian skipper, are satisfied that Shamrock's bottom is free from any oil deposit that might affect her speed.

Special arrangements have been made to police the course, and all owners and masters of vessels that are likely to go out to the races have been supplied with instructions governing their operation and the keeping clear of a certain restricted area about the competing craft.

Race Arrangements.

The Race Committee of the New York Yacht Club has made the following arrangements for the physical conduct of the race:

The start is to be between the Ambrose Light vessel and the Race Committee vessel, anchored nearby.

The preparatory signal is to be set at 11:45 o'clock, New York time, and is to be indicated by a long blast of the whistle and the hoisting of the blue peter ball on the Race Committee boat.

Ten minutes later the warning signal is to be set and indicated by a long blast of the whistle and the hoisting of a white ball.

Five minutes later, at noon, the starting signal is to be set and indicated by the hoisting of a red ball and another blast of the whistle.

An interval of two minutes is then allowed in which the yachts may start and have their actual times of crossing the line taken, at the termination of which there will be a short blast of the whistle, and if either or both yachts cross thereafter, their times will be taken as at two minutes after the starting signal, and they will be handicapped whatever they may be later than that time.

As each yacht crosses the line one of the balls which has been hoisted will be partially lowered, the red ball for the Shamrock IV. and the white ball for the Resolute.

If a yacht's ball is not lowered, it indicates that the yacht has not crossed the line properly.

If a yacht's ball is hoisted above the code flag B, it indicates that the yacht has been disqualified by the committee. Code B flag is a red flag.

If the code flag G is hoisted, it indicates that the start has been postponed for fifteen minutes. Code flag G is a yellow and blue triangular flag.

Code flag H indicates that the race has been disqualified by the committee. Flag H is a red and white perpendicular striped flag.

The leading yacht must have crossed the finish line within six hours from the time of starting or the time of neither yacht will be taken and it will be declared no race.

Cheap Hides Are Plentiful.

No better idea of the hide and leather situation can be gained than that expressed to the head of a local shoe concern yesterday by one of the best-known tanners in the country. According to the latter, while there is a dearth of the kind of hides from which the finest shoe leathers, particularly uppers, are made, there is a very great surplus of the grades which can be turned into material for the more popular-priced shoes. "While it would take me a year to fill the orders for fine leathers that I now have," he said, "without much prospect of getting the hides with which to fill them, I have been offered enough of the cheaper grades of hides in the last few months to keep my organization running steadily for six years on the basis of a normal pre-war demand."

Orders Are Good When Placed.

Although buyers of ready-to-wear garments for women are shopping around more this season than has been the case in a long time, it was said yesterday that they are buying well when they finally decide that they have found the right line. Particularly is this the case with the better kinds of dresses, such as those, for instance, which wholesale at $50 or more. At present the demand for satin meteors in this grade of merchandise is said to outdistance that for dresses made of other fabrics, although for delivery later in the year there is a sizeable call in evidence for dresses of velvet and chiffon velvet. A lavish use of bead and "bugle" embroideries is seen, and the colors, for the early season, at least, border on the garish.

Price Weakness the Keynote.

Practically all of the revisions in crude drug prices this week have been declines, Drug and Chemical Markets will say today. In the fine chemicals holders of material for resale are trying to force business by lowering prices, but about all this has done has been to depress an already dull and listless market. Considerable Government resale material is on the market at low prices. On the other hand, prices in the heavy chemical market are firmer. The essential oils are depressed by an accumulation of products at a time when buying interest is low. In the vegetable oils there is a more buoyant feeling, due largely to easier money. This factor has also stimulated the buying of dyes, and that trade has improved greatly and generally.

Says They Are "Pikers."

While admitting that export business in other lines might be very profitable, one of the biggest dress men in the country says that there is "nothing to it" when it comes to ready-to-wear. "For a long time," he said yesterday, "I was importuned to go in for export business, and I finally decided to take a chance. A few weeks satisfied me that it was not worth while. Not only did the foreign buyers want the earth with a fence around it as to selling terms, &c., but they were 'pikers' when it came to buying. They took about four times as long to make a selection as an American buyer, and when they had finished they had ordered about one-quarter as much merchandise as the average American buyer would. So I'm through with that end of the game."

Types of Laces.

The lace trade is looking forward to increased activity as the season progresses. In fact, there are predictions made that merchandise may be scarce later on and prices higher. Such statements, however, are discounted by buyers posted on conditions, who are finding plenty of jobs to be had at the present time. For the Fall, an active demand is expected on flouncings and similar materials required for overskirts. Radium and metallic laces, chiefly in black, and metallic laces are regarded as the probable favorites of the season. Importers seem to have pinned their faith to chantillies.

Heavy Arrivals Next Week.

Yesterday the showrooms in the garment district were humming with activity. Various reports were to be obtained regarding the amount of business being placed by the visiting buyers. In some quarters the orders were deemed satisfactory, but in other the frank statement was made that the retailers were merely "nibbling" on Fall goods, with the promise of further orders later. In one respect, however, the statements made by the manufacturers agreed, namely that next week will see the largest attendance of buyers in the market which has yet been seen. Owing to the necessity of getting first hand information, many retail representatives are expected who have not been regular visitors.

BUSINESS RECORDS

LYNN & COHEN. A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against William Lynn and Isidore Cohen, co-partners, trading as Lynn & Cohen, dealers in furs and skins at 48 West Twenty-seventh Street, by these creditors: Cohn & Rappaport, $10,000; Schekter & Kaplan, Inc., $1,690, and Reinstein, Etelson & School, Inc., $4,537. It is stated that the assets are about $200,000, of which $150,000 is the equity in pledged merchandise of value called uncertain. Judge Grubb has appointed Bernard Vorhaus receiver in $10,000 bond. It is stated that the firm had purchased at high prices a very large stock which has since depreciated greatly. The price of these goods is said to be $200,000, and they are in the possession of Funston Bros. & Co. of St. Louis, Mo., and the New York Fur Auction Sales Company, against which advances of $115,000 have been made. Liabilities are said to be about $50,000 and assets about $2,500.

To Curl Straightest, Unruliest Hair

The straightest, contrariest hair can be curled even in the hottest or dampest weather, by such simple and harmless means. One need only get a few ounces of plain liquid silmerine from the druggist and apply a little to the hair before doing it up in curlers. The result is quite remarkable. The hair is delightfully wavy and beautifully glossy. The effect lasts long.

The silmerine is best put on with a clean tooth brush, drawing this through the hair from crown to tip, preferably after dividing it into strands. The application seems to gradually improve the texture and health of the hair.

GARY DENOUNCES HOSTILITY TO JAPAN

HAILS ERA OF FRIENDSHIP

Speaking at a dinner in honor of Captian Neigo Teraoka of the Japanese cruiser Kasaga, in port here after taking part in the Maine Centennial at Portland, Judge E. H. Gary told members of the Japan Society at the Metropolitan Club last night that he had no sympathy with those Americans who, through ignorance of the real qualities of the Japanese, were fond of saying they had no confidence in them.

"The Japanese are a great and honorable race," Judge Gary declared, "and they are worthy of the highest trust. I know them and can speak confidently of their character and courage. Japan is well worthy of the confidence and respect of the American people." Judge Gary's remarks were greeted with great applause from the diners.

In the absence of Frank A. Vanderlip, President of the Japan Society, August Belmont, Vice President, presided and in the course of his address alluded to the fact that he was a grandson of Commodore Perry, who opened the ports of Japan to trade in 1853.

Rear Admiral Glennon and Rear Admiral MacDonald, Henry W. Taft, who recently returned from Japan, and Seymour Cromwell, who was a member of the Vanderlip party which recently visited Japan, were among those at the dinner.

Consul General Thanks Society.

Consul General K. Kumasaki thanked the members of the Japan Society for their welcome and hospitality. He said:

"One hundred years ago, when the State of Maine became a member of the American Union, the political entities of Japan and Maine were typical of societies as distinct and separate from each other as pole from pole.

"And yet marvels have come to pass. Japan and America are no longer strangers. They no longer feel that an impassible gulf exists, barring them forever from mutual sympathy and trust. As they have found ways during the last one hundred years to cross the physical gulf which separates their home lands, so they have found ways to approach each other in interest, sympathies and common aspirations.

"They have learned in 100 years to disarm suspicion and distrust. They find it a pleasant thing and a profitable thing to be neighborly. Japan was pleased and honored when the invitation came to send over one of her warships to aid in celebrating the birthday of the State of Maine. She is glad to have this opportunity of testifying to the friendship which she sincerely feels for America, and she accepts with gratitude the constant proofs of your trust and kindness. Nowhere has this spirit been more beautifully demonstrated than in your reception of the naval representatives of Japan and your hospitality toward them."

Teraoka Describes Mission.

Captain Teraoka said:

"In Portland and Boston we have endeavored to demonstrate the mission of our visit and in both places we have found that your people have the same desire as we have—that is, to maintain and promote the friendly relations existing between your country and ours. With that good intention we came here to pay our respect to the wonder city of the world.

"I have learned that we are very much indebted to the zealous endeavors of the members of the Japan Society for the very friendly relations which now exist between the United States and Japan. If the presence of our ship on this historic river will help to accomplish the admirable object of the Japan Society, I am more than satisfied. I assure you that we will co-operate with you in your work to promote a mutual understanding between your people and ours."

The Kasuga, which was despatched via the Panama Canal by the Japanese Government from Yokohama to participate in the festivities at Portland, arrived in the harbor late yesterday, and anchored in the Hudson River off 96th Street. She has a complement of 33 officers, 14 warrant officers, and 584 petty officers and crew. The executive officer of the cruiser is Baron Jugi Kamimura. The warship left Boston on Tuesday forenoon, and would have arrived early yesterday if she had not been detained by fog. Captain Teraoka said the Kasuga would remain in New York until next Tuesday. She reached Portland on July 3, and made the voyage of 11,000 miles from Yokohama in 33 days at an average speed of 14 knots.

Greets The Kasuga.

After the cruiser had anchored here Dr. J. Takimene went on board and expressed the welcome of the Japanese citizens of this city and on their behalf presented a loving cup to the Captain.

The presence of the Japanese warship has been the signal for many Japanese festivities in this city. Saturday will be Japan Day—from 1 P. M. to 6 P. M.—the Kasuga will be open for inspection by Japanese of the city. At 8 o'clock Saturday evening the ship's officers will be the guests of Consul General Kumasaki at his home, Ninety-third Street and Central Park West.

On Sunday, from 8 A. M. to noon, and from 2 P. M. to 6 P. M., the public is invited to inspect the Kasuga. Tenders will leave the United States naval pier at Ninety-sixth Street every fifteen minutes. The ship will be illuminated at 9 o'clock Sunday night.

Monday will be "At Home Day" to 300 guests.

The Kasuga will leave Tuesday for Norfolk.

BATUM NOW OPEN FOR SOVIET TRADE

British Troops Return to Constantinople—Moscow Rules Tiflis Government.

CONSTANTINOPLE, July 13 (Associated Press).—The British troops which evacuated Batum arrived in Constantinople today. Great Britain's evacuation of the port is regarded by persons of other nationalities in Constantinople as the initial step toward trading with the Bolsheviki, which, it is declared, the Government could not do consistently while the British controlled Batum.

Georgia nominally is under the Tiflis Government, but actually is dominated by the Moscow Soviets, while Batum and Poti are regarded as the gateways through which an immense trade will be inaugurated with the Bolsheviki.

The Georgian Government is looked upon as only a makeshift through which a large Bolshevist mission at Tiflis is acting to get necessary supplies which are being shipped out by way of Baku, the Caspian Sea and the Volga.

The Bolsheviki already have stripped Azerbaijan and Georgia of all sorts of manufactured articles and foodstuffs, which have been sent to Moscow. The action has caused consternation among the local population, whose paper money is becoming more worthless daily.

The announcement that the State Department of the United States had removed the prohibition against trading with Soviet Russia, at traders' risks and without passport facilities, makes it possible for Americans to enter the field in which Italians and French have been working for many months.

The evacuation of Batum by the British is considered in high quarters here as a partial victory for Krassin and a clear indication that Great Britain does not propose to be outstripped in the race for Soviet trade.

negative. Geissler then exclaimed sharply, according to this man:

"Well, you've got to."

Nothing else was learned to indicate that the chauffeur was in the habit of addressing Mrs. De Cordova in this manner. The chauffeur who repeated this telephone conversation said that he also had noticed the gradual development of Geissler's insanity. He said the man had always been treated with the greatest kindness by his employer, Arthur De Cordova, husband of the murdered woman.

"If Mr. De Cordova bought a boiled ham or a box of cigars for himself, he always bought one for Geissler," according to another chauffeur. "At Christmas he got a bonus of $200 or $300 and received presents during the year in addition to his wages."

Benjamin S. Hewitt, the Prosecuting Attorney at New London, said the first examination of the body of Mrs. De Cordova was made at dusk at the scene where the crime was committed and that the marks of violence on the throat, which were later discovered by Dr. Payne, could have been easily overlooked by the physicians who made the first examination.

Hewitt's Investigation Closed.

When his attention was called to his statement of yesterday, in which he had said that no signs of a struggle had been found, Mr. Hewitt said:

"Dr. Payne did not make his report to me until this afternoon and until then I had no inkling of what he had discovered."

Mr. Hewitt announced that his own investigation was closed. He said it was established beyond a doubt that Geissler had killed Mrs. De Cordova and there was nothing further to be done by his office.

Widow Sees Geissler's Body.

Accompanied by a woman friend whose name was not learned, Mrs. Geissler arrived here this afternoon and went to the undertaking establishment of James F. Kelley, where her husband's body was taken. She announced that she would pay for his funeral expenses.

"When I married him I promised to stick to him through life or death. I intend to carry out my word," she declared. "Everybody has their troubles, the rich as well as the poor."

Mrs. Geissler branded as untrue the statement made by George Young Bauchle, attorney for the De Cordova family, that Geissler was a religious maniac. She said it was equally untrue that he was a drinking man.

"My husband was a Catholic, but he had not been to church for more than three years," she said.

Mrs. Geissler is a short, stout woman, who speaks in a mild voice. She was dressed in mourning. She said that she at one time had been a telephone operator and later an employe in a hair goods shop.

"Last October I found a lock of hair of a light chestnut color," Mrs. Geissler said. "It had been recently cut. How did I know? Well, I learned a good deal in the hair shop which has been useful to me since. My own hair, as you can see, is dark, so, obviously, it wasn't mine.

Telephone dte Mrs. De Cordova.

"I also discovered two pictures of Mrs. De Cordova in his pocket at the same time. When my husband came home we had words over my two discoveries, and as a result of our quarrel we separated."

Mrs. Geissler said that afterward she called up Mrs. De Cordova on the telephone asking her to use her good offices to bring about a reconciliation. She told Mrs. de Cordova that her husband had been acting coldly and did not seem to manifest interest in her any longer.

Mrs. Geissler was unwilling to tell newspaper men what Mrs. De Cordova replied.

SUPPORTS INSANITY THEORY.

Brother-in-Law of Mrs. De Cordova Says Chauffeur Was Paranoiac.

The theory that Bernard Geissler was insane when he murdered Mrs. Arthur de Cordova and killed himself was strongly indorsed yesterday by Dr. Florizel de L. Myers, a brother-in-law of Mrs. De Cordova and a specialist in mental diseases. Dr. Myers, who is associate professor of nervous and mental diseases in the Post-Graduate Hospital, said his talk with Mrs. Geissler Tuesday evening, together with tales about the chauffeur that have come to him from various sources, convinced him that Geissler was a paranoiac.

"Geissler had many of the symptoms that mark the paranoic," he continued. "His extreme egotisa and conceit, his great religious fervor, his frequent outbursts of temper, are all indications. The strange thing about this disease is that it may be unsuspected for a long time, then some little incident brings it out.

"My theory of the shooting is that Mrs. De Cordova reproved Geissler sharply for something, and that he became enraged and shot her. There is absolutely nothing in the story of his infatuation for her. If Mrs. De Cordova had had any inkling that he had such a feeling toward her she certainly would have had the chauffeur discharged."

Mr. De Cordova saw reporters in the afternoon, but was so near a breakdown that he had to give up talking to them. He confirmed the insanity theory, and said that the whisky found in the automobile belonged to him, and that he always carried some on his various trips.

Dr. Myers later asserted that the statement of the New London physician that Mrs. De Cordova had been attacked was a mistake. He said that he knew by his own examination of the body that there had been no attack.

The body of Geissler arrived at an undertaking establishment in this city last night.

MEMPHIS FIREMEN RESIGN.

Practically Whole Force Quits When Pay Rise Is Refused.

Special to The New York Times.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., July 14.—Unqualified and unanimous indorsement of Commissioner Edgar's action rejecting the demands of the firemen for an increase of salary, his refusal to permit them to be reinstated in case the threatened walkout Thursday at noon occurs, and the plans for the Volunteer Fire Department were given by 500 citizens, representative of the business interests and taxpayers of the city, who gathered in mass meeting at the Goodwyn Institute this afternoon subsequent to the call of Mayor Rowlett Paine.

The meeting followed the resignation of the entire Fire Department with the exception of the Chief, assistant chiefs, telephone operators and mechanics, the resignations to take effect Thursday, July 15.

The Commissioner declared that such a wholesale resignation amounted to a walkout or strike. He said that had he been Fire and Police Commissioner when the firemen were unionized he never would have allowed it.

"No firemen's strike in the United States was ever won, and there will not be one won in Memphis," he said amid applause. "The action of the firemen in walking out after I had asked them to remain at least long enough to replace them shows their insincerity and their desire to cripple the Fire Department."

Wilson Mallory, who was asked by the Commissioner to act as Chairman of the committee to enlist volunteers, reported success. He said that all firms with whom he had talked agreed to permit employes to enlist as volunteer fire fighters and that they would not only hold positions open for them, but would continue their salaries.

The police force is not affected.

FEAR SHARKS ATTACKED MAN

Thomas McCann Disappeared While Swimming at Freeport, L. I.

Efforts to find the body of Thomas McCann, 30 years old, who disappeared while bathing in Woodcleft Channel, Freeport, L. I., Tuesday, were unsuccessful yesterday. Searchers fear that the man was attacked by sharks. Several sharks have been seen lately in the channel and a small one was caught near the scene of McCann's disappearance a few days ago. The channel was dragged for his body all day yesterday.

McCann, who was formerly a life saver, was an expert swimmer. He was a member of the New York Athletic Club and resided in Manhattan.

MOVE FOR RENEWAL OF PIER COMPACTS

Union Leaders Seek Conference with Companies on Agreements Expiring Oct. 1.

WILL OPPOSE OPEN SHOP

Marine Engineers and Employers Will Meet to Discuss Wage Scale Today.

Conferences looking toward the renewal of agreements between the steamship companies and longshore and other workers upon their expiration, Oct. 1, are being arranged by the union leaders. The union heads said that no demands had been formulated and they would not discuss the probability of requests for wage increases.

T. V. O'Connor, head of the International Longshoremen's Association, left for Washington last night to arrange conferences with officials of the United States Shipping Board and representatives of all the deep-sea lines. Mr. O'Connor said that negotiations for a new agreement beginning October 1, would be taken up at once.

The question of the "open shop" may also be taken up by the Union leaders. Mr. O'Connor indicated that the unions would not accept the "open shop" plan, asserting that the unions had at present a "preferential agreement" with the steamship companies and that he saw no reason why they should give it up.

Leaders of the Marine Engineers' Beneficial Association will meet today representatives of the American Steamship Association at 17 Battery Place. A tentative wage scale will be presented by the unions and matters concerning working conditions will be discussed. The steamship association's subcommittee on wages will attend the meeting.

Reports on conditions at the coastwise steamship companies' piers yesterday showed that the Ocean Steamship Company would start today on a normal schedule for the first time since the longshoremen empolyed in the coastwise trade went on strike. The Clyde-Mallory Line's service was said to be about 50 per cent. normal, with the chief delay in sailings to and from Galveston, where the labor disturbances are acute. The Southern Pacific Line is clearing less than a vessel a week, as compared with five a week before the strike.

Colonel Frederic A. Molitor, Chairman of the Trucking Committee of the Citizens' Transportation Committee, which has been furnishing independent trucking service from the coastwise piers, said that more trucks were being operated this week, due to an increase in orders.

PROPERTY MANAGEMENT ENGINEERS

Offer Eight Units of Ownership In the Exclusive Burrell Building—for Investment or for Occupancy

AN unusual opportunity, not only unique but fundamentally sound, is presented in this offer of units of ownership in a high-class corner business building, centrally located in the biggest business city of the world—New York.

You are offered part ownership in a valuable property (land and building) located where land values are stable and where rentable space will long continue in great demand.

Your ownership will be represented by a block of stock in a new corporation organised to take title to the property, and the cost to you will be determined by the unit, or floor, you select.

You will have a voice and a vote in the conduct of the corporation and the operation of the property.

AS AN INVESTMENT

You will own outright what is virtually a fully paid-up, perpetual lease of an entire floor—3800 net usable square feet—rentable at a minimum of $2.50 per square foot, or approximately $9500 per annum, minimum.

This space you will be privileged to sublet in whole or in part, subject to reasonable restrictions as to character of occupancy.

And you will receive the entire rental direct—no tax, mortgage interest, or building-operating expense to deduct.

Or you may arrange for the establishment of a trusteeship to handle your income from rentals, payments being made to whom, and at such times, as you may direct.

TENANT OWNERSHIP

If you desire to occupy your unit of space, you will have, in addition to the investment advantages:

An individualistic business home in an exclusive office building;

A permanent business address, forever protected against enforced removal or inordinate rental increase;

Two tangible assets—a valuable stock ownership and a paid-up lease—instead of an accumulation of rental receipts.

BURRELL BUILDING
Madison Avenue
Northeast Corner of Thirty-third Street

It is located on the corner of a prominent thoroughfare. Every office fronts either on the avenue or the street. All floors above the store floor have ceiling heights 10 ft. 6 in. in the clear. Every floor has a burglar-proof vault. Three high-speed elevators.

This building, which was erected in 1913, has always enjoyed an enviable reputation for the tenant good will it possesses. It has always had a waiting list for space.

THE UNITS OF OWNERSHIP

A new company is being incorporated, for which we have acquired an option to purchase the property (land and building) at a fair price—considerably below its present-day reproduction value.

The ground floor, seven other full floors, and the pent house will be reserved for renting. And we estimate the income so derived will more than pay all expenses of the entire property.

The stock of this new corporation will be divided into eight units. With each of the units purchased will go what is practically a perpetual, fully paid-up lease of an entire floor, with all the rights as previously stated here.

You can acquire one of these eight units of ownership for from $52,000 to $60,000, depending on the floor you select.

You will have six months in which to complete payments.

QUICK ACTION NECESSARY

On the basis of our twenty years of concentrated experience in the development, management, rental, and sale of New York City real estate, we say without any qualification or mental reservation whatsoever, that this proposition is safe and sound from whatever angle it may be viewed.

The fact that we offer it in a newspaper advertisement may cause you to hesitate to reply.

This is our answer: The opportunity is exceptional and quick action is imperative. The option expires August 18th.

Therefore, we must reach, in the quickest possible time, the greatest number of people who might be interested.

If interested, we recommend that you make an appointment with one of our executives, either at your office or at ours.

FIRST FOREIGN FLAG OVER WHITE HOUSE

French Tricolor Flown in Honor of Bastile Day There and on Government Buildings.

PRESIDENT SENDS GREETING

GREAT REVIEW IN PARIS

WASHINGTON, July 14.—For the first time in history flags of two nations were displayed above the roof of the White House today, when the American flag and the French tricolor flew side by side on separate flagpoles. From time immemorial only one flag—the national emblem—has flown from a pole erected over the centre of the White House roof. Today two new poles were erected, one over the east wing, from which the American flag was displayed, and another over the west wing, from which the French flag was shown. The central pole, the one usually used, was empty today. The display of the French flag was intended as a tribute to the French people and Franco-American friendship on the celebration of Bastile Day.

"Please accept, Mr. President, for yourself and the great French people my sincere and warm felicitations and best wishes, as well as those of the American people, on the occasion of this national holiday, commemorative of an event which, like our own Declaration of Independence, gave notice to the world that men should no longer be subjected to the tyranny and despotism of arbitrary power, but that laws should be just and equal to all. It was such sentiments that had previously moved the French people to give not only their sympathy but their assistance to the American colonies struggling for freedom, thus engendering a gratitude which has descended with increasing fervor from generation to generation of American citizens, and which found its visible expression in the spectacle of American armies fighting with the armies of France for the rights of man. The ties which bind the two peoples in fraternal affection and esteem are, I am confident, Mr. President, indestructible, and will abide forever.

"WOODROW WILSON."

During the day Secretary Baker, accompanied by a representative of the French Embassy and Major Gen. March, Chief of Staff, and other army officers, went to Arlington National Cemetery, where he laid wreaths on the graves of French soldiers, some of whom died while assisting in the training of American forces in this country during the war.

ALL PARIS CHEERS ARMY.

Bastile Day Celebrated with Review—San Francisco Girls Present Flag.

PARIS, July 14.—France today celebrated the 131st anniversary of the taking of the Bastile. Artillery and infantry estimated to number 41,000 marched through Paris to the Vincennes race track, where they participated in a great review. Points of vantage were occupied by thousands of Parisians, who took up their positions soon after dawn. All the buildings of Paris were flag-bedecked, the French and American flags being entwined with the colors of the other Allies.

The brilliancy of the military review was marred by the absence of President Deschanel and Marshal Foch. The President sent word regretting that ill health compelled him to continue his rest for several weeks, while Marshal Foch was at Spa, to which city he had been summoned by the Allied Premiers.

General Pershing's greetings to Foch, France and its army and the American Legion's message to the French were prominently displayed in all the newspapers.

This afternoon at the club of the Knights of Columbus an American flag was presented to France by a delegation of girls from San Francisco.

Paris today was one vast playground. All business was at a standstill, and even surface transportation ceased. Tonight immense bonfires will blaze in several districts of the capital and in many other large cities, illuminating the country for miles around, while there will be great displays of fireworks.

COBLENZ, July 14.—The American army on the Rhine today celebrated the French national holiday. The army band gave concerts, and salutes were fired in honor of Paul Tirard, President of the International Rhineland Commission, and the French.

Brigadier General H. T. Allen, Commander in Chief of the American Army of Occupation, went to Mavence to participate in the observance of the day at the headquarters of the French Army of the Rhine.

DAY OBSERVED HERE.

French Societies Form a New Federation and Celebrate.

The one hundred and thirty-first anniversary of the fall of the Bastile was celebrated in the city yesterday by American patriotic societies and Franco-American organizations in several meetings, chief among them that held last night at the Manhattan Casino, Eighth Avenue and 155th Street, at which twenty-two societies and French-speaking Americans and members of New York's French colony launched an organization to be known as the United French Societies.

A concert and ball under the combined auspices of the French Colony and the French Veterans of the Great War, which was also attended by M. Liébert, was held last night in the Seventy-first Regiment Armory, Park Avenue and Thirty-fourth Street. There was a luncheon of the France-America Society at the Bankers' Club in honor of France's national holiday.

Bastile Day was celebrated at the National Cemetery, Jamaica and Hale Avenues, Cypress Hills, when the graves of twenty-six sailors from the battleships Gloire and Marseillaise, who died during the influenza epidemic in 1918 when these ships were anchored in New York Harbor, were decorated with Victory palms and French and American flags. Preceding the impressive exercises there was a parade of 150 sailors from the battleship Tennessee, the Naval Recruiting Office Band, two troops of Girl Scouts, Admiral Schley Naval Squadron, Veteran Association of Women Workers, W. E. Blaisdell Post, American Legion, the Catholic Women's League and the Long Island Council of the Knights of Columbus.

Mexican Press Remembers July 14.

Claire Dux Hurt, Friend Dies; Singer Was Soon Coming Here

BERLIN, July 14.—Claire Dux, an opera singer, who, it is said, had an engagement to appear in the United States, was seriously injured today in a collision between an automobile and a street car.

A girl companion of the singer was killed.

Mme. Claire Dux, declared to be a Swiss by citizenship, though she has made her career in the greater opera houses of Germany, was announced last month by the Wolfsohn Bureau of New York for a tour of America in concert and song recital.

The new soprano was due to arrive in October, and, while not engaged by the Metropolitan or Chicago Opera Company, it was said she expected to appear as guest while here in rôles in which she has been a reigning success in Europe for some years.

PRESIDENT CALLS LEAGUE AT GENEVA

FOLLOWS TREATY PROVISION

Meeting Place May Be Changed Later by the League Itself—Wilson's Duties End.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 15.—President Wilson has issued a call for a meeting of the Assembly of the League of Nations at Geneva, Switzerland, on Nov. 15.

While it was known on Monday that the President had agreed to comply with the request of the Council of the League that he call the first meeting of the League Assembly, and that the date would be Nov. 15, it was not definitely learned until tonight that Geneva is the place for the meeting of the League's first assembly.

The call issued by the President has been sent to all nations which are members of the League, each of which will be entitled to representation in the Assembly. It went out Monday night. Under Article V. of the League Covenant, "the first meeting of the Assembly and the first meeting of the Council shall be summoned by the President of the United States of America."

The President's decision in favor of Geneva as the initial meeting place not only means that the first sessions will take place on neutral soil but that the President has again indicated his disapproval of Brussels as the place for the permanent seat of the League. It will be recalled that the allied powers were at first in favor of the selection of the Belgian capital. President Wilson took a firm stand against this at the peace conference, when he insisted that the seat should be on neutral soil, and Article 7 of the treaty, as finally signed, provided that the "seat of the League is established at Geneva."

Despite the fact that Geneva is so named in the treaty, there has been a movement among allied officials in favor of Brussels. The recent request of the League Council that the President summon the first meeting of the League Assembly was delivered in a manner to indicate that Lloyd George, Millerand and the other principal allied leaders favored Brussels. The President, however, for a second time, indicated his preference for Geneva.

The President having now issued the summonses for both the League Council and the Assembly, his personal obligations under the terms of the treaty have ceased. It is not incumbent upon the President to summon any subsequent meetings of the League.

Under the treaty the League itself may subsequently change the place of meeting.

BAR HAILS LEAGUE COURT.

American Association Committee Proud of Lawyers' Work.

The announcement yesterday by the American Bar Association of the program for its annual meeting to be held in St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 25, 26 and 27, contains an abstract of the report of the Committee on International Law. The report tells of the meeting of the Organizing Committee of the Permanent Court of International Justice under the League of Nations, and mentions that Elihu Root, a former President of the body, and Dr. James Brown Scott, another of its members, are participating in the work.

"Mr. Root," the committee report says, "has no commission from his Government, but is called on account of his eminence as a lawyer. At last, a body distinctly legal, a body of our cloth and profession, is seeking, and is given an opportunity to organize justice and prepare for its enforcement in the world."

"The Special Committee on Change of Date of Presidential Inauguration," the announcement continues, "reports its unanimous opinion that the interval between the election and inauguration of a President is a serious evil fraught with much danger; an administration discredited by a popular vote of want of confidence weakens the prestige of the Government at home and abroad."

Recommendation is made that the association strongly favor such action as will lead to the election and inauguration of the President being brought nearer together, and to the abandonment of the short session of the old Congress.

SIX BATHERS DIE IN DAY.

Two Girls Lose Lives at Picnic at Verona Lake, N. J.

Six persons were drowned yesterday in waters in and near New York. Many others were saved.

Nellie Holster, 17, of 295 Sherman Street, Passaic, N. J., and Miss Ida Donkersloot, 20, of 30 Second Street, Clifton, were drowned at Verona Lake, N. J., where they were attending a picnic of the First Holland Reformed Church of Passaic.

The girls were bathing in the lake when they stepped into deep water. Roloch Holster, 15, tried to seize his cousin's cap, but it came off in his hands. The girls seized the boy as they went down and dragged him under. Charles Trues, 17, of Verona broke their grip on the boy, but could not save the girls. Miss Donkersloot was a student at the Clifton High School.

Two Newark boys were drowned. One, David Horwitz, 16, of 264 Seymour Avenue, started to swim across the Passaic River, at Singac, but sank within ten feet of the opposite shore. Robert Miller, 12, of Clinton Avenue, who was visiting at the Summer cottage of Edward K. Wetherill at Budd Lake, disappeared after diving into the lake. His body was found half an hour later.

Joseph Dembrowski, 8, of 302 Water Street, Brooklyn, was drowned at the foot of Washington Street, Brooklyn, yesterday, after taking a few strokes. Matthew Pronski, 15, of 364 St. Paul's Avenue, Jersey City, was drowned in the Hackensack River. His body was not recovered. William White, 18, of 34 Crooke Avenue, Brooklyn, and Valentine Resch, 15, of 105 Hull Street, Brooklyn, were saved from drowning at Manhattan Beach yesterday. The White boy was saved by Robert Berk, a life guard. Young Resch was rescued by R. F. Powers, a fireman, of Engine Company 254. Both were taken ill in the water.

NOTE SENT TO SOVIET READ IN COMMONS

PROPOSES PEACE MEETING

Envoys of Russia and Border States Would Assemble in London Under Peace Conference Auspices.

LONDON, July 14.—The note of the British Government to Soviet Russia agreeing to continue negotiations for a resumption of trade relations and proposing an armistice between Soviet Russia and Poland and also between the Soviet forces and General Wrangel, the anti-Bolshevist commander in the Crimea, was read in the House of Commons today by Andrew Bonar Law, the Government spokesman.

The note takes cognizance of the acceptance by the Russian Soviet Government of the principles laid down in the British memorandum of July 1 and of the basis of agreement for a resumption of trade relations and the cessation of hostilities, and agrees to a resumption of negotiations for definite trade relations as soon as the Russian delegates return to England. Then, proposing an armistice with Poland, the note says:

"The Soviet Government repeatedly has declared its anxiety to make peace with all its neighbors. The British Government is no less anxious to restore peace throughout Europe and therefore proposes the following arrangement with this object in view:

"That an immediate armistice be signed between Poland and Soviet Russia under which hostilities shall be suspended. That the terms of this armistice provide, on the one hand, that the Polish Army shall immediately withdraw to the lines provisionally laid down last year by the Peace Conference as to the eastern boundary to which Poland is entitled to establish a Polish administration.

Fifty Kilometer Neutral Zone.

"On the other hand the armistice should provide that the army of Soviet Russia should stand at a distance of fifty kilometers east of this line. In Eastern Galicia each army will stand on the line they occupy at the date of the signature of the armistice.

"That as soon as possible thereafter a conference, sitting under the auspices of the Peace Conference, shall assemble in London, to be attended by representatives of Soviet Russia, Poland, Lithuania Latvia and Finland, with the object of negotiating a final peace between Russia and its neighboring States. Representatives of Eastern Galicia also would be invited to London to state their case.

"For the purpose of this conference Great Britain will place no restrictions on the representatives which Russia may nominate, provided they undertake while in Great Britain not to interfere in politics or the internal affairs of the British Empire or in propaganda."

The note says the armistice with General Wrangel should be on the basis that Wrangel retire immediately to the Crimea and that during the armistice this must be a neutral zone. Wrangel would be invited to London to discuss the future of his troops and of the refugees under his protection, but would not be a member of the conference.

"The British Government would be glad of an immediate reply to this telegram, as the Polish Government has asked for the intervention of the Allies and as the time is vital and a situation may develop which will make the conclusion of a lasting peace far more difficult. Therefore the British Government has bound itself to give no assistance to Poland for any purpose hostile to Russia and to take no action itself hostile to Russia. It is, however, bound under the covenant of the League of Nations to defend the integrity of Poland within its legitimate ethnographical frontiers."

"If, therefore, Soviet Russia, despite its repeated declarations, will not be content with the withdrawal of the Polish army on the condition of a mutual armistice, but intends to take action hostile to Poland in Poland's own territory, the British Government and its allies will feel bound to assist the Polish nation to defend its existence with all means at their disposal.

"The Polish Government has declared its willingness to make a peace with Soviet Russia and to negotiate for an armistice on the basis set out above directly it is informed that the Soviet Government also agrees.

"The British Government would therefore be glad to receive a definite reply within a week as to whether Soviet Russia is prepared to accept the British Government's proposals to put an end to further unnecessary bloodshed and restore peace to Europe."

Mr. Bonar Law, replying to a question, said the note had been sent with the approval of the Allies.

Mr. Bonar Law's statement was accompanied by a memorandum giving in detail the conditions upon which England would agree to trade with Russia. These provisions, which already have been made public in outline form, comprise renunciation of propaganda, mutual release of Nationals and recognition of the principle of compensating private citizens who supplied goods or services.

In connection with the matter of compensation, the memorandum said the British Government did not ask that these debts be settled now. It stated that the Government was prepared to leave determination of Russia's liabilities under this head, as well as other questions relating to debts or claims by Great Britain on Russia or by Russia on Great Britain to be mutually settled at peace negotiations. The British considered it necessary, however, that the Soviet Government make a declaration on this point in order to give confidence to Western merchants and manufacturers.

The memorandum further declared the British Government had no intention of debarring any Russian on the ground of his communist opinion, provided the agents of the Russian Government complied with normal conditions of friendly international intercourse.

British officials stated today that the Russian Soviet Government had not yet replied to the British proposals. A dispatch from Copenhagen, however, says: "Maxim Litvinoff, former 'Soviet Ambassador to London,' has been designated head of the Russian delegation to the forthcoming peace conference in London between the representatives of Soviet Russia, Poland and the other border States, it was announced here today."

POLES CONTINUE TO FALL BACK

Moscow Reports Bolshevist Advance Along Entire Front.

LONDON, July 14.—Further advances by the Bolsheviki in their campaign against the Poles are reported in Tuesday's official communique, received by wireless from Moscow today. The statement reads:

"In the direction of Kovel we crossed the River Goryn, twenty miles southwest of Sarny, and are developing our advance. Fierce fighting is proceeding in our favor.

"In the direction of Lida we have occupied the railway station at Prudy and Polotchany and Ushatochka.

"In the direction of Baranvitchi we have driven the enemy from his position on the river Svisloteh and occupied Mikhanovitchi and Stazons.

The Poles before abandoning Bobruisk, about 100 miles southeast of Minsk, destroyed the town, according to another wireless dispatch from Moscow.

TRIEST, July 13—Unbridled vandalism reigned in Triest today and this evening during anti-Slav demonstrations. Three persons were killed and scores were wounded, while damages estimated at more than $1,000,000 resulted from the burning or wrecking of buildings, including banks, stores and office property belonging to Jugoslavs.

Everything with a semblance of Jugoslav ownership was ruined. Bombs and inflammables were used by the mobs in their work.

The people were terror-stricken by the explosions of the bombs, the reports of rifle firing and the long tongues of flame which rose from the burning buildings.

Francis Flynn of San Antonio, Texas, was in a hotel which was burned, but escaped without injury.

WASHINGTON, July 14. — Captain Giuli, the commanding officer of the Italian warship Puglia, who was wounded during the fight between Italians and Jugoslavs at Spalato, has died of his wounds, according to information received today.

Two versions of the affair, in which the American commanding officer in the Adriatic intervened, reached Washington today. The Italian version, received through State Department channels, blamed Jugoslavs for the attack. The Jugoslav version alleges that the Italians started the fighting.

The Jugoslav version was made public by the Serbian Information Bureau tonight as follows:

"Belgrade, July 14.—Telegrams from Spalato report that on July 11, the eve of the birthday of King Peter, two Italian non-commissioned officers carried off the national flag from a house in the town and took it on board the warship Puglia.

"This incident caused great irritation among the inhabitants of the town and a large crowd marched to the harbor singing national airs and indulging in patriotic demonstrations. Meanwhile an armed steam launch on which were several officers was sent from the Puglia and approached the landing place.

"In spite of the warnings of the Chief of Police to the Italian Captain in command of the launch, the crew fired a number of shots, killing and wounding a number of people.

"The gendarmerie of the town returned the fire. The officer commanding the Puglia, Captain Giuli; two other officers and several men were wounded. According to one report, Captain Giuli succumbed to his wounds after an operation.

"The American Embassy at Rome has received an official communication regarding an attack reported to have been made by Jugoslavs on Italian officers and marines attached to the Italian first-class cruiser Puglia at Spalato, Dalmatia, on July 11. The communication, as reported by the Embassy to the State Department today, stated that the Puglia officers and marines while ashore at Spalato were assaulted by nationalist demonstrators without cause and that boats dispatched for their protection were attacked with rifle shots and hand grenades. The communication said that the Captain of the vessel and a mechanician were killed and two other officers and an engineer seriously wounded."

SINN FEINERS KIDNAP 5 RAIL VOLUNTEERS

Seize Men in Dublin Who Offered to Move Trains with War Material.

COMPLETE STOPPAGE NEAR

Dismissals of Recalcitrant Employes Have Depleted Personnel on All Roads.

DUBLIN, July 14.—The railway situation in Ireland was never so grave from the Government's viewpoint as today, when the workers refused to move freight trains carrying any sort of war material, and Sinn Feiners kidnapped five men who offered to move the trains after the others had declined.

The policy of dismissing recalcitrant employes, which the Sinn Feiners say is directed by the Government, is rapidly depleting the ranks of the railway workers and resulting in additional traffic stoppages. Fourteen men were dismissed at the Kingsbridge terminus in Dublin during the last twenty-four hours.

At Clones, County Monaghan, five men who reported for work on a munitions train were spirited away to an unknown destination in an automobile.

Trains to the North of Ireland have been running on time during the last three days, but even on these lines there have been minor blockades just south of the Ulster border.

The practice of dropping off at a siding cars containing armed police and soldiers on the Great Northern Railroad has temporarily ceased owing to the report that any railroader attempting such tactics would be shot on the spot. The source of this report cannot be traced, but it is having its effect nevertheless.

2,000 in Fight at Lurgan.

BELFAST, July 14.—Two thousand Sinn Feiners and Unionists today had a fight in Lurgan over the capture of a man who is alleged to have participated in a recent raid on a mansion near Lurgan.

Many persons were wounded in the fighting. A party of troops from Belfast arrived in the town and removed the man from Lurgan.

The trouble had its origin in a demand by the Sinn Feiners for the release of the man, which the Unionists opposed.

NUORTEVA ARRESTED BY BRITISH POLICE

Martens's Secretary, Admitted by Mistake, Is to be Deported from England.

LONDON, July 14.—Santeri Nuorteva, who recently arrived in England as the emissary of L. C. A. K. Martens, Russian Bolshevist representative in the United States, has been run to earth by the authorities and will be deported.

Nuorteva was admitted to England by mistake, it is stated. He was carrying a "diplomatic passport" signed by Martens, and the alien officers at Liverpool failed to notice the true nature of the document.

Nuorteva on his arrival here immediately got into touch with members of the delegation of Leonid Krassin, the Bolshevist minister of Trade and Commerce, his object being, according to the authorities, to induce the delegation to finance Martens in his litigation with the United States Department of Justice and otherwise assist Martens financially. Nuorteva had assumed a commercial mission, and he brought a letter of introduction from Canadian bankers.

As soon as the authorities found Nuorteva they issued a deportation order, which will be executed shortly.

Nuorteva claims Russian nationality, on the ground that Finland, where he was born, was a Russian possession at the time of his birth.

FALL FASHION FETE HELD.

Buyers from all over the country assembled last night for the Fall Fashion Fête given in the ballroom of the Hotel Commodore by the National Garment Retailers' Association. A wide assortment of designs was shown which bespoke the originality and growing initiative of the American designers. According to the result of the season's work of the creators it appears that the most exacting and varying taste may be satisfied in the selection of the Fall wardrobe.

The models emerged from a French château at the back of the stage and paraded down a runway the length of the ballroom amid the rows of spectators. Suits were given first attention, and the styles in these were varying indeed. The military tendency was still faintly to be seen although almost exclusively confined to brass buttons and close-fitting collars.

All sorts of fur was used with the suits and heavier coats. One model of old blue duvetyn, cut rather old fashioned, was trimmed with krimmer and there was a toque of krimmer to match. Muskrat, squirrel, beaver and ermine were among the furs employed as trimming.

The evening gowns were most distinctive, although not quite so elaborate as those worn last season. Some of the smarter models were unadorned, the designer relying upon the material and the artistry alone to give them distinction.

CITY LOSES FIGHT FOR TROLLEY LINES

STATEN ISLAND AFFECTED

Decision Will Prevent City from Putting Cars on Midland Lines Now Under Receiver.

Federal Judge Chatfield refused yesterday to grant the application of John J. Kuhn, receiver of the Richmond Light and Railroad Company, for an order restraining the Board of Estimate from declaring the franchise of the company forfeited and taking posession of the property for municipal operation. The ground of the Court's refusal was that the city was without power to take possession of property in control of the Federal Court, and that therefore the restraining order asked for was unnecessary.

The Board of Aldermen has sanctioned the application of Commissioner Grover Whalen for an appropriation of $300,000, to be raised by an issue of special revenue bonds, for the purchase of trolley cars to be used on the lines of the Midland Railway Company, and wherever else an emergency exists. The Midland is also in the hands of a Federal receiver, and is therefore immune from seizure by the city under Judge Chatfield's ruling.

The Court said in its opinion that it had no right to determine that the city, through the Board of Estimate, might be acting with no foundation of law and entirely outside its authority in declaring the franchise forfeited, but that no resolution of forfeiture could interfere with the operation of the receivers before the Court had an opportunity to pass upon the validity of such a resolution.

CAUGHT HALF HIS WEIGHT IN CATFISH

Just Drove It Ashore, Missouri Barber Explains to Doubting Prosecutor.

Special to The New York Times.

MACON, Mo., July 14.—A forty-eight-pound catfish was brought in from the Chariton River Sunday night by a party of campers. "Harve" Varnes, a barber, made the catch. "Harve" is 5 feet 3½ inches in his stocking feet and weighs ninety-six pounds. The fish is, or was, here to show for itself—it weighed exactly forty-eight pounds.

After seeing the fish weighed Tuesday, Prosecuting Attorney Edwards had Constable James serve a subpoena on "Harve." White-faced and wondering, the barber with much formality was shown into the private office, where a stenographer and the Town Marshal with his star and club waited.

"You say you caught that forty-eight-pound cat, Mr. Varnes?" asked Mr. Edwards.

"Yes, Sir,"

"The fish was in the water?"

"Of course."

"And you were on the shore?"

"That's right."

"Excuse me, Mr. Varnes, but what do you weigh—in the altogether, I mean?"

"A little over ninety-six."

"And the fish?"

"Weighed exactly forty-eight pounds."

"No, Sir."

"Well, here's McFadden on aquatics—good authority—he says a fish can move fifty pounds per square inch. Would you think that fish had more than two square inches about it?"

"Why, it had more than that—a hundred, I'd guess."

"So would I," said Edwards, "but according to this book it would only take two square inches of that fish to move you, who weigh less than 100 pounds. Will you please tell me how you got it ashore in these circumstances?"

"Harve" thought a minute and decided to take a chance.

"Of course, the fish could outpull me," he admitted, "but when he started down stream I paid out more line and started running after him. The fish was so scared it sailed pretty fast. Well, I saw a log kinda angling out from the shore and I pulled in the line a little so as to guide the fish inland. It kept on sailing under full steam, and I guided it between the log and the bank and there it stuck fast—couldn't budge an inch."

"Anything else?" asked "Harve" softly, as the prosecutor hesitated.

"That's all, Mr. Varnes," replied Mr. Edwards. "I just was thinking what a chump Jonah was to let a fish swallow him alive when he had more tackle and a ten times better show than you had."

EXPLANS PICTURE BRIDES.

TOKIO, July 14.—The Foreign Office today issued the following statement:

"According to a press report from San Francisco, the news that fifty picture brides were due to arrive in San Francisco July 16 seems to have been received with surprise, in view of the recent engagement of the Japanese Government. The engagement referred to in the report, however, was not for prohibiting the departure of so-called picture brides after the end of February, but for stopping issuance of passports for that purpose after that date. The passports, once issued, being good for six months, it is to be expected there may be some picture brides getting to America as late as the latter part of August. This point was made sufficiently clear to the American Government."

WIFE ADMITS SHARE IN DIVORCE PLOT

Mrs. Alfred Warman Says She Went to Hotel with Friend by Arrangement with Husband.

BROOKLYN LAWYER NAMED

Husband Produces Letter from George Houtain Renouncing Interest in Mrs. Warman.

George Julian Houtain, a well-to-do lawyer and active in politics and church work in Brooklyn, yesterday became the central figure in the divorce proceedings instituted before Justice Van Siclen in the Brooklyn Supreme Court by Alfred Warman, a well-to-do insurance broker, residing at 171 Westminster Road, Brooklyn, against his wife, Grace E. Warman, when the husband submitted a letter to the court which he alleged was written to him by the lawyer and in which Houtain acknowledges his love for Mrs. Warman.

The letter, along with other papers, was filed by the husband in opposing Mrs. Warman's application for counsel fees of $1,500 and alimony of $350 a week, which was in the form of an answer to her husband's suit for divorce instituted several months ago. Mrs. Warman in her answer filed an affidavit in which she declared that the divorce proceeding was instituted by her husband as a result of a conspiracy arranged by her husband and Houtain to have her discovered with the lawyer in a room in the Knickerbocker Hotel last Winter.

The Warmans were married twelve years ago, according to the papers in the divorce proceeding, and have a daughter, Dorothy, 10 years old. Houtain is described in her affidavit alleging the conspiracy as "an old friend of her husband's," and she alleges that another friend of the family, Pryor Allen, accompanied her husband and a detective to the Knickerbocker Hotel on the night she was found in the room with Mr. Houtain.

Lawyer's Letter to Husband.

The lawyer also submitted an affidavit, which was filed with Mrs. Warman's answer, in which he denied he ever visited the hotel with Mrs. Warman, and it was because of that affidavit, it is alleged, that the husband submitted the following letter to Justice Van Siclen in refutal of Houtain's sworn statement, and which was signed with Houtain's name:

"Dear Mr. Warman: You and I agreed that Mrs. Warman cannot have her cake and eat it too, and that it must be one or the other. Today I have been disillusioned. It is unlawyerlike to address you in writing, but I am assuming you will not use this communication against me. Now that Mrs. Warman has been put to the crucial test, she realizes she has made a big mistake.

"She is more than sorry for what has happened. She has found that there are far more important considerations in life than what she supposed was the big thing in life—her love for me.

I want you to know that this is her decision. It is not mine, because I was willing to go through all and everything for her in the bigness and fullness of my deep and ever-abiding affection. I was willing to go without that she might have.

You have won, and I have lost. I will try to take my medicine manfully. Now that you have won, won't you please be broad, big and tolerant and not unkindly toward your wife, but be tender and compassionate with her, throwing around her the protection of your name and reputation, and, above all things else, keep intact your home—yours, hers and Dorothy's? So long as she won't have me, I want none other but you to care for and protect her.

Wife Admits Share in Plot.

In her application alleging that the divorce proceeding was founded on a conspiracy Mrs. Warman said, in part:

"In a moment of weakness I promised to go to a hotel with Mr. Houtain and supply the necessary evidence. I confess that it seemed at that time a turning point in my life. I saw on one hand an opportunity to be free from my husband and to go my own way with my child and try to forget that I had ever known Alfred Warman. On the other hand, if I refused his terms, it meant no future for me, but only a continuation of my life in the past.

"When we arrived in the room, I removed my coat and hat, but nothing else. Mr. Houtain lit and smoked a cigarette. He sat in one chair and I in another, and we both watched the clock. In a few moments came a knock on the door, and I went into the bathroom. He said: 'Come in,' and Pryor Allen and the detective with my husband entered.

"'My wife is in this room,' my husband said. Houtain pointed at the bathroom door, which my husband pushed open. The detective looked in and showed his badge. Mr. Allen looked at me closely. The stage setting being complete, the three men closed the door and left, and I put on my coat and hat immediately, and Mr. Moutain and I left in a taxicab."

When Mr. Warman's suit for divorce was called last March, Mrs. Warman desired the case continued, so that she could offer a defense. Her defense was offered in the application for alimony, submitted to Justice Van Siclen yesterday, and evidently the husband expected a denial and submitted the letter which he asserted was written by Mr. Moutain in opposing her application.

Mrs. Warman is well known in society in Brooklyn.

Mr. Houtain has an office at 206 Broadway, this city, and lives at 1,128 Bedford Avenue, Brooklyn. He was a member of the Brooklyn Republican organization when Theodore Roosevelt started the Progressive Party in 1912. Mr. Moutain severed his relations with the old party and organized the Progressive Party in the Seventeenth Assembly District of Brooklyn and became the party's leader there.

WHY MEANS KEPT KING WILL

Played to Protect His Interests, He Says in Chicago Suit.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, July 14.—According to his testimony today before Judge Baldwin in the King will contest, Gaston B. Means "played a game of secret aims and purposes" in regard to the alleged spurious "second" will of the millionaire lumberman.

Means kept the document in his own possession most of the time after its discovery by him, he says, among papers belonging to Mrs. King, and moved cautiously to protect his own interests.

A. F. Reichmann, counsel for the Northern Trust Company, which as trustee under the first will of Mr. King is attacking the validity of the second will, questioned Means as to his reason for not turning the alleged forgery over to Attorney Jacob Newman in October, 1915, as counsel for the probating of this instrument.

Witness said he wanted to ascertain the value of the King estate and also the legality of Mrs. King's marriage following her divorce from Hull, adding that he knew he had no standing in the case until he had a contract with Mrs. King.

Subsequently Carl L. Schurz of New York was engaged as counsel in the case, and Means was asked why they did not turn the "second will" over to that lawyer. He replied that his reasons were substantially the same.

Means told of having the "second" will photographed, not in New York, but at the office of The Providence Journal, in Rhode Island. It was intimated that counsel for Mrs. Mary C. Melvin, who is suing with Means, would call as witness the editor of that paper, John R. Rathom.

American Tractors to Pull Sleds of Polar Explorer

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, July 14.—Official information has been received from Denmark that the young Danish scientist, Lauge Koch, who is to start in August on a new polar expedition, will try to reach the northernmost end of Greenland by American tractors. This, it is declared, will be the first time in the history of polar research when tractors have replaced Esquimo dogs.

Koch, who was a member of Knud Rasmussen's expedition to Northern Greenland two years ago, is undertaking the expedition in commemoration of the 200th anniversary of the first Danish exploration of Greenland. Koch plans to proceed from Inglefield Fiord, on the west coast of Greenland, by sleds, drawn by tractors, to Warming's Land. In the Summer of 1921 he will explore the interior of Peary's Land, where no white man has set foot and which has never been mapped.

Koch is reported to have said he feels certain the tractors will be of the greatest value because of the fairly level and solidly packed condition of the Greenland ice.

LAW TO FINGERPRINT BABIES IS PROPOSED

OFFICIALS APPROVE PLAN

Conference of Physicians to be Called to Consider Necessary Change in Sanitary Code.

At an investigation yesterday into the circumstances under which an undertaker obtained a woman's body from the morgue and buried it without the knowledge of her relatives, the suggestion was made by both Deputy Police Commissioner Joseph A. Faurot, the fingerprint expert of the Police Department, and Acting Captain John H. Ayres, head of the Bureau of Missing Persons, that doctors filing birth certificates be required also to file fingerprints of the new born baby.

This, they pointed out, would make available an infallible life-long method for proving identification, would prevent the burial of a body as that of some other person, would limit opportunity for fraud and guard the individual. The suggestion greatly impressed officials gathered at the Department of Health Building, 505 Pearl Street, and opened a subject for discussion that has already extended outside the official circle.

Dr. Frank J. Monaghan, acting Health Commissioner, said, after the meeting, that he was favorably impressed with the plan, which he thought to be timely, considering the mistakes in identification that are being made from time to time. To have the system favorably considered by the public would require some education, he said, for the first suggestion that comes with the mention of fingerprinting suggests a criminal process, whereas fingerprinting often means safeguarding the individual and might mean the saving of a fortune.

May Amend Sanitary Code.

To require the filing of infant finger prints as part of the Department of Health record would require a change in the Sanitary Code. It was said this may be done, but not before the health authorities and the police had called physicians and others interested to a conference.

"The finger printing of infants would prove of inestimable value in many ways," said Dr. Monaghan. "We would have identification records that would stand a legal test. The ramifications of the system would be far-reaching and the benefits many.

"For instance, a New York baby is kidnapped. Months or years later, a child is found in the South or in the Northwest and the authorities believe it to be the missing child. The kidnappers insist the child is really theirs. The authorities of the other city call upon the Health Department here for the finger prints of the missing baby. The child is identified beyond all question of doubt and restored to its parents.

"The plan appeals to me as feasible and of merit, but, as I have said, it would require education to bring many to that way of thinking. We have got to dissociate finger printing from crime."

The case under investigation was the burial of Mrs. Julia Laute, a widow, who died in a furnished room at 241 East 53d Street, on February 18, and whose body was taken to the Morgue. After it had been there for ten days it was buried by William J. Dargeon, of 954 Amsterdam Avenue. Mrs. Elizabeth Lyons, a sister of Mrs. Laute, said she did not know of her sister's death until an insurance company notified her that a bill for $225 had been presented by the undertaker. She complained to the Health Department.

At the conference yesterday besides Dr. Monaghan, Commissioner Faurot and Captain Ayres, were Dr. William H. Guilfoy, Registrar of the Health Department; Dr. Charles Norris, Chief Medical Examiner; George Le Brun, his chief clerk; Dr. John F. Fitzgerald, Medical Superintendent of the Public Welfare Department; Frank Arnold, Deputy Public Administrator; John Connell, Chief Clerk of the Public Administrator's office and Michael Rickard, superintendent of the Morgue.

Another suggestion to insure proper identification was made by Captain Ayres. He said every person, particularly if a woman, should carry some means of identification, as, for example, a name plainly marked on the clothing. The need of this sort of thing, Captain Ayres said, was shown by the fact that bodies of prominent persons had been held unclaimed in the Morgue for several days as unidentified dead. The case of Tim Sullivan was recalled. Dr. Monaghan said such a requirement well might be made part of the Sanitary Code, but he admitted the difficulty of enforcing such a law and collecting penalties for failure to obey it.

CHEAP SUGAR FOR ENGLAND.

LONDON, July 14.—E. D. Cairns, who has been organizing a cheap sugar campaign, was summoned from his Scottish residence to appear today before a select committee of Parliament on the national expenditure, to justify his statement that he could import 300 tons of sugar fortnightly and sell it at eight pence to nine pence per pound, against the present Government-control price of fourteen pence.

The interview took place privately at the House of Commons, and no official announcement was made of the result, but The Daily Chronicle political correspondent understands that Cairns's evidence showed he is a member of a firm with American relations and that they were ready to bring to this country 300 tons of sugar immediately and 900 tons in the next two years.

ADVOCATES RELIEF LAWS

In spite of many obstacles, 12,662 dwellings were under construction July 1. If this rate of building continues until January there will be enough new construction to care for the normal increase in population, according to Edward P. Doyle, secretary of the Mayor's Housing Conference Committee, in a statement yesterday. New York has not been able to house its normal increase in population since 1915, said Mr. Doyle.

Manhattan	14	11
Bronx	267	91
Brooklyn	1,910	920
Queens	1,460	620

Total housing in one-family houses	5,067
Total housing in two-family houses	3,338
Total housing in tenement houses	3,863
Total housing in apartment hotels	394
Total	12,662

Obstacles in the way of housing construction, he added, include scarcity and high cost of building material, the cost and inefficiency of labor and the difficulty in obtaining mortgage money.

Committeemen Furnished Funds.

"The money for the greater part of these building operations," Mr. Doyle said, "was furnished by the members of the various committees of the Mayor's Housing Conference Committee or by those who attended the meetings and pledged themselves to co-operate with the committee. The building was very largely done by members of the committee.

"When Borough President Curran said that the committee had done nothing, he must have intended to say that the sub-committee, of which he was Chairman, had done nothing. When the statement was made by me that President Curran must have known that Government housing was a failure, I was under the impression that he kept himself informed as to what was occurring in the outside world.

"During the last three years of the war Great Britain spent $500,000 a year in salaries to housing commissions, and not a house was built when the armistice was signed. Since that time Great Britain has equally wasted its time in offering financial bonuses and in endeavoring to subsidize builders to erect houses.

"In Germany the Government appropriated 1,350,000,000 marks for the purpose of subsidizing builders, and the last edition of the Frankfurter Zeitung which I have seen contains a statement that the entire operation was a failure. Up to the time of the signing of the armistice the United States Government had appropriated $100,000,000 for Government housing and with but the most meagre results. After the armistice a certain number of the houses were completed and have since been sold by the Government.

$2,500,000 Loss at Bridgeport.

"The operation at Bridgeport, Conn., which cost between $5,000,000 and $6,000,000, was recently sold in part by the Government, a portion of it, costing $3,800,000, being sold for $1,300,000 to a large corporation at Bridgeport. Through Government housing at Bridgeport no benefit accrued to the working men and there was no reduction in rent.

"The Mayor effectually disposed of the city housing proposition when he said to President LaGuardia, who first made the statement that there should be municipal housing, 'If the city can't build school houses because of labor and material difficulties, how can it build dwellings?'

"The Mayor's Housing Committee has the remedy for the present situation. The State and Federal Governments should, as soon as the Legislature and Congress convene, exempt mortgages from the income tax. Labor should co-operate with the committee as capital, builders, building material men and transportation men have co-operated. Then the entire housing situation can be settled by the law of supply and demand."

President F. H. LaGuardia of the Board of Aldermen yesterday issued the following statement on the question of the city going into the building of dwellings:

"Care must be taken that if a special session of the Legislature is called it be strictly understood that no attempt be made to repeal any of the so-called rent laws that were passed during the last session. Inadequate as they are, still it was a great step forward toward the right direction. Notwithstanding the diversity of construction and application by the various municipal judges, these laws bring relief in thousands of cases where landlords attempt to dispossess tenants in order to exact higher rents. These bills were fought bitterly and ever since their enactment every effort has been made to misrepresent their purpose and to create public opinion to bring about their repeal."

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Speculative interest in stocks slowed down yesterday, both in volume of business and in the number of issues handled as compared with the preceding session. In fact, except for a quickening of the trading pace in the first hour, when certain groups of industrial shares were under pressure, and again near the close under short covering transactions, the market acted much as it did during the monotonous days late in June. Professional traders practically dominated business and results were more marked on the selling than on the buying side, although the irregular price list at the close told little of real influences at work. Automobile and rubber issues were shot at by the bears, to the accompaniment of rumors about possible price reductions in lines produced by the motor and allied concerns which sounded as though manufactured for the occasion. In case of motor vehicles, at least, it is difficult to visualize a reduction of selling prices at a time when a substantial demand is colliding with growing scarcity of materials. Call money lent all day at 8 per cent. The Street appeared to have no difficulty in finding all the accommodation of this sort it needed, but time funds were as eager for new loans as at any time this Summer.

While the action of stocks was diffident, the condition of the foreign exchanges was one of activity and receding quotations. Sterling declined 4⅝ cents, the closing check rate of 3.88 being 7 cents below the maximum quotation last week. It would be possible to refer to the attitude of German delegates at Spa as one explanation for increased speculative pressure against sterling and some of the Continental rates, for the deadlock over coal deliveries suggested the possibility of armed coercion of the German Government, the outlook being made more suggestive by the calling of General Foch to the conference. Quite possibly, London turned attention to rumors, heard here on Tuesday, that Great Britain was considering the assumption of part of France's portion of the Anglo-French loan payment, causing some selling of sterling; but what was evidently the most practical factor in the decline was the steadily increasing supply of grain and cotton bills coming into the market at New York. Whether or not better labor facilities at the Atlantic ports have been of influence in the last week, the fact remains that bankers report a growth of outgoing shipments of raw material and food stuffs. Considerable amounts of wheat, cotton and meat are going to Germany, financed by Dutch houses. In considering the German coal problem at the Spa conference, one needs recall cabled reports of a fortnight ago to the effect that the Germans were selling fuel to Holland interests, to be paid for in food materials and other products.

The steel trade reviews this week tell of persistent congestion at the mills, one estimate making the amount of finished products in storage 2,000,000 tons. The steel and iron makers are crying for more cars, without getting as many as they need because of the priority given to transportation of coal. And the scarcity of fuel and iron at steel works is causing a highly irregular price front, including this week an advance of $5 a ton in wire quotations by certain sellers. The price tone seems generally firm, which is not surprising considering the reports of urgent calls for deliveries of finished goods.

LACKAWANNA STEEL GAINS.

Report for June Quarter Shows Profits of $1,881,946.

The Lackawanna Steel Company reports a sharp gain in earnings during the second quarter of the year, as compared with the first three months of 1920. After charges and war taxes the profits available for dividends in the June quarter amounted to $1,881,946, or the equivalent of $5.36 a share. The result of the previous quarter's operations showed a deficit of $449,720. In the June quarter of 1919 the deficit was $233,086.

At a meeting of the Board of Directors yesterday George F. Downs was elected President of the company, succeeding to the vacancy created by the death of C. H. McCullough, Jr., last April. T. H. Mathias, H. H. Barbour and A. J. Singer were elected Vice Presidents. Mr. Downs has been connected with the company for fifteen years. For ten years he was associated with the United States Steel Corporation. He went to the Lackawanna Steel Company in 1905 as Assistant Superintendent of the plant.

BIG BANKING MERGER AT INFORMAL STAGE

FINANCIERS HAIL MOVE

Prosser Named as Probable Chairman of Board, Gibson as President.

The proposed merger of the Bankers Trust Company and the Liberty National Bank may not be consummated for some time, according to interests identified with both institutions. Seward Prosser, President of the former, left town Tuesday evening for his country home and it is not known definitely when he will return. Several leading stockholders of both companies, men who would be consulted before any final move, also were out of town and may not return for several weeks. Meanwhile, informal negotiations may be carried on, however, with the idea of preparing the way for definitive action.

Harvey D. Gibson, President of the Liberty National Bank, yesterday issued the following statement relative to the report of a merger:

"The matter of the merger of the Bankers Trust Company and the Liberty National Bank has been the subject of informal discussion for some time. No decision or definite understanding has resulted and we cannot say when anything will occur which could be published properly. The matter has not even reached a point where it could be referred to the Board of Directors."

It was learned yesterday that no definite plans for the combination of the two banks had been worked out. No basis for the merger has been computed, but one banker pointed out this could be done within a reasonably short time.

Wall Street was much interested in the report of the consolidation and it was generally believed that the merger would give to New York one of the most powerful and aggressive banking institutions in the world. In banking circles, following publication of the informal negotiations, speculation was rife as to how the personnel of the two institutions would be merged, and the belief was general that Mr. Prosser would become Chairman of the board, with Mr. Gibson, President. This combination, quite aside from the combining of the resources of the two companies, was considered as offering possibilities of great strength and influence.

The stock of the two banking institutions, which had been very strong in recent days, sold off slightly yesterday, but this was regarded as a natural consequence of the "news being out." Bankers Trust Company recently sold up to $400 a share and Liberty Bank stock to about $435. Yesterday's quotations were slightly below these figures.

The financial community expects to hear of other consolidations in the near future. The trend, it is said, is toward larger banks, and it would not be surprising to see several of the big Wall Street institutions acquire control of some of the smaller banks, thereby increasing their own size and their ability to serve their clients. In this respect it is believed that the history of British banking of the last few years will be repeated here. Four or five of the leading London banks started programs of expansion, through the acquisition of smaller British banks, in 1916 and 1917, and the movement became so extensive that the House of Commons passed legislation giving the Government special powers of supervision and veto over further amalgamations.

Trading in National City Bank "rights" began yesterday, when sales were made from $100 down to $85. The latter figure would be equivalent to a stock price of about $355 a share, whereas National City Bank stock was quoted in the neighborhood of $390. The apparent discrepancy, it was explained, probably was occasioned by the offerings of rights to subscribe by individuals or estates not in position to take advantage of the new stock offered to present shareholders. The apparent arbitrage between rights and stock, dealers in bank securities said, existed only in theory, for in actual practice it virtually would be impossible to take advantage of it.

TO REOPEN WHEAT FUTURES

Chicago Market Will Resume Trading This Morning.

CHICAGO, July 14.—Plans for the resumption of trading in wheat futures, beginning tomorrow morning, were announced today by the Directors of the Board of Trade. The probable opening price for December wheat varies from $2.50 to $2.75 in the opinion of traders. Deliveries will be quoted for December and March.

Members were notified that, as the Lever act continues in force until the termination of a state of war with Germany, the wartime supervision of contracts for future delivery in store by grade alone will be continued and applied to such trading in wheat. The Directors authorized the executive officers to exercise such supervision under strict seal of secrecy, with full power to order curtailments or adjustments whenever the public welfare or the best interests of the Board of Trade seem so to require.

Recognizing that the attempt to reestablish the open market is being made under abnormal conditions, the attention of members is called to the fact that responsibility for the market's conduct rests with them. The Directors urge that every adequate protection be behind every contract, since transportation facilities are far from ample, crop conditions and world conditions are uncertain, and fluctuations are expected to be wide compared with normal conditions.

LOVETT SUGGESTS RAILROAD CHANGES

STATES NOW SHARE POWER

Commends New Law, but Recommends Department of Transportation in Cabinet.

There are two serious defects or omissions in the new railroad law according to Judge Robert S. Lovett, Chairman of the Board of the Union Pacific Railroad, but at the same time he says that the new law is the first constructive legislation enacted by Congress with reference to the transportation systems. The rate problem, he says, can never be solved as long as the rate making power is divided between the Interstate Commerce Commission and the forty-eight State commissions. It is his belief that eventually a unified rate making power will be embodied in the Interstate Commerce Commission either by Congressional enactment or Government ownership.

In the second place he asserts that some executive agency such as a department of transportation, headed by a Cabinet member, is necessary to help free the Interstate Commerce Commission of the vast executive and administrative duties devolving upon it under the new law.

Writing in the current issue of The Spur, Judge Lovett says in part:

"After September first it will again be within the power of the various State Commissions to reduce passenger rates to two cents, as some of them are already preparing to do, and to reduce freight rates ad libitum. Such reductions, generally and almost invariably, will cause corresponding reductions in interstate rates.

"Notwithstanding its defects and omissions, the new law marks great progress in railroad legislation. But it is not a cure-all; and there is a tendency to expect too much of it. The railroads that were conspicuously successful before will continue successful, and those that were unsound before will fail. There is about as much difference in railroads as there is in men, and an unsound railroad can no more be made sound by law than an ill man can be made well by law. Those roads that were unwisely located where the traffic is and must continue to be insufficient, or have been otherwise improvidently built and are overcapitalized, will not be saved by this law. They must face reorganization and a scaling down of their securities to something like the reasonable value of the property, based upon its earning capacity, which I still insist is the controlling measure of value. The holders of stock and bonds of this type, who have been looking to this law to give to their securities a value they never had before, and which they do not intrinsically possess, will be disappointed."

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Market Irregular.

Irregularity in price movements prevailed during yesterday's stock market. There was no real trend established in any of the leading issues. Some, here and there, managed to close the day with fractional gains, but the buoyancy of several days ago was entirely lacking. As compared with recent high levels most issues have suffered sharp declines since the first of the week and some observers yesterday were of the opinion that the recession had produced a more healthy condition in the market and that another advance might be expected. This belief was not general, however, there being a disposition to display caution in taking a position on the long side. The money market for the time being has quieted down, the flurries in call rates being absent yesterday. Taking present standards as a basis of judgment it might be said that call money at 8 per cent. was quite a reasonable quotation. Such a money rate, however, had not been of influence in bringing buying into the stock market. This is doubtless for the reason that there is a question in most minds as to the length of time during which normal call rates will prevail. A sharp expansion in the brokerage loan account such as would accompany a stock market advance of real proportions might bring a quick reflection in advances in call rates. The business outlook is also receiving some serious consideration. While manufacturers are optimistic there is no gainsaying that a period of readjustment is on and decreasing business would in the long run have a depressing effect on stock market prices. It is for this reason that the industrial shares are a bit out of favor except with those who are playing for a quick turn.

Steel Company Earnings.

The report of the Lackawanna Steel Company for the second quarter of this year shows an improvement in earnings over the first quarter figures that is somewhat amazing. The March quarter showed a deficit of $449,720, whereas in the June quarter there was a surplus of $1,881,946. This is the first report for the second quarter which has thus far been made by any of the steel companies and appears to bear out the predictions which were made during the latter part of the quarter that the earnings of the industry for the three months ended June 30 would exceed those of the first quarter. If the Lackawanna earnings are an indication of the increase that may be expected with relation to other steel concerns there is good cause for the statement made by a prominent steel man recently that there was "no cause for worry." Furthermore, it would appear that the car shortage was not by any means as disturbing a factor as had been anticipated. The earnings of the United States Steel Corporation for the second quarter will be made public the latter part of this month and an excellent showing is anticipated in view of the Lackawanna statement.

The Efficiency of Labor.

It has been supposed that following the let-down in high production after the war urgency for materials there was a sharp falling off in the efficiency of labor. A number of concerns have reported that a noticeable decrease in individual efficiency was in part attributable to the labor unrest pervading certain industries. During the latter part of last year the steel industry was involved in a strike of huge proportions and it was to have been expected that decreased efficiency would be discovered in this line of production. Just the contrary, however, is found to be true by the United States Steel Corporation. An official yesterday said that not in years had the individual efficiency of labor been higher than at present.

Foreign Bonds Strong.

The recent strength in foreign bonds continues to be a feature of the bond market. Yesterday the Belgian 7½ per cents. got above par on a rather large turnover and the big trading in the new Swiss 8 per cents. lifted this offering into new high figures also. Only in the Japanese group was there anything approximating heaviness, and this was not regarded seriously. The strength in the general run of foreign bonds is emphasizing the possibility of some refunding operation connected with the maturity of the Anglo-French loan. The idea that there will be no new financing connected with this transaction is disappearing and in banking circles now there would be no surprise to hear of a new French flotation—at attractive figures, of course.

Successful Underwritings.

Most of the recent underwritings have been markedly successful, only one outstanding exception being recorded in the last few weeks, and in this, it is rumored about that those who sold short in anticipation of a "crack" as soon as the securities got out are in grave danger of being caught in their own trap. It is also rumored that shorts in some of the other recent flotations have had to pay rather dearly to get out. And in some places, inhabited by habitual shorts, there is a dark suspicion that the promoters of underwritings have resorted to heroic methods in order to make the lot of the short an unhappy one.

A "Wheat Futures" Market.

For the first time in nearly three years there will be today an open market for dealings in wheat futures. These dealings were suspended on Aug. 25, 1917, when the September option of that year was selling around $2.10 to $2.13 a bushel. Today's opening figure, it is expected, will be somewhere in the neighborhood of $2.50, but as to that probably nobody can say definitely. But whatever the price and the conditions, it is anticipated that business will be heavy and a good many houses are laying plans to serve their clients and, incidentally, to reap whatever profits there may be in the doing.

Exchanges Heavy.

Following the lead of sterling, which broke more than 4½ cents in the pound, all of the Continental allied exchanges were heavy yesterday. The break was the first movement of any consequence to be noted in some days and was accounted for on the ground that dealers and others interested in the exchanges were not altogether with the reported progress, or lack of progress, being made at the conferences abroad. The fact that there were some substantial amounts of bills offered in the market also had something to do with the decline, but this, it is probable, was effect rather than cause.

Cotton Consumption.

Although cotton exports for June, officially reported yesterday, were the lowest, with one exception, for any month of the present cotton year, which ends with the end of this month, domestic consumption was somewhat better than in May and not far short of April and March. But whether consumption falls off again this month or quickens, the results of the year should be entirely satisfactory, for domestic consumption already exceeds that of last year and should for the full twelve months exceed the returns of 1918, while exports will be well up with the big figures of the years before the United States went into the world struggle. The eleven months' exports for this year are nearly 800,000 bales ahead of the total for last year, about 2,100,000 bales ahead of 1918 and 640,000 bales ahead of 1917.

"Other Expenses."

Not all the money spent by big corporations is put out for dividends, wages, materials, and so forth. Sometimes the big corporations spend very large sums for other things. In this respect an official of the United States Steel Corporation stated yesterday that since 1912 that concern had spent between $75,000,000 and $80,000,000 in welfare work. This probably is a top figure, but the sums expended in this manner by some of the other great business associations undoubtedly run not far be-

FOREIGN BUSINESS MAY QUIT SPAIN

Bankers and Merchants Cannot Operate at Profit if New Law Is Enforced.

HEAVY TAX ON CAPITAL

Retroactive Feature Especially Objectionable—Laid to Spanish Jealousy.

If the taxation law signed by the King of Spain in April is enforced there will be a general exodus of foreign banks and business houses from Spain in the very near future, according to H. T. van Deusen, a member of the American Chamber of Commerce in Spain, who has just returned from that country.

The chief onus of the new law, says Mr. van Deusen, is that it imposes a tax of one-tenth of 1 per cent. of the capital of the foreign company doing business in Spain, and this tax, he adds, may be collected from the Spanish agent of the company, even to the extent of assessing the tax against an agency organized under the laws of Spain.

"One of the most unreasonable features is the fact that the law is retroactive," Mr. van Deusen says. "It certainly is disconcerting for a great banking concern to make a study of the conditions in Spain and decide to establish branches there, to pay a tenant some 500,000 pesetas to vacate a building, lease it for ten or twenty years, spend thousands in repairs and alternations and then contemplate the passing of a law which, if enforced, means that it will be obliged to pay each year more in taxes than it can hope to enter on the credit side of the profit and loss account."

The law may not be enforced. There are many who believe it will not be, Mr. van Deusen says, but it will stand as a constant menace, nevertheless. Thus far there has been no attempt made to collect the impost, and it may be some little time before final decision is made by the Spanish authorities. The matter has been taken up by most of the foreign Embassies.

Expressing the opinion that Spanish bankers and industrial leaders have fostered the enactment of the law because of jealousy over the success of foreign interests, Mr. van Deusen says:

"The feeling would not have been so tense had the Spanish statesmen fabricated a law which provided that foreign houses established in future must pay the tax.

"I suppose that if our Spanish friends don't think better of it and change their law they will calmly say to the foreign houses: 'If you don't like the way we conduct our affairs, get out.'"

DISCUSS EXPRESS PLANS.

Railway Executives Take Up Contracts to be Made.

The Standing Committee of the Association of Railway Executives yesterday conferred on the subject of the contracts to be entered into between the various railroads and the American Railway Express Company and the Pullman Company. So far as could be ascertained, no decision in either case was reached and the Standing Committee will again go into the matter with the representatives of the member roads at a conference to be held tomorrow.

The question of how to arrange express contracts, now that the express business has been lumped into the hands of one company handling virtually 95 per cent. of all the business, has been puzzling the railway men for some time. The express company will pass from the period of Federal guarantee, provided for under the Railway act, on Sept. 1, and the new contacts will have to be drawn up by that time. The Pullman contract matter also will be taken up tomorrow.

FORD TO PAY LOAN FRIDAY.

Last of $60,000,000 Credit, Arranged a Year Ago, to be Taken Up.

The remaining portion of the $60,000,000 commercial paper credit arranged a year ago for Henry Ford and the Ford Motor Company, amounting to $35,000,000, will be paid off on Friday. This will complete the operation.

The credit, arranged through Bond & Goodwin, the Chase Securities Corporatios and the Old Colony Trust Company of Boston, was originally for $75,000,000. It was to be in the form of ninety-day bills, with three renewals, and at the time of arrangement it was provided that the original rate and the renewal rates should be based on the going rate for commercial borrowings.

While the credit was for a maximum of $75,000,000, the Ford interests never availed themselves of more than $60,000,000, and this amount has steadily been reduced since then until now it amounts to only $35,000,000.

Short-Term vs Long-Term Investments

MANY investors are undecided as to whether they should buy short-term or long term securities. There are strong arguments on both sides of this question. Why not solve this problem by purchasing short-term securities yielding present high income returns and possessing at the same time the privilege of conversion into long-term securities? The conversion privilege should result in your receiving a high income return over a long period of years.

Late Rally Sends It Up to 41.35, Breaking Tuesday's Record by 95 Points.

SPOTS RISE TO 42 CENTS

Government Weekly Report Shows Favorable Weather and Minimizes Boll Weevil Peril.

A late rally in the July option took that contract up to 41.35, a new high record for the month and a gain of 95 points over the previous one of Tuesday. Spot cotton on this advance moved up to 42 cents for middling, which is the highest spots have sold at since the latter part of May, when they were quoted at 43 cents. On this late rise the whole list moved up to the best prices for the day, but the response, as on other recent days, became less emphatic as the options dated off. The high prices, made in the late afternoon, were 73 points up for October, to only 23 points for May.

Good trade buying and some private reports of less favorable conditions, together with trade reports which were more optimistic than any previously received in some time, accounted for the strength. The market had started well, but after the Government weekly report came out, confirming reports of extremely favorable weather and minimizing the accounts of boll weevil growth, the list sagged off. On the dip losses of as much as 35 to 45 points were scored in the far distant months, while every month from December showed net losses of some size.

The ring tried to bull the late months on the rise in July. It was pointed out that July was selling at a premium over October of $36.40 a bale, and at one time of $37.50 a bale over next May, and many of the traders professed to believe that there would have to be a readjustment upward of the distant months.

Liverpool did rather well. Futures were up 10 to 25 points at the close and spots were up 40 points, to 25.83d. The Manchester yarn and cloth market, according to private advices, was experiencing a better demand than in some days, and prices were said to be firming.

Exports on the day were only 782 bales, making the total for the week thus far 9,499 bales. The Census Bureau report for June showed 555,521 bales of line and 33,960 bales of linters consumed by domestic mills during the month. This was somewhat better than expected. The exports, however, were very low, amounting only to 241,450 bales, compared with 363,104 in April and with the very large totals of earlier months.

Yesterday's quotations follow:

NEW ISSUES ANNOUNCED.

Utica Gas and Electric Company Offer $1,700,000 Bonds.

Several relatively small pieces of financing, aggregating approximately $6,500,000, were announced yesterday. Considering the condition of the investment market and the pronounced success of the large and important offerings of last week, it is believed that several additional flotations will be announced before the end of the current week.

One of the important offerings announced yesterday was that of $1,700,000 Utica Gas and Electric Company 7½ per cent. five-years renewal mortgage convertible gold bonds, due March 1, 1925, at 98 and interest, by Harris, Forbes & Co. The offering price is such as to yield the buyer about 8 per cent.

White, Weld & Co., Hornblower & Weeks, and Low, Dixon & Co. are offering a new issue of 82,500 shares of common stock of the American Chicle Company at $40 a share. The proceeds are to be used to provide additional working capital required by the increase of the company's business.

Miller & Co. and Brandon, Gordon & Waddell are offering at 93 and interest $800,000 unsold portion of the $2,800,000 Province of British Columbia 6 per cent. bonds, to yield approximately 7¾ per cent.

Chandler & Co. are organizing a syndicate to underwrite 37,000 shares of no par value capital stock of the Manhattan Electrical Supply Company, issued under a plan of recapitalization. Of the 37,000 shares, about 24,100 will be offered in exchange to the holders of the company's present outstanding first preferred stocks, and 12,900 shares will be sold for cash to provide the company with additional working capital. The offering price, it is expected, will be about $57 a share.

UNITED STATES MORTGAGE AND TRUST COMPANY NEW YORK

We summarise as follows from a letter dated June 15 1920, from Mr. Darwin R. James, Jr., President of the Company:

Business: The American Chicle Company, organized in 1899, is today one of the principal manufacturers of chewing gum in the world. It owns and operates five plants in the United States, and through its subsidiaries, plants in Toronto, Canada, and London, England. Included in its products which are sold throughout the world, are the well-known Adams and Beeman's brands. Gross sales are now the largest in its history.

Management: Since the present management took control in March, 1916, the gross business of the Company has been increased over 350%, and the earnings available for common stock over 250%, compared with 1915.

Purpose of Issue: Proceeds from the sale of the new Common Stock (82,500 shares) will be used to provide additional working capital required for the rapid expansion of the Company's business.

Earnings: Net earnings available for Common Stock, after all taxes, interest charges and preferred dividends have been as follows:

		Per Share on 162,500 shares
Year ended December 31, 1919	$1,419,745	$8.73
Average for last 10 years	1,082,393	6.66

Relief from special taxes and the extraordinary cost of sugar will, it is expected, result in larger earnings than any made by the Company in the past.

Dividends: With the exception of two years, the Company has paid dividends since 1902, averaging $6.20 per share annually on the present outstanding common stock. The recent rate has been $4.00 per share per annum, and the Company states that it intends to continue dividends on the increased capitalization at this rate.

The legal details in reference to this issue of stock have been approved by Messrs. McAdoo, Cotton & Franklin

Application will be made to list this Common Stock on the New York Stock Exchange.

We call attention to a letter from J. F. Lucey, Esq., President of the Corporation, which he has briefly summarized as follows:

BUSINESS: The business of this Company was started in 1908 in California by J. F. Lucey, and is today one of the two largest manufacturers and distributors of oil well drilling equipment. The oil well supply industry does not partake of the speculative risks connected with oil production.

PROPERTY: Through its constituent companies it operates manufacturing plants in Chattanooga, Tenn., and Houston, Texas. It has branches and warehouses in the principal oil fields in this country and abroad.

ASSETS: Net tangible assets over 300% and net current assets over 210% of present issue of notes. The latter must be maintained at 150% of funded indebtedness. Net tangible assets applicable to Class "A" Stock, after new financing, amount to approximately $82 per share, of which approximately $46 per share is in current assets.

EARNINGS: Net profits applicable to interest charges, after allowing 6% return on the new capital, for the year ended December 31, 1919, were over six times interest on the notes; for the three-year period 1917-1918-1919 averaged over five times, and for the first 4 months of 1920 were over nine times the interest requirements on the notes presently to be issued. Earnings for the year ended December 31, 1919, after allowing 6% return on the new capital and after all prior charges, sinking fund and taxes were equivalent to $9.52 per share; for the three years ended December 31, 1919, to an average of $6.99 a share per annum; and for four months ended April 30, 1920, were at the rate of $14 a share per annum on Class "A" Stock presently to be issued.

MANAGEMENT: The management has taken Class "B" Stock only for its entire interest in the business, with the exception of $50,000 for retirement of the old Preferred Stock, and will continue the policies which have been successful for the past twelve years.

SINKING FUND: Annual sinking fund on notes of 5% for 5 years, and 7½% thereafter, will retire majority of notes by maturity.

DIVIDENDS: It is the expectation of the management that dividends at the rate of $5 a share per annum will be inaugurated on the Class "A" Stock in the immediate future.

When, as and if issued and received by us, trust company receipts, exchangeable for temporary or definitive notes and stock, will be delivered.

CUBANS REFUSE RICE.

WASHINGTON, July 14.—Failure of Cuban importers to carry out contracts for the purchase of rice from American shippers has resulted in the accumulation of more than 100,000 tons of that commodity, valued at $30,000,000, on ships or in warehouses at Havana, Robert H. Patchin, representing the California Rice Association, told the recent conference of Government officials and representatives of shipping interests called to consider relief of shipping congestion in Havana.

The report of the conference, made public today by the Department of Commerce, quotes Mr. Patchin as saying that the failure to carry out purchase agreements apparently was due to a decline of 40 per cent. in the price of rice in the last six weeks.

Chauncey D. Snow, representing the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, urged that the Cuban Government be asked to prevent such "wholesale repudiation of contracts."

The conference also was informed, the report asserts, that the Cuban Government had announced "excessive" demurrage charges on the stored shipments of unpurchased rice, to take effect after a certain period.

A special committee was decided on by the conference to take up the questions discussed with the Cuban authorities.

TUBE FARES STILL HELD UP.

Commerce Commission Continues Suspension of Increased Local Rates

WASHINGTON, July 14.—Further suspension from Aug. 2 to Sept. 1 of the operation of Hudson and Manhattan Railroad Company tariffs providing for an increase in local fares between points on its lines in New York City, Jersey City and Hoboken, N. J., was ordered today by the Interstate Commerce Commission. The commission previously suspended the proposed tariffs from April 4 to Aug. 2.

The suspension ordered by the commission does not affect certain increases permitted in April, although under investigation by the commission. Increases proposed by the company of an uptown rate of 10 cents were specifically suspended.

The NEW DAY in the INVESTMENT MARKET

THE cross-roads are ahead in the Investment Highway.

The end of the broad road of after-the-war Speculation appears in sight. To the left are the homes of those who will continue to speculate, and of those who will continue to deal with fake stock promoters despite Federal indictments.

Straight ahead are the stately residences of the wealthy investors of pre-war days—our former 400,000 known bond buyers. They are now largely confining their purchases to tax exempt securities because of the Federal Income sur-taxes.

On the road to the right, leading over the hill, are the substantial homes of those who are not so much affected by the sur-taxes. From them will come much of the new Capital necessary to finance America's business and Europe's needs. They are our New Investors—possibly even of more importance to-day in the aggregate than the old 400,000.

The far-sighted Investment Banker is sending his messages and his salesmen up this road to the right. They are interesting, and educating, and selling investment securities to this large new clientele.

It is the investor's day in the Investment Market.

His dollars will buy nearly twice as much in investment securities to-day as the old bond buyer got 20 years ago. This is the condition that is creating new security buyers who will be the rich investors of the future.

It is the day of New Opportunity for the Investment Banker.

It is not the day to stand waiting at the cross-roads. Those who do not turn to the right, and get the broader vision from the top of the hill, will always remain in the valley of Old Conditions. Their salesmen will grumble at "The Market" and gradually slip off into other businesses.

It is the day to back up salesmen with modern advertising—to sell the larger investment buying public the idea of buying Sound Securities—to put into the selling some of the vigor and force of twentieth century salesmanship.

The reliable Investment Banker has a great advantage over the faker, for the leading magazines and newspapers, which regularly reach the most likely buyers, exclude the faker. They drive him into publications where he is marked by the company he is obliged to keep. The best magazines and newspapers prepare the way—they fertilize the field—for the responsible banker among their readers. It is time to plant the seeds of publicity in that field.

The Quality Group (Atlantic Monthly, Century, Harper's, Review of Reviews, Scribner's and World's Work) constitutes a force of real service alike to the investment buying public and to the investment banker. Through affirmative, constructive, editorial support, and vigorous denunciation of fakers, they build up confidence in Sound Investment Securities. They cover the road straight ahead and the road to the right. Each month three-quarters of a million families invite them in as guests and old friends. Investment banking houses which can meet Quality Group conditions may have the privilege of sending into those homes the sort of advertising messages which will prepare the way for salesmanship and which will, in many cases, invite personal interviews.

LAMONT SEES CHINA AS LAND OF PROMISE

INVESTMENT FIELD OPENS

Better Understanding of Far East Problems Apparent, Luncheon Guests Are Told.

The formation of a consortium for China, providing for the grouping of the leading banking interests of England, France, Japan and the United States to aid China in the development of her great public enterprises, has resulted in a more complete understanding of the Far Eastern situation among the four Governments, Thomas W. Lamont of J. P. Morgan & Co. said yesterday. Mr. Lamont, who has just returned from Japan and China in connection with the organization of the consortium, was the principal speaker at a luncheon of the Council of Foreign Relations at the Bankers' Club.

"The Far Eastern question is, I believe, at least one stage nearer solution by reason of the assured formation of the consortium for China, with Japan entering it upon precisely the same terms as England, America and France," said Mr. Lamont. "It is not simply the formation of this international group upon the formula proposed by the American Government that is significant, important as that is, but rather the fact that in the process of organization there must have been developed a more complete understanding as to the Far Eastern situation among the Governments themselves, as well as among the strong banking groups which, with the approval of the Governments, have formed this consortium.

"I am informed that in the two years it has taken to form the consortium there has been the freest interchange of views among the Governments of the United States, Great Britain, France and Japan. It is also well known that in the viewpoint as to China the ideas of our Government, of the British and French have from the start been a unit and that for some time Japan's views did not coincide with those of the other three Governments. Now, happily, Japan has come to see eye to eye with the other three Governments on the question of the Chinese consortium, and I believe that today they are a unit in respect to it. That fact, brought about only after a complete interchange of views, is the significant one in this situation.

Tells of Negotiations.

"Far too much credit has been accorded to me for the part that in Japan and China I was able to play in the final negotiations. The way had been prepared for me. First, I had been sent to the Far East, not only at the request of the American banking group, made up of forty of the leading banking institutions and firms in the United States, but also with the cordial approval of the British and French banking groups. I was also made conversant with the views of the three Western Governments, and also rendered confident in the knowledge that their ideas, as I have already said, were a unit in this matter.

"I was received with the utmost cordiality by the members of the Japanese banking group, for long ago they learned to speak the language of international co-operation in banking matters. Then, too, our Ambassador at Tokio, Roland S. Morris, who occupies there a unique position of influence and strength, had arranged so that I was enabled to meet on terms of intimate converse the leading members of the Japanese Government and of all the important elements in Japanese affairs. With such backing it was almost inevitable that we should find ourselves able, even though the questions for settlement were complex and difficult, to arrive at a common basis of understanding.

"Japan undoubtedly showed broad-mindedness and wisdom in waiving her reservations in regard to Manchuria and Mongolia. She was courageous in recognizing that those reservations were of no value to her, and if maintained would only serve as an inevitable bar to her entering as a free and full partner in the consortium.

Quotes a Leading Japanese.

"As one of her leading men said to me: 'I want Japan to enter the consortium on the same terms as the other banking groups, first, because the operations of the consortium will best develop China, and from such development Japan will benefit most; second, because through the consortium the four nations will be brought into closer touch, and third, but not least, because Japan has not the resources wherewith to develop China alone.'"

Mr. Lamont said that the object of the consortium was to aid China in such matters as the reform of the currency, development of railway transportation and similar matters. His object in visiting China, he said, was to report back to the Governments interested in the consortium upon economic, financial and political conditions, so that they could better determine whether China offered today a safe and attractive field for Western investors.

"I was much impressed with the great extent and underlying strength of China's resources," said Mr. Lamont, "with the integrity and industry of her people and with their potential future. They have great problems to overcome, but if we are able to extend the right sort of counsel and aid to them they will, I believe, solve their difficulties.

Sees Arduous Task Ahead.

"We must remember that the formation of the consortium, now that Japan has decided to come in, is but the first step in a long and arduous pathway. The banking groups themselves will have to display toward one another great patience, great tolerance. Coalitions never function readily. International partnerships always prove difficult, but the fact that we are all engaged in one enterprise and with one principle in view, namely, the welfare of China, ought to weld us together and make our operations successful. In order to reach that happy end, however, we must bespeak the co-operation of all good American citizens."

Dr. Jacob Gould Schurman declared that Japan wanted peace with the United States, but that, unfortunately, the Japanese were apt to regard our policy of exclusion as an assertion of our superiority. He said he wished that all emigration questions might be referred to a joint high commission consisting of Americans and Japanese in equal numbers.

"Japan has no ambition in China which need alienate our friendship," he continued. "Any help we can give to China in the way of making her Government strong, honest, just and efficient, will not only benefit China, but react most favorably upon Japan."

MUFFLES AIRPLANE ENGINES

Swiss Inventor's Device Said to be of Great Military Value.

GENEVA, July 3.—A silencer for airplane engines, more highly developed than an automobile muffler, is announced by a Swiss airplane firm as the invention of its chief engineer. The first public demonstration of the device is to be made on the Geneva-Paris air service.

It is asserted the noise of the motor is completely silenced, and that the invention is of great importance from a military point of view.

IRON AND STEEL REVIEW.

The transportation problem continues as the dominating factor in the iron and steel industry, according to The Iron Trade Review, which says that producers are hard pressed to keep their plants operating on a steady manufacturing basis. This publication, in discussing conditions, says:

The day-to-day car supply still regulates iron and steel operators as this represents a widely fluctuating factor. In many respects the situation grows worse each week because of the accumulative effects of the continuing partial stagnation. Extension for thirty days from July 31 of the open-top car order by the Interstate Commerce Commission promises to prolong the transportation troubles. Because of the demoralized condition of traffic during the past few weeks rolling schedules virtually have been discarded. Present operations are governed by the way the material admits of piling or consumers consent to its being put on the yard for indefinite delivery.

The Iron Age says:

In the Pittsburgh district more steel making and finishing capacity has been idle or has run intermittently this week than in the preceding week. Two large steel pipe works which closed down July 3 have not yet resumed. Soaring fuel prices are playing havoc with cost sheets. In the case of a large steel interest the advance in June was between $1.50 and $2 per ton. Common iron bars in the Pittsburgh district are up $5. Plates and shapes still show an easy condition, but sheet prices of independent mills are very firm. Steel bars are notably in demand; further sales being reported at 3½c at mill.

The L. H. Gilmer Company has also declared a 100 per cent. stock dividend, payable to stock of record July 15. The company is a large manufacturer of belting.

$356,843 OBTAINED FOR EAST BRONX LOTS

SHOWS DEMAND STILL GOOD

Harvard University Benefits by a Successful Auction Despite Fears of Seasonal Dullness.

Just as the clock in St. Paul's tower struck 6 o'clock last evening, and with several hundred persons still in the real estate salesroom, Joseph P. Day finished the great sale of 1,492 Bronx lots, auctioned for the account of the Eastchester Company. They brought a total of $356,843 or about $240 a lot. Harvard University is the gainer, as the will of the late Lawrence E. Sexton gave his one-seventh interest in the company to that institution. The total obtained for the tract clearly showed that there is still a strong demand for vacant property in New York City.

That so many lots could have been disposed of in two days, at such prices is considered remarkable in view of the fact that they are twice the distance from the White Plains subway as the Burke Relief Foundation lots recently sold. Within three weeks 3,000 lots have passed from the tw ownerships into the hands of about 1,999 investors, and what was up to yesterday "dead" property, has now become "alive" and ripe for immediate improvement.

Gun Hill Road and Eastchester Road lots were most in demand, though corners and inside lots on thoroughfares immediately adjacent were eagerly bought. Mr. Day announced from the stand that many of the lots were unimproved, in fact that streets were not cut through in probably 75 per cent. of the tract, and that other physical improvements were lacking. Through a number of the lots ran streams of water, and this was brought to the attention of the buyers by Mr. Day, who pointed out this condition on the map.

The southeast corner of Gun Hill Road and Wilson Avenue was the first lot offered yesterday afternoon. It was bought by Charles E. Miller for $600. Abraham Schwartz, the tenant, acquired the dwelling at the corner of Eastchester Road and Hamersley Avenue, together with six lots, for $6,825.

The southwest corner of Gun Hill Road and Young Avenue went for $600 and inside lots on the south side of Gun Hill Road, near Young Avenue, brought $375 each. The southeast corner of Gun Hill Road and Young Avenue was disposed of for $550 and the southwest corner of Gun Hill Road and Fish Avenue brought $550.

Eastchester Road lots, between Deyo and Burke Avenues, sold for $475 each, and the northeast corner of Gun Hill Road and Fish Avenue brought $1,000. From $275 to $350 was obtained for lots on the west side of Fifth Avenue, between Sexton Place and Gun Hill Road; also in Adee Avenue, from Sexton Place to Young Avenue. The trapezoid plot of Young Avenue, Sexton Place and Adee Avenue brought $250.

Mr. Day said of the sale: "It was remarkable in many ways, but strikingly so in view of the fact that it was held on the hottest days of the dull Summer market. Furthermore, over 75 per cent. of the property is in its virgin condition, without one penny spent for cutting through streets or other physical improvements. A large number of the lots are covered with water from streams running through the property, and the tract is about twice the distance from the 5-cent subway as the Burke Foundation property recently auctioned, so this can be classed as a remarkably successful sale."

Mr. Day said further that in his best judgment it would be a profitable investment for the 500 buyers irrespective of the physical condition of the property, as the Burke and Eastchester sales would open up about 3,000 lots that have been closely held in two large ownerships.

Emery L. Ferris, secretary of the company and a member of the firm of Anderson & Anderson, attorneys, said he was pleased with the results of the sales, as he and his associates had feared that there would not be sufficient buying power to absorb so large a number of lots.

Langdon G. Marvin of Emmett, Marvin & Roosevelt, attorneys for Harvard University, and on behalf of Harvard that he was most gratified with the results of the sale, as they would give Harvard a considerable amount of money, in accordance with Mr. Sexton's will.

THREATEN WIRELESS STRIKE

A strike of wireless operators is threatened because of the refusal of the American Steamship Owners' Association to grant an increase in wages, an eight-hour day and overtime pay at the rate of 80 cents an hour. The decision of the steamship owners was made known to the officers of the National United Radio Telegraphers' Association, 44 Broad Street, on Tuesday afternoon.

It was said at the headquarters of the wireless operators that it would be several days before a reply would be sent to the shipowners. The organization is said to have 4,000 members, including all the wireless operators in the United States.

The present agreement between the operators and the shipowners expires on Aug. 1. Should a strike be called it would not take place until that date. The operators ask for an increase in pay from $125 to $200 a month for chief operators, and from $100 to $150 a month for second operators, with an eight-hour day and 80 cents an hour for overtime.

The shipowners say the operators are adequately paid now and that the demands of the operators, if granted, would mean that chief operators would earn $306 a month and second operators $256 a month.

Officers of the association who attended the meeting with the steamship owners are incensed over their treatment there. The ship owners and representatives of the Shipping Board, they said, refused flatly to consider the data submitted on the increased cost of maintaining homes and families and even went so far as to advise radio men not to marry.

POLACHEK LEAVES THE SUN.

Publisher of The Sun and New York Herald Enters Newsprint Project.

Victor H. Polachek announced yesterday that he had resigned as publisher of The Sun and New York Herald. His resignation, he said, becomes effective on Aug. 1. Mr. Polachek explained that he had become associated with a project for the manufacture of pulp sulphite and newsprint paper. He said his plans had not fully matured, and for that reason he was not ready to announce the details of the project, but he expected it to considerably relieve the shortage in newsprint supply.

Gray Goods Demand Light.

The heat seemed to have a bad effect on the demand for gray goods in this market yesterday, for there was a pronounced shrinkage of business as compared with the day before. The fine-yarn cloths and specialties were bare of interesting sales. In the sheetings, excepting for some July-August 5.50s at 14½ cents, there was not much doing. Interest in printcloths was divided between 38½-inch 64-60s and 60-48s. Second hands sold Eastern makes of the latter, for spot and nearby delivery, at 16⅛ cents. Spot business was done in the 64-60s at 19½ cents for Eastern cloths and 19 cents for Southern.

FEDERAL RESERVE BUYS.

Bank Increases Its Building Site on Gold Street.

The Federal Reserve Bank has increased its holdings in the financial district by the purchase of 10 Gold Street, a five-story building, on a lot 21.7 by 105.9.

It was sold by the Alf Realty Company, which bought the property several weeks ago. This is the second purchase the Federal Reserve Bank has made on Gold Street. About three weeks ago it purchased 4, 6 and 8 Gold Street and now controls a frontage on Gold Street of 84.7 feet.

It is understood a building will be erected on this plot to supplement its great banking house to occupy the block bounded by Nassau, William, Maiden Lane and Liberty Streets. William M. Whiting & Co. negotiated both the sale and resale of the Gold Street property.

DYE FIRM TO BUILD.

Completes Purchase of Large Plot on North Moore Street.

The Dicks David Company of 299 Broadway, dealers in dyestuffs, has increased its holdings on North Moore Street by the purchase of two properties, 17, a four-story building, on the northwest corner of Varick Street, and 23, a vacant plot. These parcels adjoin the property at 19 and 21 North Moore Street purchased last March. The company now controls a plot 87 by 75 feet, on which it purposes to erect a modern structure for its own occupancy. William A. White & Co. negotiated all four transactions.

BIG 125TH STREET LEASE.

U. S. Mortgage and Trust Company Enlarges Its Space.

An important deal in West 125th Street, which reflects the growing financial importance of that thoroughfare has been closed by the United States Mortgage and Trust Company in the lease of all the stores fronting on 125th Street in the Bishop Building at the northeast corner of Eighth Avenue. The bank now occupies the easterly space at 271 and 273 West 125th Street. This has been released and in addition the stores taken at 275 to 281, giving the banking firm a frontage of 125 feet on the street to the Eighth Avenue corner. Expensive alterations will soon be made, including the equipment of a large banking office. The lease is for a term of years, aggregating $250,000. Harvey Bloomer was the broker in conjunction with A. W. Mead, representing the Bishop estate.

Realty Notes.

A loan of $650,000 has been made by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company to the 58-64 Fortieth Street Corporation on the sixteen-story business building to be erected on that site, a plot 74 by 98.9 feet.

Harrison S. Colburn Company has negotiated a ten-year extension of the lease of Unit "D," Hoboken Factory Terminal, consisting of 273,000 square feet. The original lease by the same brokers last Summer was for ten years but the growth of the business of the Lipton Company has made a twenty-year lease necessary.

Bronx Borough Deals.

The five single family houses at 862 to 870 Eagle Avenue have been purchased by the Hudwill Corporation, Hudson P. Rose, President.

Alexander Selkin and Carl Juffe sold for Joseph Reznik the three-story two-family dwelling and single-story store building, on a plot 28.6 by 87.6, and known as 737-737¼ Forest Avenue.

The two-story brick dwelling at 324 Jackson Avenue, on a lot 20 by 80 feet, near 141st Street, has been purchased by Frank Read from Caroline W. Downs. The broker was J. Clarence Davies.

Buying in Westchester.

Howe & Thompson have sold for Elizabeth McKenna her bungalow with garage and half acre plot in Vivian Heights, White Plains, to Charles F. Everett.

The two four-story apartment houses on plot 89 by 90 feet at 109 to 115 Main Street, near Getty Square, Yonkers, and a one-story taxpayer building have been sold by Clayasa, Inc., C. J. Carroll, Presidnet. David Vogel and D. F. Valentine were the brokers. The property was held at $175,000.

Wants Lower Assessment.

Charles M. Schwab feels that his city residence property, including the block bounded by Riverside Drive, West End Avenue, Seventy-third and Seventy-fourth Streets, is overassessed to the amount of $200,000. A writ of certiorari has been obtained from the Supreme Court directing the Tax Department to show proof of the validity of the valuation placed by the city, which is $1,875,000.

Buys Premium Point Estate.

LeRoy Sargent has purchased the three-acre waterfront property on Premium Point, New Rochelle, from James King Duffy. A large house is on the property and it was purchased completely furnished. The holding price was $125,000. Prince & Ripley were the brokers.

Harlem Socialist Centre Buys.

The Harlem Socialist Educational Centre, Inc., purchased from Jacob Finkelstein the four-story building, 29.2 by 100.11, at 62 East 106th Street, known as Claremont Hall.

J. P. DONOHOE A CANDIDATE.

John P. Donohoe of Garrison, N. Y., has announced his candidacy for the Republican nomination for State Treasurer. Mr. Donohoe is a Representative in the Assembly from Putnam County, serving his fourth term, and is a real estate dealer in Garrison. He was once Sheriff of Putnam County, for fifteen years was Deputy United States Internal Revenue Collector for Dutchess, Westchester and Putnam Counties, was the President of the Board of Education of the Union Free School of Garrison and Town Assessor.

Mr. Donohoe's candidacy has been indorsed by the Putnam County Republican Committee and by Hamilton Fish, Sr., Samuel Sloan, Alexander Perry Osborn, Alexander P. W. Kinnan, John R. PREDICT POTATO PRICE DROP

Long Island Crop Flourishing and Bumper Yield Expected.

Officials of the Suffolk County Farm Bureau reported yesterday that the potato crop in both Nassau and Suffolk counties was in fine condition, and promised a bumper yield. It was predicted that the crop would be so large that the Long Island farmers would be able to reduce prices and still make more money than before.

This report followed an inspection of all sections of Long Island by officials of the farm bureau with visitors from New Jersey, Maine and Canada. The visitors said that their home section also promised exceptionally large yields.

SALE AT KNICKERBOCKER.

James B. Regan and Son Will Retire from Hotel Business.

Following the private sale of the furnishings of the Hotel Knickerbocker since June 7, the remaining articles were put under the hammer yesterday, and throughout the day there was bidding for chairs, tables, cabinets, pictures, French clocks, bric-a-brac and other articles. The sale took place on the second floor.

LIBRARY BUREAU SOLD TO PUBLISHERS

PROPERTY HELD AT $750,000

One of the largest recent deals in the Pennsylvania Terminal zone, which has been remarkably active since the first of the year, both from an investing and speculative standpoint, was closed yesterday when the Library Bureau Building at 424 to 438 West Thirty-third Street was sold by Robert Guinet of Lyons, France, to the National Railway Publication Company.

The property, which was held at $750,000, consists of a twelve-story modern loft structure, occupying a plot 131 by 100 feet, overlooking the Pennsylvania Railroad cut, between Ninth and Tenth Avenues.

Joseph Guinet, father of the present seller, purchased the property in 1914 from the McKeon Realty Company soon after the completion of the building by Edward J. Larkin, builder of the Printers' Craft Building and other large structures on the west side.

The Library Bureau at present occupies four floors in the building under a long-term lease and the other floors are largely occupied by printers and lithographers. The new owners, whose offices at present are at 30 Vesey Street in the Underwood Building, expect to occupy several floors in the Thirty-third Street building as the leases of same expire.

William H. Whiting & Co. negotiated the transaction, the buyers paying all cash above a first mortgage on the property of $375,000. Walter C. Wyckoff represented the seller.

MANY BUSINESS DEALS.

Engravers Buy in East Forty-third Street—Bond Street Deal.

Business properties figured well in the day's realty market, several sales being closed in various parts of the city. In the Grand Central zone the four-story commercial structure at 137 East Forty-third Street, on a lot 16.8 by 100.5, being 158 feet east of Lexington Avenue, was purchased by Malcolm & Hayes, engravers, from Dr. Denis J. McDonald. It will be altered for occupancy by the new owners. Maurice Wertheim was the broker in the sale.

The four-story building at 94 Fourth Street, on a lot 25 by 115 feet, has been sold by A. Sokolski to a plumbing supply firm.

It is also stated that no date has yet been definitely fixed for the operation of trains through the Sixtieth Street tunnel. It has been agreed that immediately after July 15 a date will be fixed.

The Solution to Your Rent Problem

The many young married couples that visited Harmon last Sunday started a foundation for their own homes. 90% purchased building sites. If you will visit Harmon at our expense and let us show you this wonderful property we feel quite sure that you will be of the same opinion as the many young couples that have purchased property in the past few weeks, and are determined to own their own homes and stop paying enormous rents. For the past thirty years it has been our exclusive business to provide homes on a small payment plan. Thousands upon thousands are now the happy possessors of beautiful homes that would still be paying rent if it were not for our unique building plan and the help that we have given them.

HARMON
ON THE HUDSON
Unsurpassed for Scenic Beauty

Over fifty houses are erected or in course of construction. Are you going to pay the landlord exorbitant rents the rest of your life? Why not make a start now and take advantage of this remarkable opportunity? About $1,000,000 worth of property has been sold.

$360,000 has been spent on improvements, consisting of shade trees, graded streets, cement sidewalks, water, electric lights, telephone, &c. You do not have to wait for these improvements, as they are all in now.

Ideal bathing beach, walks, boating and canoeing, fishing on the picturesque Croton River, wonderful views of the majestic Hudson; good schools, churches and stores very accessible; large shade trees; every plot a wonder view; tennis and other outdoor sports.

Within the Hour—100 Electric Trains Daily

One of the great travellers of our country says "that Westchester County is the most wonderful country he has ever seen and Harmon is the garden spot of Westchester County." Margaret Mayo, famous author, living at Harmon, says: "I have travelled the country over, but have found peace only at HARMON."

Call at office for free transportation to visit HARMON—any day. Special train Saturday at 2 P. M. Sunday morning, 11:30, city time. Lunch will be served at the Clubhouse.

THE MOST UNIQUE TENANT-OWNERSHIP IN MANHATTAN

NOS. 17 AND 19 EAST 95TH ST.

THE UNIQUE FEATURES ARE
(1) Superb location
(2) Low rent
(3) Small cash payments
(4) Selling price largely land value

AS TO LOCATION

These houses are in New York's social centre—on the same block and in the immediate vicinity are the mansions of many prominent New Yorkers.

AS TO RENTS

The rents of seven rooms are $70 to $100 per month

The rental value of these apartments are $120 to $165 per month

This saving in rent repays the cash investment in three years. In addition to the rents being very low, about 25% of the rent is applied to the reduction of mortgage.

AS TO CASH REQUIRED

The cash payment required runs from $1680 to $2400, which investment is repaid in three years by the difference between the rent and the rental value. This is equivalent to purchasing a 7 room dwelling in the social centre of the city on a cash payment of from $1680 to $2400.

AS TO LAND VALUE

In striking contrast to the usual tenant-ownership proposition is the fact that the land value of the plot, 7 x 100, on which these houses are built, is about 80% of the selling price—the constant increase in land value, due to location, will soon bring the land value up to 100% (and more) of the selling price.

We have sold a goodly number of these apartments. We are offering the balance to equally desirable tenants. The selling and leasing plan is simple and equitable. Inquiries gladly answered.

ADMITS ATTACK ON INTERCHURCH DRIVE

GIVES OUT TEXT OF LETTER

Ralph M. Easley, Chairman of the Executive Council of the National Civic Federation, yesterday made public a letter sent by him to members of his organisation shortly before the Interchurch World Movement's drive for $336,000,000 was launched. The letter ran:

"I am inclosing copies of interviews with four gentlemen in important positions in the Interchurch World Movement, the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ and the Young Men's Christian Association. You will be particularly interested in what they have to say, because at this time they are proposing to raise hundreds of millions of dollars for their work. As a churchman and a business man, I am sure you and your friends will be interested in this matter. There certainly ought to be no trouble in having the loyal American members of the Protestant churches have these men kicked out of their positions, or, at any rate, put in places where they cannot poison any one but themselves. Please return the inclosure."

Mr. Easley, who gave out the letter following publication of an article in The World yesterday which stated that among the forces that tended to thwart the Interchurch World Movement's drive for funds was the National Civic Federation. It was added that a report was sent by Mr. Easley with the letter quoted above to an official of the United States Steel Corporation that described some individuals prominently identified with the movement as radicals.

In a letter to The World yesterday Mr. Easley said that "on the evidence presented only I was involved in this alleged attempt and not the National Civic Federation." Of the letter quoted, he said yesterday:

"While I am not particularly proud of my diction nor my letter writing capacity, I see nothing in that letter to withdraw. I am neither ashamed of the motive I had in writing it, nor of the expressions of indignation that I failed to conceal—and personally, I am more in favor of having these men kicked out today than I was at that time, because of much additional information received. There is nothing in the letter suggesting that it should be shown to the United States Steel Corporation officials. The friends referred to were certain people high up in the church world, with which I understood this gentleman to be affiliated. The letter was sent to no enemy of the drive, but only to members or friends of the church. I myself was a subscriber to the Interchurch World Movement."

In further explanation of his position and that of the federation, Mr. Easley said:

"The Committee on the Study of Socialism in the Church consists of twenty-one clergymen and lay members of the churches of various denominations and its Chairman is Everett P. Wheeler. Soon after its organization, statements were made to the committee that in four important church organizations there were men occupying prominent positions who were utterly unfitted for their work because of their close sympathy and affiliation with the ultra-radical forces. These men were interviewed by a gentleman and his report was sent to all the head officials of the institutions concerned. The report of these interviews was sent to the members of the Executive Committee and to a few other members of the Civic Federation. One of these latter happens to be an employe of the United States Steel Corporation—and it was the letter sent to him which is the basis for The World's criticism.

"So far as the work of Mr. Wheeler's committee is concerned—that is, the study of the spread of Socialism in churches and church schools—a meeting of the full committee will soon be held, and until that time no one is authorized or even ready to make public its findings. Furthermore, an invitation has been sent to the Industrial Relations Department of the Interchurch World Movement to meet Mr. Wheeler's committee to discuss not only the present differences between them but the general question: 'Should Socialists, I. W. W.'ites, Bolsheviki or any of their sympathizers have a place in any Christian or American movement where they could promote their uneconomic, unpatriotic and atheistic doctrines?'"

Mr. Easley said by telephone from Washington last night that it was not in his power to reveal the identity of the four men criticized adversely in the report submitted with his letter.

"That is up to the committee," he said, "and will come out probably in connection with a vast amount of other work along the same lines that has been done. I merely gave publicity to my own letter to show that I had nothing to be ashamed of, and also to show that the responsibility for sending the information was mine alone."

DEPUTY SLAIN FROM AMBUSH

BLUEFIELD, W. Va., July 14.—B. H. Hatfield, a McDowell County Deputy Sheriff, was shot and killed from ambush tonight near Panther, W. Va. A posse of county officers is hunting for the murderers.

According to reports received here, the body of Hatfield was discovered near the railroad tracks by a train crew. Hatfield, a former miner, was sworn in as a deputy two weeks ago and had established headquarters at Panther, near the McDowell-Mingo line. A week ago his home at War Eagle was destroyed by fire.

The shooting from the mountains on the West Virginia side of Tug River, near Williamson, into Kentucky, which began this afternoon, was resumed tonight, according to information received here from Williamson.

A message said forty shots were fired by persons concealed in the heavy brush on the mountain side about 8 o'clock. The fire, it was said, was directed at the Leckie Coal Company property.

MOTOR BOAT ADRIFT IN GALE

Special to The New York Times.

NEW LONDON, Conn., July 14.—A telephone message was received at 9:39 standard time tonight from Fort Richie, L. I., thirteen miles distant, that assistance was needed immediately to rescue Captain Murray, keeper of Little Gull Island Light, and his wife, who were seen at dusk clinging to a power boat in the Race, the treacherous waters between Fisher Island and Little Gull Island, seven miles off New London harbor.

The Scott Wrecking Company immediately dispatched the tug Harriet and the Government officials sent word to the Coast Guard stations here and at Fisher's Island to send boats across Long Island Sound in an attempt to rescue the pair.

A high gale prevails and when last seen the keeper and his wife were still clinging to the craft, which was being blown rapidly out into the Atlantic.

MONTEREY ATTACKED; GONZALEZ INVOLVED

Former Presidential Candidate Is Reported with Rebels, Who Were Repulsed.

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MEXICO CITY, July 14.—The War Department has issued an official statement reporting that Monterey has been attacked by General Irene Villareal, who succeeded in capturing two military barracks. After a short fight the forces of Villareal were driven out, taking the direction of Laredo.

The commander of the garrison at Monterey reports to the War Department that the attack of Villareal was a pretext to allow General Pablo Gonzalez, ex-candidate for the Presidency, to escape. Gonzalez had been under close surveillance during the last two weeks owing to the revolts of Generals formerly under his command.

A wire from Linares states that the forces of Guajardo, who revolted during the last month, have been defeated and eighteen men and two rapid fire guns captured, practically his command.

A rumor, unconfirmed here, says that Brig. Gen. Gonzalez, nephew of Pablo, has revolted in the State of Oaxaca. Several arrests of former members of the Gonzalez forces were made here today.

MEXICO CITY, July 14 (By Associated Press).—Dr. Alvaro Torre Diaz, until recently confidential agent of Provisional President de la Huerta in Washington, said he was well impressed with the attitude of the United States towards the new government in Mexico, according to an interview in El Universal this morning.

Dr. Diaz arrived here yesterday and reported to President de la Huerta, the conference lasting two hours.

Villa Demanded Old Constitution.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, July 14.—Restoration of the Constitution of 1857 and the abolition of the Constitution of 1917, which is now in force, is the principal demand contained in a copy of Francisco Villa's manifesto to the de la Huerta Government, which has reached here from Villa's camp south of the Big Bend district.

The immediate resignation of General P. Elias Calles from the portfolio of Minister of War and Marine, the withdrawal of all Federal officers from the Obregonista army in Chihuahua, and that Francisco Villa be authorized to name one of his Generals Commander of the North, in charge of all operations in the State of Chihuahua.

Failure to comply with any or all of these demands would cause Villa to reopen hostilities in Northern Mexico and "begin a new reign of terror," according to the manifesto.

Aircraft Manufacturers Elect.

The Manufacturers Aircraft Association, at its annual meeting yesterday, re-elected Albert H. Flint, Vice President of the L. W. F. Engineering Company, President, and Frank H. Russell of the Curtiss Aeroplane and Motor Corporation, Secretary. J. K. Robinson, Jr., of the Gallaudet Aircraft Corporation was elected Vice President, and F. H. Rentschler of the Wright Aeronautic Corporation, was elected Treasurer. The directors were re-elected and A. V. Crary of the Curtiss Aeroplane and Motor Corporation was added to the board.

10,000 ON STRIKE IN TAMPICO FIELDS

Nearly 20,000 More Are Idle in Oil Region—Strikers Demand 75 Per Cent. Rise.

MEXICO CITY, July 14.—Ten thousand workers in the petroleum field around Tampico struck, according to reports received by the Department of Labor, Industry and Commerce, and private advices state that the number of men idle is nearly twice that figure. The men demand a wage increase amounting to 75 per cent.

The strike will affect United States interests more seriously than Mexican, according to interviews with workers printed in the Excelsior.

Last year 15,000 families emigrated from Mexico to Texas alone, the Secretary of Commerce and Labor announces, according to El Universal today.

The newspaper quotes Provisional President de la Huerta as saying that lack of work in Mexico and better pay in the United States were the reason for the exodus, which was aggravated by recent strikes in Mexico.

JAIL FOR 33 SPEEDERS.

Brooklyn Magistrate Executes Threat Against Reckless Drivers.

Following the warning he gave last week to automobile speeders, Magistrate Fish in the Traffic Court in Brooklyn yesterday imposed jail sentences of from one to three days upon thirty-three offenders who were found guilty before him. The Magistrate had stated that mere fines did not seem to deter many traffic violators from repeating the offense and that he would see what effect trips to jail would have.

In addition an average fine of $25 was imposed in each case.

Legacy for Holy Trinity P. E. Church

The will filed here yesterday of Ann Elizabeth Shepard, who died May 14 at her residence, 253 West 128th Street, gives her residuary estate to Holy Trinity Episcopal Church at 122d Street and Lenox Avenue, of which Dr. Harry P. Nichols is rector and where she was a communicant. A bequest of $100 is made to Dr. Nichols and a legacy of $500 to Christ Episcopal Church in Poughkeepsie is among other small legacies set out in the will.
